IN POLICE COURT A.O.H. CONVENTION

Drink Causes Disturbance in Many Families

At 5.30 o'clock last evening Patrolmen Breaud and Abbott were attracted by the noise to a house in Tucker street where they found two men and two women very much under the influence of liquor. When booked at the police station they gave the names of Eugene Hamel, Estelle Hamel, Louis St. George and Georgia LaRose. St. George was released.

The court found the trio guilty and fined Hamel $5, while the women were fined $2 each.

Other Offenders

Peter J. Cullen, charged with being drunk, was sentenced to six months at the house of correction in Cambridge.

Threatened to Kill His Wife

Richard J. Murphy was charged with drunkenness and he admitted that he had imbibed freely of late, but he promised to do better in the future if he were given one more chance. Everything looked good for Richard until his wife put in an appearance and her testimony was to the effect that he had threatened her life and fearing that he would do her bodily harm she sent for a patrolman. The court, however, decided that there was a chance for Murphy to reform and he was given a suspended sentence of three months in jail.

Case Continued

Lena Guilfooy and Mary Tremblay were each charged with assault and battery on Rose E. Sells on the 18th of August, but by agreement the case was continued till next Saturday.

Frank Shaley was charged with stealing 20 barrels of flour, each barrel of the value of $5, but owing to the fact that there is another man who it is alleged was implicated in the transaction the case was continued till Saturday.

Drunken Offenders

William H. Dever, who has appeared in court on numerous occasions, was arraigned before Judge Hadley this morning. He is on parole from the state farm and will be returned to that institution.

Stole a Pair of Shoes

Martin Wallace was charged with the larceny of a pair of shoes valued at 90 cents, the property of Jacob Nannis. He entered a plea of not guilty, claiming that the shoes had been given him to pawn, but his story was rather flimsy.

Patrolman Daniel Cogger testified that while passing the South common shortly before noon yesterday he saw Wallace endeavoring to put the shoes on his feet. He became suspicious and questioned Wallace and the story told by the latter was incoherent, and the man was sent to the police station.

This morning the arresting officer learned that the shoes had been taken from Nannis' store in Middlesex street. Nannis when placed on the stand identified the shoes as belonging to him, but his memory was very poor. He could not remember when he saw the shoes last, neither could he remember if he had sold them. All that he knew was that the shoes were once his.

Wallace said that he got the shoes from a little German stonecutter, who is working on the new storehouse of the Massachusetts. He said the shoes were given him to pawn for 20 cents in order that they could get beer.

The court asked Wallace if he would like to have the case continued in order that the little German could be brought in to testify. He said that he would, but later said he did not like to have the case delayed. The court, however, decided to allow the case to go over till Monday morning.

Tired of Her Husband's Actions

Mrs. James Flannery said that she was tired of the manner in which her husband had been acting of late. He was before the court on a charge of drunkenness and admitted that he had been drinking heavily. Mrs. Flannery said that he was all right when sober, but when he was under the influence of liquor he refused to work, abused and threatened her. She is willing to support her children if he will only keep away from her. The court, feeling that a reconciliation is possible, continued the case until next Saturday and in the meantime Flannery will go to jail.

Raid in Hudson Street

A house in Hudson street was the scene of a lively and boisterous party yesterday afternoon, when Patrolmen E. J. Connors and O'Sullivan made an appearance.

Word was telephoned to the police station and when the wagon was backed up to the door Richard Welch, William J. Durlam, Mary Leonard, Agnes B. Hartley and Winifred Wrenn were piled in and given a ride. At the police station they were booked for drunkenness.

In police court this morning Welch pleaded guilty and it looked as though he might escape with a fine, but when the court was informed that he had been fined $6 a few weeks ago and given 30 days to pay it in and had failed to pay the fine he was sentenced to the state farm.

Durlam was fined $6 as was the Hartley woman. The Wrenn woman will spend the next 10 days in jail and Mary Leonard escaped with a fine of $2.

FRENCH CONVICT

Is Ordered to Be Deported

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Pierre Bailly, a French convict who smuggled himself into Boston a year ago aboard a sugar steamer from San Domingo, has been ordered deported by Assistant Secretary of Commerce and Labor Cable.

Bailly is said to have escaped from the penal station at Cayenne, French Guiana, and is credited with a long record of crime. Under the law the steamship company will have to carry him back, and eventually he will be returned to the penal colony at Cayenne. He is now being held at the New York police.

According to the New York police, Bailly, a year ago, was arrested and held for safe keeping and attempted burglary. He defrauded his bail of $5000 and was recently retaken. His criminal record in Europe, according to the department of commerce and labor, shows seven convictions and sentences ranging from six days up. He is said to have escaped from Cayenne in 1896.

LIVELY RUNAWAY

HORSE CREATED EXCITEMENT IN BROADWAY

A horse belonging to the Independent Beef and Provision company created considerable excitement in Broadway, Dummer and Market streets early last evening when it ran away and narrowly escaped colliding with several vehicles and running over children.

The horse was standing in Broadway near the corner of School street when it became frightened and ran through Broadway at a breakneck speed. Near the corner of Willie street the wagon attached to the runaway bumped into a light wagon belonging to Keefe Bros., but did little damage.

When the horse reached the Mann school it turned into Dummer street and narrowly escaped running over a number of children who were playing in the street. In attempting to turn the corner of Dummer into Market street the horse struck a stone post and was thrown to the pavement. The animal broke one of the shafts and tore a portion of the harness from the animal's back and in freeing himself from the wagon he again started down Market street but was brought to a stop by Dan Crane. The horse was slightly cut but outside of this was apparently little the worse for his wild run. But for the shafts the wagon was little damaged.

A.O.H. CONVENTION

Grand Ball, Parade and Banquet Among the Features of the Week—Arrangements for Entertaining the Delegates

All up for Hibernian Week! All indications point to the biggest week that Lowell has had for many a year.

While the decorations began to appear last Wednesday there was no general rush until today and from early morning decorators, professional and amateur, have been bustling with their bundling and other exterior adornments and judging from what was observed along the streets this morning Lowell will be generally decorated by Monday.

Chief Marshal Humphrey O'Sullivan of the big Hibernian parade which is to be the crowning feature of the week was too busy this morning to give any extended interview to the Sun reporter. He said: "It is impossible at this time to give out the complete roster of the parade but I can say that the parade will come up to expectations and will be a rousing affair. All we need is good weather to make the parade a grand success."

Appleton and Lawrence

See. Murphy this morning received communications from the Appleton and Lawrence companies informing him that any employees desiring to absent themselves from work to see the parade would be allowed to do so.

Program of Celebration

Barring minor details as yet to be completed, the program for Hibernian week will be as follows:

The delegates will be met upon their arrival and shown to their quarters by the members of the committee.

Monday Evening: The week will open with a grand concert and ball in Associate hall. The Middlesex orchestra will furnish music. The general manager of the ball will be James E. Burns; floor director, Bernard Gagan.

TEXTILE SITUATION

Rather Dull But Not Without Its Encouraging Aspects

Several Local Mills Will Have a Brief Vacation—The Reports Show Financial Condition As to Assets and Liabilities

The textile business in Lowell is especially quiet, but conditions here are as hopeful as in other textile centres. A quiet period as yet unrelieved through the combination of a high cotton market and a low quotation for the finished product is responsible for the quiet that prevails. The great number of new mills shows that mill men have great confidence in the future.

Most of the mills are taking a vacation. The Massachusetts, Tremont & Suffolk and Hamilton mills will close next Saturday for a two week vacation. The Lawrence Mfg. Co. is running only five days a week at the present time and while it was reported that this company would close substantially for two weeks some time this month, it was stated today that the company had not as yet decided upon a vacation.

The Boot and the Appleton mills will probably take a vacation but it was stated at the offices of these mills today that nothing definite in the line of a vacation had been decided upon.

The following from the Wool and Cotton Reporter, of even date, relative to Lowell mills will be of interest to the general public:

Massachusetts Cotton Mills

The Massachusetts cotton mills are now rushing the work on their new building, for the construction of which the new stock was issued earlier in the year. This new mill will greatly increase the earning capacity for this well-managed corporation, and undoubtedly by the time it has been completed the business will have picked up to such an extent that the company will be able to put it into operation at once. It is true, that on the present capital of $3,000,000, increased from $1,800,000 last February, the company will have to earn $240,000 in order to keep its dividend at the rate of 8 per cent annum. This, of course, means that the company will have to earn almost $100,000 more than formerly. Last year the company showed a substantial surplus after dividends, so that when the new mill gets into operation no fear need be felt as to where dividends are going to come from.

The stock of this corporation has been on the advance during the past week at 120, at which price it yields 6 2-3 per cent. For an eight per cent stock which is non-taxable in Massachusetts, this looks to be an attractive purchase, which in the course of a year or so can be turned over at a profit of $10 or $15 per share in addition to the dividends which shall have been received. The installation on the new stock comes due in October, and the final in February 1911, when the new stock becomes available.

Merrimack Mfg. Co.

Although Treasurer Greene has denied that the Pacific mills planning to take over part of the Merrimack Mfg. Co. is now felt generally in mill circles that the time is not far distant when the former will take over the print works plant of the latter at least. As we have indicated for a year and a half, this has been the natural bent of affairs, and as a matter of fact, such an event will surprise no one. For ever since the Pacific mills absorbed the Cochecho plant, at Dover, they have believed that they were after the Merrimack. In fact, the print works of the Merrimack Mfg. Co.'s plant is the only large plant east of Providence which the Pacific mills do not now own. Years ago, when the Manchester Print Works became extinct, the equipment went to the Cochecho mills, which in turn were absorbed by the Pacific mills. Then, recently, the Pacific mills bought the print works of the Merrimack Mfg. Co. which is now a natural move than that the Pacific mills should take over the equipment of the Merrimack Mfg. Co.'s print works. The construction work now taking place on the property which the Pacific mills purchased in Lawrence is going on rapidly, and while many suspect that here will be located a great print works when all the equipment with that of the Merrimack, together with that of the Merrimack Mfg. Co. will be centralized, the utmost secrecy being observed, and no information concerning the plans has been made public up to the present time. The Merrimack Mfg. Co. has 24 printing machines, and a conservative estimate of the value of its print works is $1,000,000.

Under a centralized plant this equipment could be made to show better earnings, and the transfer would actually be a benefit to both companies, and it would add to the value of both the common and the preferred stock. Even at the present time there is a connecting link between both companies, for Arthur F. Lyman is president of both and his son, Herbert Lyman, is treasurer of the Merrimack. Every indication points to the fact that the common stock of the company is being acquired by certain interests and in upwards of three weeks the stock has

Lowell Bleachery

Few companies can show the improvement which has taken place in the affairs of the Lowell Bleachery within the past two years or more. When the capital of this company was last reported it was $1,000,000. The management of the company has not only paid the regular dividend, but increased it from 6 per cent in 1908 to 8 per cent in 1909, and likewise paid an extra of 10 per cent on January 1 of the present year. And unless all signs fail the stockholders are going to receive another extra before the end of the year.

This extra will certainly be as large as the last, but as to whether it will be in the shape of a cash dividend or a stock dividend which could easily be done by increasing the present very conservative capitalization, no one seems to know. With the stock quoted at 200 and paying 8 per cent, mill share investors are going to make a mistake in buying any of the stock which they may be able to pick up. For their stock is going to be worth considerably more than this figure before long. There are, however, only 2,000 shares of this stock closely held, we doubt very much if there is any of it to be obtained at the figure quoted. A comparison of the statement for last three fiscal years follows, and should prove interesting to investors at large as well as particularly pleasing to the stockholders of the company:

WRIGHTS' NEW BIPLANE BEING USED BY BROOKINS

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 20.—Wright brothers' new aeroplane without front elevating planes is now being used by Walter Brookins in his flights at Interlaken field. The new machine is the result of experiments by the Wright brothers to secure greater steadiness. It is frankly a freak machine, with but a small elevating plane in connection with the tail and is capable of carrying four persons besides the pilot. Brookins seems to have lost none of his nerve as the result of his recent accident, in which eleven spectators besides himself were injured, when his machine was badly smashed in alighting. The inventors expect to make some record flights with the new machine and may attempt to take the laurels from A. J. Drexel, Jr., for altitude.

HE LOST $1700 DEATH OF CHILD

Tourist Caught in the Is the Cause of An "Handkerchief Game" Investigation

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—The "handkerchief game" worked by Joseph Deusebio of the North End on Andrew Horgan of San Francisco while the latter was here on his way to Ireland, netted Deusebio an English draft of $1700 and $44 in cash.

Horgan, after a two weeks' search, succeeded in pointing Deusebio out to the police, and the latter was arrested yesterday held in $2500 for the grand jury. Horgan's trip to Ireland is temporarily postponed.

Deusebio and a companion had a few drinks with Horgan and then offered to entrust him with their money for safe keeping. Each handed out a "roll" consisting largely of paper. The three rolls were wrapped in a handkerchief. Later Deusebio handed Horgan another handkerchief containing an old padlock. Then the pair made their getaway.

Several days ago Deusebio tried to cash the draft on State street, but payment was refused and the draft was turned over to the police. At headquarters he explained that his companion had first tried to work the handkerchief game on him and they had agreed to go into partnership. Horgan was their first victim.

Shaw Stocking Co.

On Jan. 1 of the present year, the stock of the Shaw Stocking Co. was quoted at $125 per share. It is doubtful if a share could be purchased at a figure below this even today, and in the seven months which have intervened the stock has shown but a fractional decline, a few shares selling at private sale at 121 1/2. This, to us, is a very strong indication of the investment value of this stock; for it has had to be an unusually strong concern whose shares have not shown a decline of from 5 to 10 points during the past five or six months, or in other words, since the depressed conditions in the textile industry set in. While many shares are today selling higher than they were several months ago, they nevertheless show a decline under the figures at which they were quoted at the beginning of the year. As previously stated, however, the shares of the Shaw Stocking company remained practically firm.

As a matter of fact, these shares have never shown any serious decline, dropping down only to 110 at the time of the last panic, which figure, by the way, is the lowest point they have touched for over 10 years, at least. The shares of this company form what we believe to be a good investment for the most careful investor. For while they are not so attractive as some other mill shares from the point of view of dividends in the way of extras, the dividend record of the company is one of the best of grounds for believing that stockholders may expect both in good times and bad, dividends, at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, which, buying their stock at 120, gives them a return of about 4 1/2 per cent on their investment. This is certainly an ample return on a stock which has paid regular dividends of 6 per cent on par continuously for the past 20 years. During this period, although not within the last 10 years, the company has also paid occasional extras.

The local mills of the Bigelow Carpet company closed today, for two weeks.

CHIEF OF POLICE HIS WILL FILED

Says That He Tasted Spiritualist Left Nothing to the Society

WATERTOWN, Aug. 20.—Chief Cooney of the local police department was called upon in court yesterday to test a package of wet goods alleged to have been seized by his men in a recent liquor raid on the drug stores in this town.

The firm involved in yesterday's trial was that of the East Watertown Drug company, and the contents of a bottle produced by the police as evidence was being questioned.

Chief Cooney was asked how he knew that his men had secured whiskey, as had been alleged. He admitted that his belief was because the bottles were labelled whiskey. "Being the chief of police and let him test the contents of one of the bottles," commanded Judge Abbott.

The chief tasted, made a wry face, and exclaimed: "It's whiskey, but I believe that it must be of a pretty poor brand."

John T. Bailey, for 11 years had been a conductor for the Boston Elevated company, was the principal witness in the cases against the drug company in which it was charged with the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors.

The cases were tried before Judge Abbott at Waltham, James H. Vahey appearing for the defence and Attorney William Abbott for the government. F. S. Cunniff, chairman of the selectmen, who directed the raids on the drug stores, was sworn in as a witness and coached the town's attorney.

Bailey testified that he had gone to the store on three different occasions and had purchased half a pint of whiskey each time. He said he bought one bottle from W. R. Brown, manager of the store, and two from Mihren Jarredunian, a clerk.

50 CENTS A WEEK

ALLOWED FOR THE SUPPORT OF HIS WIFE

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—"If a magistrate ordered a man to pay but fifty cents a week to his wife for her support," said Justice Page yesterday in the supreme court, "it is absurd and I will examine the papers submitted."

Francesco Napoli Calderone was suing for temporary alimony and a fee for her lawyer pending the trial of her suit for separation.

Counsel for Calderone surprised the court by announcing that the application should not be entertained for the reason that Magistrate Corrigan in the police court had ordered Calderone to pay his wife fifty cents a week for her support.

"Fifty cents a week!" remarked Justice Page, in evident surprise.

"If a magistrate made such an order," he continued, "it is absurd and I will examine the papers and determine what allowance this plaintiff should have."

Mrs. Calderone set forth she was married to the defendant June 29, 1903; that she was 62 years old, and was a widow when she was married to Calderone. She said she was a widow with several children.

She said she once found a bank book belonging to her husband which showed that he had $1200 in bank. Calderone set out that he was a lemon peddler, selling from door to door, and making from $2.50 to $3 a week.

FETE CHAMPETRE

PARTY HELD LAST NIGHT AT ST. LOUIS HALL

An entertaining donkey party was held in St. Louis hall last night for the benefit of the fete champetre. There was a large attendance, and the affair proved to be a social as well as a financial success.

Of course the feature of the evening was the pinning of tails on the donkeys, which furnished plenty of amusement. After all had tried their skill, it was found that Mr. Pierre Farreau had come the nearest to placing the tail where it belonged. Miss Monique Harvey was second, and Miss Marianna Piche third, while the fourth prize went to Mr. Martineau. The bottles were given to Miss A. Caron and Mr. Elzeur Veinay.

After the donkey fun was over, a charming musical program was given. Mr. John Lebeau gave a humorous monologue and dance. The Centerville quartet and the Jolly Five club sang, and Messrs. George Labranche and Arcole Brunelle sang comic songs. E. C. Gauvin had charge of the program.

Dr. Crippen and His Affinity Start for Liverpool

QUEBEC, Aug. 20.—Dr. Crippen and Miss Ethel Leneve were taken from the provincial jail this morning in separate cabs and driven rapidly westward. The couple, in charge of Detectives Dew and Mitchell and the two wardens, it is understood will board the Megantic which touched here early yesterday, and departs at 7 o'clock for Liverpool.

The detectives with Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve will probably meet the Megantic with a tug at Cape Rouge, seven miles from Quebec, on the St. Lawrence river, where the couple can be quietly placed aboard the steamship. Great secrecy was observed by the detectives in removing the prisoners from the jail as it was desired to avoid a demonstration.

DETECTIVE MURDERED

Famous Sleuth Shot to Death at New York Boat House

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—George Gostelli, a New York detective who was well known for his enormous strength, was murdered early today. He was killed in a fight with a crowd at the landing of the Seawanhaka Yacht club boathouse here. His assailant escaped. Gostelli had been acting as keeper of the boathouse during the summer while he was recuperating from a bullet wound received last spring while chasing a burglar.

Gostelli had had trouble with a crowd of men who were loitering about the boathouse. A week ago he drove them away. Half a dozen of them went to the boathouse last night and again Gostelli drove them away. They returned in a few minutes, one with a shotgun. Three shots were fired, two by the detective's revolver and one from the shotgun. Gostelli fell dead on the wharf. Gostelli came to America several years ago from Denmark. He said little of his past life. He prized greatly a seal ring on which was a coat of arms and was believed here to be a member of a noble family.

WOMAN EVICTED

Is Said to Be Worth $30,000,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Miss Dellina Richardson, said to be worth more than $30,000,000, was evicted yesterday from the home in which she had lived since her birth, 50 years ago, because she would not surrender possession to the man to whom she had sold it. A city marshal finally had to chop his way through the front door.

Miss Richardson is one of the wealthiest women in the world. When her father, Joseph Richardson, died in 1837 she inherited the bulk of his great fortune, and has since lived frugally with a maid and cook. Although she sold her home she would never allow the buyer on the premises and he had to make his plans for rebuilding it from outside observations.

While the marshal's men pried the decayed old-fashioned furniture on the sidewalk Miss Richardson followed them about protesting that their actions were outrageous and that she would complain to Mayor Gaynor.

KILLED BY AN AUTO

Lowell Boy Victim of Accident at Salem

As the result of having been run over by a big touring car on Essex street, in front of the Lynde block in Salem, about 6 o'clock Thursday night, John Charles McManemon, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McManemon of 25 Essex street, died about 10.30 in the evening at the Salem hospital. Young McManemon, whose skull was fractured and whose right leg was broken, as a result of being knocked down and run over, never regained consciousness.

According to witnesses of the accident the lad jumped from a wagon on which he was riding and stepped directly in front of a large touring car owned and operated by William Wallace Benjamin of West Somerville. The car was proceeding at an ordinary rate of speed, but the boy appeared so suddenly in front of the machine that he was not observed until struck.

Cornelius Dubitzky saw the accident while in Bixby's furniture store in the Lynde block and ran out and picked up the unconscious boy. Dr. Elliott chanced along just then in his auto and took the injured lad to the hospital, where everything possible was done for him, but it was found that his skull had been fractured and he failed to regain consciousness.

Mr. Benjamin, as soon as he saw that the boy was cared for, proceeded to the police station and gave his name and his account of the unfortunate occurrence. He was not detained. The car was a large, six-seater one, and carried five lady passengers, besides Mr. Benjamin.

John Charles McManemon, the victim of the accident, was one of two children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McManemon of 25 Essex street, Salem. He was born in Lowell, July 7, 1900. An older sister survives him, besides the parents. The family had recently moved to Salem, and the lad was a pupil at St. Mary's school.

Mr. McManemon, the father of the unfortunate lad, had been employed until recently by the D. Gage Ice Co. of this city and lives at 23 West Adams street. He had not been notified of his son's death until last night after word had been received at the local police station.

For the past couple of years misfortune has followed the McManemon family. In less than a year and a half Mr. and Mrs. McManemon have lost three children and the recent fatality brings the number up to four.

The funeral took place in Salem this afternoon.

ONE MAN KILLED

Several Injured in Various Parts of Boston

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—The police received reports of an unusual number of accidents caused by falling stages yesterday although there was only one which resulted fatally.

A platform gave way at 63 Myrtle street, and a skilled workman, Abraham Brothsky of North Anderson street, fell five stories to the pavement and was almost instantly killed. The body was moved to the North Grove street morgue.

Israel Schekter of 7 Ashland street and Israel Kat of 37 Garden street were on a section of the staging that collapsed, but they jumped to a firmer part and were uninjured.

The Relief Hospital received several injured men from Lewis wharf when staging collapsed. The victims were Carl T. Huber, 30, of 280 Quincy street, who received contusions and a sprained back; Henry James, 29, of 135 Main street, Medford, who sustained contusions and abrasions; John McKean, 29, of 19 Murray street, Wakefield, who was thrown into the water, but was taken out practically uninjured, and Ezekiel Hill of 62 Grampan way, who received slight contusions about the head and neck.

Yesterday morning Joseph Talano of 154 Everett street fell from a staging 40 feet to the ground at the Metropolitan nursing station on Federal street, near the old Chelsea bridge. He is on the dangerous list at the East Boston Relief hospital.

LIQUOR LICENSE

HAS BEEN SUSPENDED FOR THREE DAYS

WORCESTER, Aug. 20.—The liquor license of the E. S. Pierce company at 69, 71 and 73 Mechanic street, a large wholesale house, was suspended yesterday by the license commissioners for a period of three days as the result of charges preferred against the concern by the police department.

Chief Matthews charged that a driver for the place delivered liquor from his wagon that had not been ordered from the store.

The commissioners held E. S. Pierce, the head of the concern, blameless of any personal violation of the conditions of the license, but held that the concern is responsible for the acts of its employees.

"They set forth their decision in the following message to the chief:

"Upon complaint of David A. Matthews, chief of police, against E. S. Pierce company, doing business at 69, 71 and 73 Mechanic street, for violation of their license to sell intoxicating liquors in the city of Worcester until May 1, 1911, the board finds the licensees guilty of the violation charged but by reason of the personal knowledge on the part of the licensees of the unlawful act of its employees, but by reason of the responsibility of the licensees for the acts of their employees, and voted that the license be suspended for three days. In view of the large stock of perishable goods on hand, voted that the period of suspension be from 1 p. m. Saturday, Aug. 20, to 1 p. m. Wednesday, Aug. 24, 1910."

A similar charge against the firm of Sterner and Anderson, doing a wholesale business at 88 1/2 Summer street, was not sustained by the evidence given at the hearing, although the commissioners sent an official warning to the licensees to keep their delivery sheets more accurately.

REWARD OF $200

Offered for Capture of Nicholas Capsalis

The police of Somersworth, N. H., have offered a reward of $200 for the arrest of Nicholas Capsalis, who is suspected of having strangled to death Marcella Capsalis and afterwards put her body in a barrel in the cellar of her home. The reward will be paid for the body of the man either dead or alive.

Word was sent to the local police last night relative to the reward and the members of the department were again notified to keep a close watch for the man, who it is thought may be in hiding in this city.

BRAVE SAILOR

Saved the Lives of Several Persons

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 20.—Second class baker James McGlone of the battleship Rhode Island, well earned the clambake citizens of Newport gave for the men of the Atlantic fleet yesterday afternoon by saving three girls and many more people from being injured by a horse running wild.

The horse had been unhitched and started into the crowd and but for the quick efforts of one of Admiral Schreder's men death might have resulted.

Whether McGlone, who comes from Natick, Mass., was ever a circus performer could not be learned, but he knows something about horses. When the horse took him over two stone walls and landed on terra firma the baker from the Rhode Island was also there standing upright.

"That's nothing," McGlone said afterward. "The girls and others were in danger. I had a good clambake and did what anyone else would do. I was nearer the horse and it was my turn, that's all."

Baker McGlone seemed unimpaired of the bruises on his hands until Robert Laurie of Mansfield, Mass., formerly of Newport, called his attention to the deep wounds.

TERRIFIC BLOW

Unconscious Pugilist Taken to Hospital

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—In the second round of what was to have been a six round bout at the Frankford Athletic club here last night, Freddie Custer was sent to the mat by a terrific swing to the jaw. He was taken to the Frankford hospital unconscious and remains in that condition.

His opponent, "Spike" Sullivan, his seconds and the manager of the club surrendered themselves to the police.

EMPLOYEES MAD

Strike is Threatened in Worcester

WORCESTER, Aug. 20.—Increased because the Worcester Consolidated street railway company is said to contemplate changing an old rule relative to their Sunday pay, which will virtually wipe out, they claim, the recent increase granted by an arbitration board to the street car men of the city, the union members assembled in special session last night and voted to absolutely insist upon the old arrangement.

Under the old plan the trolley men have been paid for the time of the first runs in the morning, which never go out on Sunday. Every line in the city skips the first morning run on Sunday, but the men have always been paid for this time and now understand that this policy is to be dropped and pay allowed only for the actual time served.

No official notification to this effect has been received, however.

Claiming that it was specifically stated in submitting the wage question to an arbitration board that it was understood that "local conditions should remain unchanged," the men voted to insist that this alleged new move on the part of the company was changing a local condition and therefore in violation of the agreement reached and subscribed to a week ago.

The local union officials wired national headquarters in Detroit yesterday for a national officer to come to Worcester and attempt an adjustment of the matter. The men say that this new change would practically wipe out the advance of 1 to 1 1/2 cents an hour, and in some instances would more than wipe it out.

On the suburban lines the early Sunday cars start more than two hours after the usual schedule and the old employees who formerly received extra pay for their service stripes will actually lose money with that custom abolished and the loss of Sunday time, the men claim.

The sentiment of the men last night was strongly in favor of a strike if necessary to settle the controversy and voted absolutely to insist upon the full pay on Sundays.

General Manager Henry C. Page of the Consolidated was not in the city yesterday and no official statement for the company was given out.

BANK PRESIDENT'S STATEMENT

BIDDEFORD, Aug. 20.—An opinion expressed by a local attorney that the bonding company by which Richmond H. Ingersoll, ex-treasurer of the York County savings bank was bonded could be held for the amount of the bond, $20,000 for each year that the present shortage covers, had gained such wide circulation yesterday that President Prescott of the bank issued a personal statement giving his version last night.

Mr. Prescott states that he has care-

CARRYING A FAD TOO FAR

Trees about one's place are very beautiful and serviceable, but sometimes they are apt to be dangerous, particularly when we have too many of them. A few trees about a place serve to shade the premises in very hot weather, but it would be better to have no trees at all than to have too much shade.

All physicians and sanitary engineers agree that it is impossible to keep a dwelling house healthful and sanitary without a reasonable amount of sunlight. It is an old saying: "If the sunlight does not enter a house the doctor surely will." Nevertheless, we find thoughtless people protesting against cutting down shade trees in front of premises whose occupants are suffering for want of sunlight to drive out dampness and disease germs which always lurk where the sun does not enter. We have had several instances of this short-sightedness in our city, notably on Nesmith street which has altogether too many shade trees, and the result is a street that is hardly ever free from dampness. Not only are the trees in this street and many other streets of the city a menace to the health of the people residing under their crowded branches, but the trees themselves become diseased because they are set too close together. All this comes from setting out young trees improperly. While the trees are young, of course, they have no ill effect upon the adjoining premises nor upon one another, but when they attain full size they damage one another as well as the adjoining property.

Anyone who is competent to talk on the subject of shade trees will agree that large shade trees should be set at least thirty feet apart, otherwise they will become diseased in a short time after reaching full size. This is the deplorable state of affairs on Nesmith street, Chestnut street, and many other streets in our city, and worst of all, in a few years these streets may be entirely destitute of trees, unless the present rotting shade trees are thinned out so as to be about thirty feet apart.

Many people protest against taking down shade trees, because they don't want to lose them, but there is another side to the question. Common sense should govern this as well as all other propositions.

CITY CHARTER REFORM

The cities of the west are rapidly adopting the commission form of charter and with the most gratifying results. The old style of charter such as hampers our own city is condemned as cumbersome, a hindrance to the free and unobstructed transaction of business, a block to progress, the nursery of graft and a remnant of bygone days that should be thrown aside.

The cities that have adopted the new form of charter are prospering as they could never have done under the old and hide bound instruments which they discarded.

The new charters are of the Des Moines style or a modification thereof. They do away with the double chamber, provide for a small council with legislative and executive powers. By this means the transaction of business is facilitated and responsibility is centered so that if things are done right the people know where the credit lies and if wrong they know equally where to place the blame.

The city of Chelsea is making wonderful progress under the commission form of government. There is no chance for the deadlock so frequent under our charter.

With the three branches the chief executive, the upper and lower boards, valuable time is lost in bringing about an agreement on certain measures. What originates in one board is regarded with suspicion by the other board and then the latter retaliates in rejecting measures sent to it for concurrence. When both boards concur, the mayor may dissent and then there is more wrangling, more delay. Furthermore, it is very seldom that any measure passed by the city council in its present form represents the best judgment of both bodies. There is a lack of that calm and unselfish deliberation that characterizes the acts of a small governing body.

If Lowell is to get out of her present difficulties and to secure an up-to-date progressive method of doing business she must put aside the present antiquated charter and adopt one that will provide for a single chamber vested with all the powers now exercised by the mayor and city council.

For years certain necessary reforms and improvements have been advocated but with the deadlocking of the city council branches or committees thereof, nothing has been done and nothing can be done. Had we a single chamber made up of business men the city's business would be disposed of with ability and despatch instead of being held up by the wrangles, the political scheming and needless dickering of the bicameral council or some of its committees. It is a fact patent to every citizen that under our present system we cannot elect men of the highest ability, to office. This in itself is an evil that should bring about a change in the charter at the earliest possible opportunity which of course cannot be before next year. We want a charter that will secure the very best men we can find to transact the city's business, one that will do away with deadlocks that block business however urgent and that will at the same time conserve the city's best interests in every direction.

As to the real form of charter, if the commission form be not favored let it be a modification in the direction of simplicity, despatch and reliability. These changes can be secured only by a single chamber of moderate size on which power and responsibility will be firmly centered so that the citizens will have no difficulty in placing responsibility where it belongs, rewarding the good and punishing the bad. Our present system scatters responsibility and power so that there is conflict of authority and no matter what happens the people are practically without a remedy unless where evidence of corruption or conspiracy can be proved. It is not alone necessary that public officials be honest and upright, it is also necessary that they be men of sound business judgment, that they possess more than average executive ability, with some experience to fit them for public office. It is impossible to secure a council of such men under our present charter.

SEEN AND HEARD

An insurance company, in which you have to die to win, issues a pretty little publication, sort of magazine, containing among other things, hopeful verses, which flow along with the "be happy and live long" swing, and by the time a fellow gets through reading those little "elixirs of life" he feels that his life insurance policy is a luxury rather than a necessity.

She came back to Lowell from Bass Point, bringing with her pleasant memories of a vacation delightfully spent and the dearest and tenderest of all her recollections had to do with a very nice young man. She knew that it was foolish of her to continue to think of him; it was only a chance acquaintance, made in the same old seashore way, but the harder she tried to forget the harder it was to forget, and she lapsed into a state of absent-mindedness that was embarrassing, to say the least. The climax was reached while the girl, trying hard to forget, was on a Pawtucketville car. She was accompanied by her sister, and the latter motioned the conductor to stop the car. The absent-minded sister observed the motion and still thinking of Bass Point and the new, quick love that filled her heart, stepped from the car while it was in motion. For a few minutes the poor girl's mind was relieved of all thoughts of Bass Point and its masculine attraction, and by the time she had collected her parcels and her scattered senses, likewise a shoe which came off in the mixup, she vowed that she would forget Bass Point and all that went with it, or die in the attempt.

The bell-hopper was leaning on the counter in the office of a local hotel, working a toothpick over his shoulder, when a traveler came in and, addressing the boy, said, "What are your rates?" The boy gave the toothpick an extra push and replied, "I get nine dollars a week and my board I don't know what the other fellows get."

"I'm afraid," he said, "your father would never give his consent to our marriage."

"Oh, I am quite sure he would be willing to listen to reason," she replied. "Your mother never has seemed to like me very well."

"I can't understand why you should think that. Mamma has always said she thought you were a very nice fellow."

"I fear you would not like my family."

"I think your father and mother are both as nice as can be."

"You know I couldn't support you in the style to which you have been accustomed."

"It will probably be impossible for me to afford even a cook."

"I have always thought that it would be so lovely to have a cook little home, where I might do the cooking myself."

THINGS TO FORGET

If you see a tall fellow ahead of a crowd—

A leader of men marching fearless and proud—

And you know of a tale whose mere telling aloud—

Would cause his proud head to sink in anguish to be bowed—

It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a skeleton hidden away in a closet, and guarded and kept from the day—

In the dark; and whose showing, whose sudden display—

Would cause grief and sorrow and life-long dismay—

It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a thing that will darken the joy—

Of a man or a woman, a girl or a boy—

That will wipe out a smile or the least way annoy—

A fellow, or cause any gladness to cloy—

It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

George Clinton Batchelder pleasantly scored the man who says he never read advertisements in a brilliant and witty address to advertising men, at Asbury Park a few days ago. "This man never believed in ads or ad men," he said.

BEEF TRUST OFFICIALS ESCAPE PUNISHMENT FOR BURNING BOOKS

MISS MAUD I. DIMOCK

JUDGE KENESAW M. LANDIS

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Despite the fact that Alfred R. Urien, general counsel for Armour & Co., and president of the Chicago school board, and three other Armour officials have been freed from blame for the burning of the stenographic notebooks wanted by the prosecution in connection with the trial of the big packing companies, the interest in the trial continues. Among the witnesses examined in connection with the disappearance of the notebooks was

Miss Maud I. Dimock, for seven years the private secretary of Arthur Meeker, general manager and director of Armour & Co. She failed to remember about any event that the court was anxious to learn of and proved a most unwilling witness. When all the persons connected with the burning of the books had been examined Judge Kenesaw M. Landis dismissed the contempt proceedings against Urien and the others.

"No, sir," he never read an ad in all his born days. This was his boast, and he had said it so often he believed it to be true—and he kept on saying it. Then he got out of an advertised bed. Took a bath with advertised soap. Put on an advertised collar and tie. Pulled up his trousers with advertised suspenders. Sat down to eat an advertised breakfast food. Drank two cups of advertised coffee, putting in four lumps of advertised sugar. Went to his office in an advertised taxicab. Looked in the advertising column of a paper for an advertised play. Sent for tickets to an advertised agency. Called up his wife on an advertised telephone. Put on an advertised hat. After the show went out to an advertised restaurant. Drank an advertised wine. Smoked an advertised cigar—and yet, he never read an advertisement in all his life. Well, maybe he didn't, but after this one day's doing I must say I don't believe him. Do you? Of course you don't. How could you?"

Whereupon the king smiled sweetly. The secretary had struck a responsive chord, for George V is in fact the first philatelist of the country. His unvalued collection is valued at many thousands of pounds. It contains practically every stamp since 1840, not only of England and the British colonies, but of every country that ever issued a postage stamp.

The new British stamp will, it is said, soon appear, and, of course, it will bear the effigy of George V in profile, but turned in the opposite direction to that of Edward VII. The postoffice has its established customs. One of these is that two kings, one following another, must not face in the same direction.

While the Republic of Liberia is attracting some little of the world's attention one may recall that there still lives, in a quiet street off Battersea park, a remarkable old lady, Mrs. Jane Roberts, the widow of Joseph J. Roberts, who was elected the first president of Liberia in 1847. Mrs. Roberts was born in America in 1818, the daughter of a Baptist minister named Waring, and went to Liberia with her parents (both octogenarians) in 1824. She married Roberts in 1836, and accompanied him on numerous visits to European courts in the fifties, and knew Napoleon III rather intimately. Mrs. Roberts lived for over seventy years in Liberia before going to end her days in London.

Former Vice-President Charles W. Fairbanks will stump Indiana this fall for the republican congressional and state tickets.

IN A HENHOUSE

A Quantity of Liquor Was Found

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 20.—The most of the day in the supreme court yesterday was taken up with liquor and minor cases. From appearances nearly every one of those indicted on the charge of liquor selling will demand a jury trial, and prominent lawyers have been retained for the defense.

The first trial yesterday was that of George Perry of Bangor, who has a place on Lower Union street. Several policemen testified that they found a "hide" in the ground just outside of his shop covered with boards, from which they took 16 pints of whiskey. They said they had searched Perry's place several times, but found no liquor, although glasses found had an odor of whiskey and many men were seen going in and out of the place.

Perry went on the stand in his own defense. He said he had seen the "hide," but did not know to whom it belonged and that it was not his. He said a dozen other places, he added, opened into the same backyard. He said he had not sold any liquor.

The jury brought in a verdict of guilty.

Sturgis Deputies Towne, Lucas Clifford and Fernald were the principal witnesses in a liquor case against William Smith of Oldtown, who kept a hotel in Milford. The deputies said that they followed a wheelerbarrow track to a henhouse and found 90 bottles of ale and some whiskey. The defendant was a dealer of ownership. A verdict of not guilty was returned.

Nicholas Manchels and Ralph Letorino were before the court charged with assault upon Cleveland McCarthy, colored. The alleged assault took place in Heronville, Me. The indictment against Letorino was not proved. Manchels retracted his plea of not guilty and was sent to jail for three months.

Richard Mahoney of Dillimore, said to have figured in a pugilist under the name of Kid Birch, indicted on the charge of stealing a suit of clothes from a freight train, absconded at Milbrook, retracted a plea of not guilty and was sent to jail for nine months.

POLITICAL POT

Is Boiling Hot in Maine These Days

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 20.—The rock ribbed republican state of Maine is trembling in the political balance. The state election is to be held Sept. 12, at which time a governor, four representatives and a state legislature, which is to choose a United States senator as successor to Senator Eugene Hale, are to be elected, and at no time in the history of the state since the days of the Greenback party has the outlook for republican success appeared more gloomy. For the first time in 30 years interests. There must be a process of evolution before nationhood is reached.

"Nor have we the true national spirit. One proof of this is found in the fact that some of our public men as well as publicists advocate further assistance to the mother country in contributing to a navy and advocating money contributions, while neglecting or overlooking their own home needs. The true policy that made for imperial greatness was the policy of building up the component parts of the empire."

The speaker then dwelt at length with the four possible destinies of Canada, namely, remaining in the position in which she is at present, which he regarded as very improbable; imperial federation, which would be an unwieldy and unworkable condition; annexation with the United States, and independence.

"Imperial federation means an imperial council, with a preponderant British influence," said Mr. Bourassa. "Conditions today in Canada make for annexation rather than for imperial federation. The penetrative influence of trade by rail and coastal lines, the mental propensity of the two peoples living under the same or similar conditions, industrial and social, the constant inter-communication of Canadians and Americans, are all powerful factors making for annexation."

FOR ANNEXATION

Nationalist Leader Declares His Position

ANTIGONISH, N. S., Aug. 20.—Annexation with the United States for Canada was declared for in an address by Henri Bourassa, M. P., the nationalist leader of Quebec, before the summer school of science of the University of St. Francis Xavier college. He said in part:

"Canada is not a nation, and it is idle to endeavor to link the fact. We are not on the same footing as even such a small state as Switzerland. We have no treaty-making power, our criminal laws are subject to the extradition laws of Great Britain, and immigration is governed by imperial

MOISSANT'S FLIGHT FROM PARIS TO ENGLAND MARKS HIM AS GREAT AVIATOR

LONDON, Aug. 20.—By completing his flight from Paris to within twenty-five miles of London today, John Moissant, the Chicago architect, made a most remarkable record. He was unknown almost among aviators and had never been in England until he flew across the channel. In the trip from Paris he covered a total distance of 296 miles and at the same time carried as a passenger his mechanic. He made but five flights before his sensational international sail. Moissant is a little man, 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighing 135 pounds, with keen brown eyes. His passenger was a burly French mechanic, weighing 175 pounds, who says he feels quite at home with his employer in the air. Moissant is 35 years of age and an architect by profession. He came to Europe on a pleasure trip, took up aviation and built two aeroplanes. His present machine is one of the latest Blerio type, with a Gnome engine.

BOY WAS KILLED

His Life Was Crushed Out by a Heavy Girder

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Knocked down by a wooden roller on which a 2500-pound girder rested, the girder being pulled at the same time by two horses, little Thomas Burns had his life crushed out at 6.30 last evening, the roller and girder passing over his body before anyone discovered his plight. A team owned by F. Knight & Son and driven by Leander C. Kellough, loaded with seven steel girders, attempted to pull into Douglas place, Roxbury, from Webber street, when the wheels stuck in the mud. The girders were to be dumped in the junk yard of Mark Angel, which fronts on Douglas place.

Unable to make any headway, the driver, assisted by helpers from the junk concern, dumped the girders into the street, and placing rollers under them commenced to pull them sepa-

ately into the yards with the aid of two horses. The Burns boy, who lived at 29 Webber street, and was 10 years of age, stood alongside the girder watching the work, not noticing that one of the wooden rollers projected out from the girder. The horses started with a jump, and the roller, striking the boy's feet, knocked him down and then passed over his body. The workmen did not hear the boy's screams until the roller had reached his chin. The horses were then stopped and a crowd of about thirty men succeeded in clearing the girder from the boy's body. Patrolman Joseph Reiser of the Dudley street police station picked the boy up and started on a run for the City hospital, but the lad died just as the institution was reached.

MURDER CHARGE

Farmer Accused of Slaying Housekeeper

POUGHKEEPSIE N. Y., Aug. 20.—Following a hard-fight party at the home of Enuch Tompkins, at Little Rest, near Millbrook, Tompkins entered his house last night and found his housekeeper, Susan Spencer, 70 years of age, sitting with a hammer, James Morris. Taking down from the kitchen rafters a doublebarreled shotgun, Tompkins, it is said, shouted: "I'll shoot you both," and pointing the gun at the woman pulled the trigger. The charge tore away part of her neck and she died instantly. Tompkins then laid the gun on the table and walked out. The county authorities were not notified until today, and at noon Tompkins was arrested at Dover Plains. He is in jail here, charged with murder in the first degree. The police say he has confessed.

New Bedford Strikers Refused Permit by the Police

Decision of Police Chief Approved by Mayor Ashley—This is Expected to Bring About the Crucial Test

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 20.—Today is one of the most important days in the history of the city. The police chief has refused a permit for a parade by the strikers' officials. A delegation of the strikers' officials were refused a permit for a parade by Chief of Police Mason this morning and the same men received a rebuff from Mayor Ashley when they visited his office for the purpose of securing the much desired permit. They were insistent, declaring that they wanted to parade for the purpose of showing the

Grand Ball, Parade and Banquet Among the Features of the Week—Arrangements for Entertaining the Delegates

All up for Hibernian Week! All indications point to the biggest week that Lowell has had for many a year. While the decorations began to appear last Wednesday there was no general rush until today and from early morning decorators, professional and amateur, have been hunting with their hunting and other exterior adornments and judging from what was observed along the streets this morning Lowell will be generally decorated by Monday.

Chief Marshal Humphrey O'Sullivan of the big Hibernian parade which is to be the crowning feature of the week has today this morning to give an extended interview to the Sun reporter. He said: "It is impossible at this time to give out the complete roster of the parade but I can say that the parade

Drink Causes Disturbance in Many Families

At 5.30 o'clock last evening Patrolmen Breault and Abbott were attracted by the noise to a house in Tucker street where they found two men and two women very much under the influence of liquor. When booked at the police station they gave the names of Eugene Hamel, Estelle Hamel, Louis St. George and George LaRoche. St. George was released.

The court found the trio guilty and fined Hamel $3, while the women were fined $2 each.

This morning the arresting officer learned that the shoes had been taken from Nannis' store in Middlesex street.

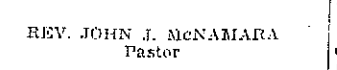

Nannis when placed on the stand identified the shoes as belonging to him, but his memory was very poor. He could not remember when he saw the shoes last, neither could he remember if he had sold them. All that he knew was that the shoes were once his.

Richard J. Murphy was charged with drunkenness and he admitted that he had imbibed freely of late, but he promised to do better in the future if he were given one more chance.

Everything looked good for Richard until his wife put in an appearance and her testimony was to the effect that he had threatened her life and fearing that she would lose her bodily hair she went for a patrolman. The court, however, decided that there was no chance for Murphy to reform and he was given a suspended sentence of three months.

TEXTILE SITUATION

Rather Dull But Not Without Its Encouraging Aspects

Several Local Mills Will Have a Brief Vacation—The Reports Show Financial Condition As to Assets and Liabilities

The textile business in Lowell is especially quiet, but conditions here are as hopeful as in other textile centres. A quiet period as yet unrelieved through the combination of a high cotton market and a low quotation for the finished product is responsible for the quiet that prevails. The great number of new mills shows that mill men have great confidence in the future.

Most of the mills are taking a vacation. The Massachusetts, Tremont & Suffolk and Hamilton mills will close next Saturday for a two weeks' vacation. The Lawrence Mfg. Co. is running only five days a week at the present time and while it was reported that this company would close substantially for two weeks some time this month, it was stated today that the company had not as yet decided upon a vacation.

The Wool and the Appleton mills will probably take a vacation but it was stated at the offices of these mills today that nothing definite in the line of a vacation had been decided upon.

The following from the Wool and Cotton Reporter, of even date, relative to Lowell mills will be of interest to the general public:

Massachusetts Cotton Mills

The Massachusetts cotton mills are now rushing the work on their new building, for the construction of which the new stock was issued earlier in the year. This new mill will greatly increase the earning capacity for this well-managed corporation, and undoubtedly by the time it has been completed the business will have picked up to such an extent that the company will be able to put it into operation at once. It is true, that on the present capital of $3,000,000, increased from $1,500,000 last February, the company will have to earn $240,000 in order to keep its dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum. This, of course, means that the company will have to earn almost $100,000 more than formerly. Last year the company showed a substantial surplus after dividends, so that when the new mill gets into operation no fear need be felt as to where dividends are going to come from. The stock of this corporation has been rising during the past week at 120, at which price it yields 6 2/3 per cent. For an eight per cent. stock which is non-taxable in Massachusetts, this looks to be an attractive purchase, which in the course of a year or so can be turned over at a profit of $10 or $15 per share in addition to the dividends which shall have been received. The third installment on the new stock comes due in October, and the final in February 1911, when the new stock becomes available.

Merrimack Mfg. Co.

Although Treasurer Greene has denied that the Pacific mills are planning to take over part of the Merrimack Mfg. Co., it is now felt generally in mill circles that the time is not far distant when the former will take over the print works plant of the latter at least. As we have indicated for a year and a half, this has been the natural bent of affairs, and as a matter of fact, such an event will surprise no one. For example, the Pacific plant at Dover, it has been believed that they were after the Merrimack. In fact, the print works of the Merrimack Mfg. Co.'s plant is the only large plant east of Providence which the Pacific mills do not now own. Years ago, when the Manchester Print Works became extinct, the equipment went to the Cochecho mills, which in turn were absorbed by the Pacific mills. Then, recently, the Pacific mills bought the print works of the Hamilton Mfg. Co. What is more natural now than that the Pacific mills should take over the equipment of the Merrimack Mfg. Co.'s print works? The construction work now taking place on the property which the Pacific mills purchased in Lawrence is going on rapidly, and while many suspect that here will be located the new print works, when all is over, together with that of the Merrimack Mfg. Co., will be centralized, the utmost secrecy being observed, and no information concerning the plans has been made public up to the present time. The Merrimack Mfg. Co. has 24 printing machines, and a conservative estimate of the value of its print works is $1,000,000.

Under a centralized plant this equipment could be made to show better earnings, and the transfer would actually be a benefit to both companies, and it would add to the value of both the common and the preferred stock. Even at the present time there is a connecting link between both companies, for Arthur F. Lyman is president of both and his son, Herbert Lyman, is president of the Merrimack. Every indication points to the fact that the common stock of the company is being acquired by certain interests and in upwards of three weeks the stock has

Hamilton Manufacturing Co. Undoubtedly the statement of the Hamilton Manufacturing Co. is of considerable interest to mill share investors in general just at this time, owing to the talk which has recently been made about this company. Several months ago considerable of this stock was kicking around the street, as it was seriously questioned whether or not the directors would pay the dividend which was to come due in July. There was little question but that the company had enough to pay these dividends, but it was believed in some quarters that the dividend would again be passed and the money put into further improvements. However, when the print works were disposed of to the Pacific mills, all doubt of the payment of the dividend vanished, and that correctly, as was later shown. However, as the fiscal year for this company ended on June 4, and the print works were disposed of later on in the month, the transaction does not show on the statement which follows. The statement, therefore, hardly reflects the real condition of the company at the present time, as there is every reason to believe that by disposing of the print works the Hamilton came into a goodly amount to add to their working capital. The net quick assets on June 4 were $249,978 as compared with $757,555 a year ago. The surplus shows an increase of only about $5000. However, with their present works now disposed of, we look to see Hamilton get better results in the next year or two, as that department had always been run at a loss. The property of the company is assessed at about $1,400,000 or for more than what it is now selling at. A comparison of statements for the two years follows:

ASSETS
Real estate and machinery	$1,540,000	$1,540,000
Cash and receivables	1,531,968	1,510,412

Lowell Bleachery

Few companies can show the improvement which has taken place in the affairs of the Lowell Bleachery within the past two years or more. When the capital of this company was last reduced it was felt by a conservative management that the company would be struggling under too heavy a load to try and pay dividends upon the former capitalization, and the decrease was, therefore, made for the good of all. Time has proven, however, that dividends might have been kept up even on the former capitalization, for with the aid of a particularly capable management, the company has not only paid the regular dividend, but increased it from 6 per cent. in 1908 to 8 per cent. in 1909, and likewise paid an extra of 10 per cent. on January 1 of the present year. And unless all signs fail the stockholders are going to receive another extra before the end of the year.

This extra will certainly be as large as the last, but as to whether it will be in the shape of a cash dividend or a stock dividend which could easily be done by increasing the present very conservative capitalization, no one seems to know. With the stock quoted at 20 and paying 8 per cent. mill share investors are going to make no mistake in buying any of the stock which they may be able to pick up. For their stock is going to be worth considerably more than this figure before long. There are, however, only 2,400 shares of this stock closely held, we doubt very much if there is any of it to be obtained at the figure quoted. A comparison of the statement for last three fiscal years follows, and should prove interesting to investors at large as well as particularly pleasing to the stockholders of the company:

ASSETS.

ASPIRY PARK, N. J., Aug. 20.—

Wright brothers' new aeroplane without front elevators is now being used by Walter Brookins in his flights at Interlaken field. The new machine is the result of experiments by the Wright brothers to secure greater steadiness. It is frankly a freak machine, with but a small elevating plane in connection with the tail and is capable of carrying four persons besides the pilot. Brookins seems to have lost none of his nerve as the result of his recent accident, in which eleven spectators besides himself were injured, when his machine was badly smashed

Tourist Caught in the Is the Cause of An "Handkerchief Game" Investigation

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—The "handkerchief game," worked by Joseph Deusebio of the North End on Andrew Horgan of San Francisco while the latter was here on his way to Ireland, netted Deusebio an English draft of $1700 and $44 in cash.

Horgan, after a two weeks' search, succeeded in pointing Deusebio out to the police and the latter was arrested, and yesterday held in $500 for the grand jury. Horgan's trip to Ireland is temporarily postponed.

Deusebio and a companion had a few drinks with Horgan and then offered to entrust him with their money for safe keeping. Each handed out a "roll" consisting largely of paper. The three rolls were wrapped in a handkerchief. Later Deusebio handed Horgan another handkerchief containing an old padlock. Then the pair made their getaway.

Shaw Stocking Co.

On Jan. 1 of the present year, the stock of the Shaw Stocking Co. was quoted at $126 per share. It is doubtful if a share could be purchased at a figure below this even today, and in the seven months which have intervened the stock has shown but a fractional decline, a few shares selling at private sale at 125 1/2. This, to us, is a very strong indication of the investment value of this stock; for it has had to be an unusually strong concern whose shares have not shown a decline of from 5 to 10 points during the past five or six months, or in other words since the depressed conditions in the textile industry set in. While many shares are today selling higher than they were several months ago, they nevertheless show a decline under the figures at which they were quoted at the beginning of the year. As previously stated, however, the shares of the Shaw Stocking company remained practically flat.

As a matter of fact, the shares have never shown such a sharp decline, dropping down only to 110 at the time of the last panic, which figure, by the way, is the lowest point they have touched for over 10 years, at least. The shares of this company form what we believe to be a good investment for the most careful investor. For while they are not so attractive as some other mill shares from the point of view of dividends in the way of extras, the dividends of the company gives the best of grounds for believing that stockholders may expect both in good times and bad, dividends, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, which, buying their stock at 126, gives them a return of about 4.5 per cent. on their investment. This is certainly an ample return on a stock which has paid regular dividends of 4 per cent. on par continuously for the past 25 years. During this period, although not within the last 15 years, the company has also paid occasional extras.

The local mills of the Bigelow Carpet company closed today for two weeks.

Says That He Tasted "Wet Goods" Spiritualist Left Nothing to the Society

WATERTOWN, Aug. 20.—Chief Conroy of the local police department was called upon in court yesterday to test a package of wet goods alleged to have been seized by his men in a recent liquor raid on the drug stores in this town.

The firm involved in yesterday's trial was that of the East Watertown Drug company, and the contents of a bottle produced by the police as evidence was being questioned.

Chief Conroy was asked how he knew that his men had secured whiskey, as had been alleged. He admitted that his belief was because the bottles were labelled whiskey. "Bring the chief a glass and let him test the contents of one of the bottles," commanded Judge Abbott.

The chief tasted, made a wry face, and exclaimed: "It's whiskey, but I believe that it must be of a pretty poor brand."

John T. Rafferty, for 11 years had been a conductor for the Boston Elevated company, was the principal witness in the case against the drug company in which it was charged with the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors.

The cases were tried before Judge Abbott at Waltham, James H. Vahey appearing for the defence and Attorney William Abbott for the government. P. S. Cunniff, chairman of the selectmen, who directed the raids on the drug stores, was sworn in as a witness and coached the town's attorney.

Rafferty testified that he had gone to the store on three different occasions and had purchased half a pint of whiskey each time. He said he bought one bottle from W. R. Brown, manager of the store, and two from Mirhan Javardian, a clerk.

50 CENTS A WEEK

ALLOWED FOR THE SUPPORT OF HIS WIFE

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—"If a magistrate ordered a man to pay but fifty cents a week to his wife for her support," said Justice Page yesterday in the supreme court, "it is absurd and I will examine the papers submitted."

Francesco Papeli Calderone was suing for temporary alimony and a fee for her lawyer, pending the trial of her suit for divorce.

Counsel for Calderone surprised the court by announcing that the application should not be entertained for the reason that Magistrate Cortigan in the police court had ordered Calderone to pay his wife fifty cents a week for her support.

"Fifty cents a week!" remarked Justice Page, in evident surprise.

"If a magistrate made such an order," he continued, "it is absurd and I will examine the papers and determine what allowance this plaintiff should have."

Mrs. Calderone set forth she was married to the defendant June 23, 1908; that she was 52 years old, and was a widow when she was married to Calderone. She said he was a widower with several children.

She said that she once found a bank book belonging to her husband which showed that he had $1200 in bank. Calderone set out that he was a lemon peddler, selling from door to door, and making from $2.50 to $3 a week.

TO HAVE FOUR FIGHTS IN AUSTRALIA

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—After a conference between Promoter Hugh McIntosh of Australia and Bill Papke, claimant of the world's middleweight title, yesterday, an agreement was drawn up whereby Papke will meet four middleweights in Australia during a period covering not more than 20 weeks.

The four men named are Dave Smith, Arthur Crane, Edward Williams, Les O'Donnell, all of whom are practically unknown to Americans. It was also agreed that none of these fighters should weigh more than 165 pounds ringside.

COLLINS & HOGAN'S SALES

Collins & Hogan, real estate and insurance, corner of Central and Market streets, have decided transferring a lot of land containing about 5500 square feet on Maple street, owned by Mr. James Everett. The purchaser was Mr. James Wood, who intends to build a three tenement house on this lot.

This farm also sold under a commissioner's sale, by public auction, a farm in the southwestern part of Tyngsboro, known as the Connel estate, containing sixty-four acres of land, a house, barn and sheds, for the sum of $1350. The assessed value being $1200. Also an acre and 1/4 of land for the sum of $75. The assessed value is $59.

The farm and the acre and 1/4 of land were bought by Mrs. Kate Connel of Tyngsboro.

WILL FILED

Spiritualist Left Nothing to the Society

TAUNTON, Aug. 20.—The will of William F. Nye, the eccentric Fairhaven millionaire, was filed yesterday in the registry of probate in this city.

Mr. Nye was the leading figure for many years in the Onset Bay Grove association, the spiritualist meeting place. He gave it financial support for many years, and was himself a firm believer in spiritualism.

It was popularly thought his will would bequeath something to the association, but it did not.

On the contrary, provision is made for the sale of large holdings of his stock in the Grove association and in the New Bedford and Onset Street Railway company and the distribution of the proceeds among relatives and others.

The will filed here reflects the character of the man. The introductory clause directs that his body be cremated as this "assists the spirit in its more complete elimination from the past environments and the last kind act is performed that one can bestow upon dear mother earth in her over-burdened conditions with decreased and decaying mortal and animal forms so contaminating the well springs of the fountains of life to the living."

Intermediate friends or neighbors may scatter my ashes from the road along the old homestead field overlooking the pond and stretch of woodland where I spent my boyhood trapping the wild game."

Another characteristic clause appears in the codicil: "To Reuben Lawrence, I wish presented fifty dollars in gold as a souvenir of my very early memory of his grandfather, Uncle David Lawrence, as the eccentric schoolmaster of my father, who when aroused from his slumbers at his desk would exclaim, 'Zounds, boys, go to Ellen with your question!'"

The heaviest beneficiary is his son, Joseph Keith Nye, to whom he leaves his Fairhaven property with the oil refineries and the balance of his stock in the Grove association and the Onset Street Railway company, after certain blocks have been sold to pay other legacies. Bequests up to $2000 are made to other relatives and to old friends in smaller amounts.

Joseph Keith Nye is made executor and also receives the residue of the estate. The will was drawn July 9, 1910. An unofficial estimate of the estate places its value at a million dollars.

THEATRE VOYONS

If you haven't laughed for a month go to the Theatre Voyons today and see "Willie," a western comedy being shown there and you'll laugh all right. It is one of those comedies which begin with a smile and end with a real loud laugh. Another most interesting picture is a dramatization of one of Emile Zola's best works entitled "The Attack on the Mill." There are plenty of thrilling situations in this picture and the excellent comedy acting it has taken every advantage of them. Sunday a special concert will be given and the pictures will be not only the newest and best to be had but they will be shown exclusively at the Theatre Voyons. The musical program is pleasing and the well ventilated theatre ensures physical comfort even in the hottest weather.

Monday a special A. O. H. program will be offered.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

Today "St. Elmo" will be presented for the last two times at Lakeview theatre and if large, well pleased houses can be taken as a criterion, then this great book play has been the biggest and most successful.

The greatest play of the times and the most popular will be the attraction at Lakeview theatre next week, when Eugene Walter's "Paid in Full," with a cast that brings out in the highest degree the superbly dramatic qualities, the human sympathy, that makes the play the most appealing work the stage has seen.

"Paid in Full" is so direct from New York and takes the place of the stock company which goes to another of Mr. Flynn's summer parks. This is the first engagement of Mr. Walter's great play that has ever been played at a summer park, and to see this great play acted by a great cast is a treat that should not be missed by any one. Matinees will be given every day except Monday at 2:30, evenings at 8:15, and those wishing to buy seats in advance can secure them at Carter and Sherburne's drug store.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of James A. Garfield W. R. C. 23, G. A. R., met on Thursday night with Mrs. Killpatrick, president, in the chair. Considerable routine business was transacted. At the annual fair to be held this year in Boston in October, the following ladies will serve at the table of the corps: Mrs. Killpatrick, Mrs. Myrtle Mrs. Whitney and Mrs. Tuttle.

Sons of Veterans

Camp 78, Sons of Veterans, had its first regular meeting after the summer vacation last night. There was a large attendance of members. General orders were read and it was stated that the division was the largest in its history, over 5000 members. The members spoke on the condition of the camp and a lot of work was planned to increase the membership.

FETE CHAMPETRE

PARTY HELD LAST NIGHT AT ST. LOUIS' HALL

An entertaining donkey party was held in St. Louis' hall last night for the benefit of the fete champetre. There was a large attendance, and the affair proved to be a social as well as a financial success.

Of course the feature of the evening was the pinning of tails on the donkeys, which furnished plenty of amusement. After all had tried their skill, it was found that Mr. Pierre Pavreau had come the nearest to placing the tail where it belonged. Miss Monique Harvey was second, and Miss Marianna Piche third, while the fourth prize went to Mr. Martineau. The honorees were given to Miss A. Caron and Mr. Lizear Vezina.

After the donkey fun was over, a charming musical program was given. Mr. John Lebeau gave a humorous monologue and dance. The Centerville quartet and the Jolly Five club sang, and Messrs. George Labranche and Arcole Brunelle sang comic songs. E. C. Gauvin had charge of the program.

Mrs. Oller J. David and Mrs. Jules Morissette were the organizers of this delightful affair. They were assisted by Messrs. Joseph Masse and Adolphe Bouchard, who were the judges in the donkey contest.

THE SCENIC THEATRE REMODELED

The Scenic theatre on Middlesex street will open this afternoon after being entirely remodeled. The seating capacity has been increased and the theatre can now accommodate one-third more than formerly. The picture screen has been removed to the back of the theatre, the walls have been toned up with the painter's brush, new lights and a new ventilating system, which will keep the theatre in a very comfortable temperature have been installed.

The entrance to the picture house has been entirely reconstructed and the seat ceilings and side walls have been placed in position. Swinging doors have been put in and in case of danger the theatre can be emptied in less than two minutes. The rear exit leads to Postoffice avenue. New seats which have not been shown in this city, as yet, have been secured by Manager M. J. Murray and the motion pictures he shows at this house this year will maintain the same high standing as the pictures exhibited at the house last season.

The Scenic theatre is on the list of the best picture theatres in the country and the manager is careful to eliminate anything that might be considered objectionable. Visit the Scenic and see how you like it in its new splendor.

DIAMOND NOTES

New Bedford today.

We certainly own that Fall River goat.

"I don't expect to win today," said "Little Jawn," before the game. "Why not?" asked Jimmie Gray. "Because," said "Jawn," "there were 13 of us in the party coming from Fall River, and to make matters worse they loaded on three corpses."

There's a mixup with St. Paul over Paul Howard, and as a result Howard cannot play with Lowell for the present. Howard is coming along finely and was batting in .312. His eye and arm were both good and next year he'll shine again.

Al Whitridge has gone home suffering with a bad arm.

Next Wednesday's game with Haverhill will be played at Spalding park and will be called at 3:30, instead of 3 o'clock.

The many admirers of Manager Tom Dowd will be pleased to learn that he has recovered from his recent illness and is in the game again.

Jake Bouttes has convinced the fans that he has it on Riley as a third baseman.

Dr. Collins, "angel" of the Nashua team of a few years ago, saw yesterday's game.

He was from Panama and he came all the way from New York to root for Pluharty and Magee. And perhaps he couldn't root! Lowell fans never heard anything like him before. He was the gentleman who sat in the old grandstand and vociferously demanded that Lowell win. He had an answer for everyone who attempted to butt in and lungs that were never weary. "Maggie, old girl," was his greeting to Jimmie Magee, and it was the first time that Jimmie had heard that nickname since he left the canal zone.

Burkett was chased off the field again yesterday by Umpire Rorty. It happened at Worcester.

The Detroit preacher who chose "Don't die on third base" as text for his sermon may be said to be applying the principle of the idea advanced by Mattie Bennett, who includes base on ball in his program for heaven—Boston Record.

AMES TO FIGHT MELVA J. WINS Lodge Has Hard Battle On Hand

Congressman Butler Ames plans to open an active campaign for the United States senate against Senator Lodge during the first week of September.

Meetings are to be held in every section of the state, and candidates pledged to the Ames candidacy are to be brought out in many of the districts.

Despite the fact that there has been no surface indications of any work being done by the Ames men, it was stated yesterday that the Lodge camp would get a jolt when it became known how many candidates for re-election to the legislature were pledged to Ames.

There has been considerable quiet work done by the Ames lieutenants in Boston, particularly among the democrats who are candidates for re-election. Although it has been supposed that the democratic members would naturally support Ames in preference to Lodge, the latter's lieutenants in the city machine have been working hard for Lodge among the democrats.

Whether or not any candidate will be put forward on the democratic end is uncertain at this time. Congressman Foss is very anxious to have Charles S. Hamlin enter the fight against Senator Lodge, but that the latter will consent to do so is considered improbable.

The general sentiment among the democratic leaders seems to be that if Congressman Foss is not a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, he is the best equipped man on the democratic end to fight Lodge.

It is pointed out that Foss would be the natural opponent of Lodge because of the stand that he has taken on the tariff question and on reciprocity, in direct opposition to the attitude of the senior senator.

Congressman Ames confidently expects that the democratic members of the legislature in caucus will support him and he is figuring on this support. He will have his Boston headquarters in the Hotel Bellevue.

CARD OF THANKS
We, the undersigned, take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to our many kind relatives and friends who by their acts of kindness and words of consolation helped to lighten the burden of sorrow in the death of our beloved wife and mother. To each and all we are deeply grateful and will ever remember their sympathetic kindness.

(Signed)

MELVA J. WINS

New England Mare Took Best Race of Day

BUFFALO, Aug. 20.—Only 16 horses started in the four races at the Fort Erie track yesterday afternoon, the closing program of the grand circuit meeting here. The free-for-all pace was won by Giffline in a romp, as he was able to outpace the field at any part of either of the miles.

The best race of the day was the 2:10 trotting class, in which the New England mare, Melva J., won after losing the first heat to Alice Roosevelt. The latter was the favorite and looked to have the race won after she landed the first heat, but when Cox challenged Melva J. in the second, she could not stand the pressure, went off her feet and Melva won handily. The next two heats found Melva J. in front both times in close finishes.

Cox had a good day as he also won the 2:11 pace with Lady Isle in straight heats. In the second heat of this race Alta Coast, fell, throwing her driver, but no serious damage was done.

The favorite, Ess H. Kay, had things his own way in the 2:05 pacing division, although he gave his backers heart failure in the second heat by breaking and falling back to last place on the upper turn. White got him going again and he had speed enough to come on again and win handily.

The crowd was small and the track very slow owing to the rain of Thursday. The summary:

WILLY, EUROPEAN TROTTER NOW COMPETING ON THE GRAND-CIRCUIT

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—American horsemen are watching with unusual interest this season the performances of the first two European trotting horses ever brought to the United States to try conclusions with native stock. The trotting horse is indigenous to America and heretofore has been alone in the field, but now two foreigners are disputing the supremacy and though outnumbered one hundred to one, are winning races in the grand circuit, where the pick of the country always compete. These horses are Willy, a bay stallion, and Dora, a chestnut mare, owned by Louis W. Winans of Brighton, England. Mr. Winans was the owner of St. Martin, favorite for the English Derby last year. At Kalamazoo, Mich., Willy won the first race of the grand circuit of 1910, trotting his heats in 2:09½ and 2:09¼, and Dora at the same meeting defeated a field of American trotters in straight heats, gaining a record of 2:15½, which she has since lowered to 2:12¼. At the Grand Rapids meeting Willy gained a record of 2:08½, and forced the New York trotter Hallworthy out in 2:07½ in the fourth heat. Both Willy and Dora are entered in the New York grand circuit meeting, to be held at the Empire track Aug. 23-27 under the auspices of the American Trotting Horse Breeders' club. The stallion will start in the $2500 Speedway stakes, for trotters to wagon, amateurs to drive, and it is expected that Mr. Winans will be here to drive him in the race. On public form Willy looks like a probable winner, though there are forty entries in the race. Dora is entered in the 2:15 race, to be trotted on Friday, Aug. 26, and she will have to meet such American cracks as Billy Burke, 2:06½; Ganax, 2:08½; Hallworthy, 2:07½, and Major Strong, 2:08½. A. C. Pennoek, an American trainer, who has driven Mr. Winans' horses in Europe, will probably drive Dora in New York. The invaders are both full of American blood. Dora represents a combination of French, Russian and American ancestry, while Willy is of pure American ancestry, though bred and trained in Austria. His sire, Wilburn, 2:11½, was a son of Wilton, 2:19¼, by George Wilkes, 2:22, and his dam, Faustissima, was by Shiner, 2:19¼, the grandchild of Lou Dillon, 1:58½, holder of the world's record. Willy is called the handsomest trotting stallion out this year.

BACK TO ENGLAND

Dr. Crippen and His Affinity Start for Liverpool

QUEBEC, Aug. 20.—Dr. Crippen and Miss Ethel Leneve were taken from the provincial jail this morning in separate cabs and driven rapidly westward. The couple, in charge of Detectives Dew and Mitchell and the two wardresses, it is understood will board the Megantic which touched here early yesterday, and departs at 7 o'clock for Liverpool.

The detectives with Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve will probably meet the Megantic with a tug at Cape Rouge, seven miles from Quebec, on the St. Lawrence river, where the couple can be quietly placed aboard the steamship. Great secrecy was observed by the detectives in removing the prisoners from the jail as it was desired to avoid a demonstration.

Famous Sleuth Shot to Death at New York Boat House

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—George Gostelli, a New York detective who was well known for his enormous strength, was murdered early today. He was killed in a fight with a crowd at the landing of the Seawanhaka Yacht club boathouse here. His assailant escaped. Gostelli had been acting as keeper of the boathouse during the summer while he was recuperating from a bullet wound received last spring, while chasing a burglar.

Gostelli had had trouble with a crowd of men who were loitering about the boathouse. A week ago he drove them away. Half a dozen of them went to the boathouse last night and again Gostelli drove them away. They returned in a few minutes, one with a shotgun. Three shots were fired, two by the detective's revolver and one from the shotgun. Gostelli fell dead on the wharf. Gostelli came to America several years ago from Denmark. He said little of his past life. He prized greatly a seal ring on which was a coat of arms and was believed here to be a member of a noble family.

WOMAN EVICTED

Is Said to Be Worth $30,000,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Miss Delia Richardson, said to be worth more than $30,000,000, was evicted yesterday from the home in which she had lived since her birth, 50 years ago, because she would not surrender possession to the man to whom she had sold it. A city marshal finally had to chop his way through the front door.

Miss Richardson is one of the wealthiest women in the world. When her father, Joseph Richardson, died in 1837 she inherited the bulk of his great fortune, and has since lived frugally with a maiden cousin. Although she sold her home she would never allow the buyer on the premises and he had to make his plans for rebuilding it from outside observations.

While the marshal's men pried the frayed old-fashioned furniture on the sidewalk Miss Richardson followed them about protesting that their actions were outrageous and that she would complain to Mayor Gaynor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Stocks were lower again this morning and some large blocks of Reading, U. P. and U. S. Steel were sold from 1/4 to 1/2 below yesterday's closing figures. The market otherwise was without essential change.

The market closed easy. After prices had returned to where they left off yesterday interest in the market abated and speculation became dull and commonplace. Fluctuations were restricted to the merest fraction in the most active stocks. Prices were inclined to yield as the session drew to a close.

KILLED BY AN AUTO ONE MAN KILLED

Several Injured in Various Parts of Boston

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—The police received reports of an unusual number of accidents caused by falling staging yesterday although there was only one which resulted fatally.

A platform gave way at 63 Myrtle street, and a skilled workman, Abraham Brothless of North Anderson street, fell five stories to the pavement and was almost instantly killed. The body was moved to the North Grove street morgue.

Israel Schekter of 7 Ashland street and Israel Kat of 47 Garden street were on a section of the staging that collapsed when they jumped to a firmer part and were uninjured.

The Relief Hospital received several injured men from Lewis wharf when staging collapsed. The victims were Carl Turnberg, 30, of 280 Quincy street, who received contusions and a sprained back; Henry James, 29, of 155 Main street, Medford, who sustained contusions and abrasions; John McKee, 29, of 19 Murray street, Waltham, who was thrown into the water, but was taken out practically uninjured, and Ezekiel Hill of 62 Grapeland street, who received slight contusions about the head and neck.

Yesterday morning Joseph Traino of 134 Everett street fell from a staging 20 feet to the ground at the Metropolitan pumping station on Addison street, near the old Chelsea bridge. He is on the dangerous list at the East Boston Relief hospital.

LIQUOR LICENSE
HAS BEEN SUSPENDED FOR THREE DAYS

WORCESTER, Aug. 20.—The liquor license of the E. S. Pierce company, at 69, 71 and 73 Mechanic street, a large wholesale house, was suspended yesterday by the license commissioners for a period of three days as the result of charges preferred against the concern by the police department.

Chief Matthews charged that a driver for the place delivered liquor from his wagon that had not been ordered from the store.

The commissioners held E. S. Pierce, the head of the concern, blameless of any personal violation of the conditions of the license, but held that the concern is responsible for the acts of its employees.

They set forth their decision in the following message to the chief: "Upon complaint of David A. Matthews, chief of police, against E. S. Pierce company, doing business at 69, 71 and 73 Mechanic street, for violation of their license to sell intoxicating liquors in the city of Worcester until May 1, 1911, the board finds the licensees guilty of the violation charged and by reason of the personal knowledge on the part of the licensees of the unlawful act of its employees, but by reason of the responsibility of the licensees for the acts of their employees, and voted that the license be suspended for three days. In view of the large stock of perishable goods on hand, voted that the period of suspension be from 1 p. m. Saturday, Aug. 20, to 1 p. m. Wednesday, Aug. 24, 1910."

Similar charges against the firm of Sterner and Anderson, doing a wholesale business at 68 1/2 Summer street, was not sustained by the evidence given at the hearing, although the commissioners sent an official warning to the licensees to keep their delivery sheets more accurately.

REWARD OF $200
Offered for Capture of Nicholas Capsalis

The police of Somersworth, N. H., have offered a reward of $200 for the arrest of Nicholas Capsalis, who is suspected of having strangled to death Marissa Capsalis and afterwards put her body in a barrel in the cellar of her home. The reward will be paid for the body of the man either dead or alive.

Word was sent to the local police last night relative to the reward and the members of the department were again notified to keep a close watch for the man, who it is thought may be in hiding in this city.

CARRYING A FAD TOO FAR

Trees about one's place are very beautiful and serviceable, but sometimes they are apt to be dangerous, particularly when we have too many of them. A few trees about a place serve to shade the premises in very hot weather, but it would be better to have no trees at all than to have too much shade.

All physicians and sanitary engineers agree that it is impossible to keep a dwelling house healthful and sanitary without a reasonable amount of sunlight. It is an old saying: "If the sunlight does not enter a house the doctor surely will." Nevertheless, we find thoughtless people protesting against cutting down shade trees in front of premises whose occupants are suffering for want of sunlight to drive out dampness and disease germs which always lurk where the sun does not enter. We have had several instances of this short-sightedness in our city, notably on Nesmith street which has altogether too many shade trees, and the result is a street that is hardly ever free from dampness. Not only are the trees in this street and many other streets of the city a menace to the health of the people residing under their crowded branches, but the trees themselves become diseased because they are set too close together. All this comes from setting out young trees improperly. While the trees are young, of course, they have no ill effect upon the adjoining premises nor upon one another, but when they attain full size they damage one another as well as the adjoining property.

Anyone who is competent to talk on the subject of shade trees will agree that large shade trees should be set at least thirty feet apart, otherwise they will become diseased in a short time after reaching full size. This is the deplorable state of affairs on Nesmith street, Chestnut street, and many other streets in our city, and worst of all, in a few years these streets may be entirely destitute of trees, unless the present rotting shade trees are thinned out so as to be about thirty feet apart.

Many people protest against taking down shade trees, because they don't want to lose them, but there is another side to the question. Common sense should govern this as well as all other propositions.

CITY CHARTER REFORM

The cities of the west are rapidly adopting the commission form of charter and with the most gratifying results. The old style of charter such as hampers our own city is condemned as cumbersome, a hindrance to the free and unobstructed transaction of business, a block to progress, the nursery of graft and a remnant of bygone days that should be thrown aside.

The cities that have adopted the new form of charter are prospering as they could never have done under the old and hide bound instruments which they discarded.

The new charters are of the Des Moines style or a modification thereof. They do away with the double chamber, provide for a small council with legislative and executive powers. By this means the transaction of business is facilitated and responsibility is centered so that if things are done right the people know where the credit lies and if wrong they know equally where to place the blame.

The city of Chelsea is making wonderful progress under the commission form of government. There is no chance for the deadlock so frequent under our charter.

With the three branches the chief executive, the upper and lower boards, valuable time is lost in bringing about an agreement on certain measures. What originates in one board is regarded with suspicion by the other board and then the latter retaliates in rejecting measures sent to it for concurrence. When both boards concur, the mayor may dissent and then there is more wrangling, more delay. Furthermore, it is very seldom that any measure passed by the city council in its present form represents the best judgment of both bodies. There is a lack of that calm and unselfish deliberation that characterizes the acts of a small governing body.

If Lowell is to get out of her present difficulties and to secure an up-to-date progressive method of doing business she must put aside the present antiquated charter and adopt one that will provide for a single chamber vested with all the powers now exercised by the mayor and city council.

For years certain necessary reforms and improvements have been advocated but with the deadlocking of the city council branches or committees thereof, nothing has been done and nothing can be done. Had we a single chamber made up of business men the city's business would be disposed of with ability and despatch instead of being held up by the wrangles, the political scheming and needless dickering of the bicameral council or some of its committees. It is a fact patent to every citizen that under our present system we cannot elect men of the highest ability to office. This in itself is an evil that should bring about a change in the charter at the earliest possible opportunity which of course cannot be before next year. We want a charter that will secure the very best men we can find to transact the city's business, one that will do away with deadlocks that block business however urgent and that will at the same time conserve the city's best interests in every direction.

As to the real form of charter, if the commission idea be not favored let it be a modification in the direction of simplicity, despatch and reliability. These changes can be secured only by a single chamber of moderate size on which power and responsibility will be firmly centered so that the citizens will have no difficulty in placing responsibility where it belongs, rewarding the good and punishing the bad. Our present system scatters responsibility and power so that there is conflict of authority and no matter what happens the people are practically without a remedy unless where evidence of corruption or conspiracy can be proved. It is not alone necessary that public officials be honest and upright, it is also necessary that they be men of sound business judgment, that they possess more than average executive ability, with some experience to fit them for public office. It is impossible to secure a council of such men under our present charter.

SEEN AND HEARD

An insurance company, in which you have a chance to win, issues a pretty little publication sort of part-magazine, containing among other things, hopeful verses which flow along with that "be happy and live long" thing, and by the time a fellow gets through reading those little "elixirs of life" he feels that his life insurance policy is a luxury rather than a necessity.

She came back to Lowell from Bass Point, bringing with her pleasant memories of a vacation delightfully spent and the dearest and tenderest of all her recollections had to do with a very nice young man. She knew that it was foolish of her to continue to think of him; it was only a chance acquaintance, made in the same old seashore way, but the harder she tried to forget the harder it was to forget, and she lapsed into a state of absent-mindedness that was embarrassing, to say the least. The climax was reached while the girl, trying hard to forget, was on a Pawtucketville car. She was accompanied by her sister, and the latter motioned the conductor to stop the car. The absent-minded sister observed the motion and still thinking of Bass Point and the new, quick love that filled her heart, stepped from the car while it was in motion. For a few minutes the poor girl's mind was relieved of all thoughts of Bass Point and its masculine attraction, and by the time she had collected her parcels and her scattered senses, likewise a shoe which came off in the mixup, she vowed that she would forget Bass Point and all that went with it, or die in the attempt.

The bell-hopper was leaning on the counter in the office of a local hotel, working in a toothpick over time, when a traveler came in, and addressing the boy, said, "What are your rates?" The boy gave the toothpick an extra push and replied, "I get nine dollars a week and my board I don't know what the other fellows get."

"No, sir," he said, "your father would never give his consent to our marriage."

"Oh, I am quite sure he would be willing to listen to reason," she replied. "Your mother never has seemed to like me very well."

"I can't understand why you should think that. Mamma has always said she thought you were a very nice fellow."

"I fear you would not like my family."

"I think your father and mother are both as nice as can be."

"You know I couldn't support you in the style in which you have been accustomed."

"I shouldn't mind that in the least. Luxury has ceased to have charms for me."

"It will probably be impossible for me to afford even a cook."

"I have always thought that it would be so lovely to have a cozy little home, where I might do the cooking myself."

THINGS TO FORGET

If you see a tall fellow ahead of a crowd—

A leader of men marching fearless and proud—

And you know of a tale whose mere telling alone—

Would cause his proud head to in anguish be bowed—

It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a skeleton hidden away in a closet, and guarded and kept from the light—

In the dark, and whose showing, whose sudden display—

Would cause grief and sorrow and life-long dismay—

It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a thing that will darken the joy—

Of a man or a woman, a girl or a boy—

That will wipe out a smile or the least way annoy—

A fellow, or cause any gladness to cloy—

It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

George Clinton Batcheller pleasantly scored the man who says he never read advertisements in a brilliant and witty address to advertising men, at Ashbury park a few days ago. "This man never believed in ads or ad men," he said.

BEEF TRUST OFFICIALS ESCAPE PUNISHMENT FOR BURNING BOOKS

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Despite the fact that Alfred R. Urion, general counsel for Armour & Co., and president of the Chicago school board, and three other Armour officials have been freed from blame for the burning of the stenographic notebooks wanted by the prosecution in connection with the trial of the big packing companies, the interest in the trial continues. Among the witnesses examined in connection with the disappearance of the notebooks was Miss Maud L. Dimock, for seven years the private secretary of Arthur Meeker, general manager and director of Armour & Co. She failed to remember about any event that the court was anxious to learn of and proved a most unwilling witness. When all the persons connected with the burning of the books had been examined Judge Kenesaw M. Landis dismissed the contempt proceedings against Urion and the others.

"No, sir," he never read an ad in all his born days. This was his boast, and he had said it so often he believed it to be true—and he kept on saying it. Then he got out of an advertised bed. Took a bath with advertised soap. Put on an advertised collar and tie. Pulled up his trousers with advertised suspenders. Set down to eat an advertised breakfast food. Drank two cups of advertised coffee, putting in four lumps of advertised sugar. Went to his office in an advertised taxicab. Looked in the advertising column of a paper for an advertised place. Sent for tickets to an advertised agency. Called up his wife on an advertised telephone. Put on an advertised hat. After the show went out to an advertised restaurant. Drank an advertised wine. Smoked an advertised cigar—and yet, he never read an advertisement in all his life. Well, he didn't, but after this one day's doing I must say I don't believe him. Do you? Of course you don't. How could you?"

The new British stamp will, it is said, soon appear, and, of course, it will bear the effigy of George V in profile, but turned in the opposite direction to that of Edward VII. The postoffice has its established custom. One of these is that two kings, one following another, must not face in the same direction.

While the Republic of Liberia is attracting some little of the world's attention one may recall that there still lives, in a quiet street off Battersea park, a remarkable old lady, Mrs. Jane Roberts, the widow of Joseph J. Roberts, who was elected the first president of Liberia in 1847. Mrs. Roberts was born in America in 1818.

Former Vice-President Charles W. Fairbanks will stump Indiana this fall for the republican congressional and state tickets.

A Quantity of Liquor Was Found

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 20.—The most of the day in the supreme court yesterday was taken up with minor and minor cases. From appearances nearly every one of those indicted on the charges of liquor selling will demand a jury trial, and prominent lawyers have been retained for the defense.

The first trial yesterday was that of George Perry of Bangor, who has a place on Lower Union street. Several policemen testified that they found a "hide" in the ground just outside of his shop covered with boards, from which they took 16 pints of whiskey. They said they had searched Perry's place several times, but found no liquor, although glasses and many men were seen going in and out of the place.

Perry went on the stand in his own defense. He said he had seen the "hide," but did not know to whom it belonged and that it was not his. Half a dozen other places, he added, opened up the same back story. He said he had not sold any liquor.

The jury brought in a verdict of guilty.

Sturgis Deputies Towne, Lucas Clifford and Fernald were the principal witnesses in a liquor case against William Smith of Oldtown, who kept a hotel in Oldtown. The deputies said that they followed a wheelbarrow track to a henhouse and found 90 bottles of ale and some whiskey. The defense was a denial of ownership. A verdict of not guilty was returned.

Victoria Marchais and Ralph Leterio were before the court charged with assault upon Cleveland McCarthy, colored. The alleged assault took place in a rooming house at 1011 Commercial street. The indictment against Leterio was not pressed. Marchais retracted his plea of not guilty and was sent to jail for three months.

Richard Mahoney of Baltimore, said to have figured as a puller under the name of Kid Black, indicted on the charge of stealing a suit of clothes from a freight train subcase at Millis, retracted a plea of not guilty and was sent to jail for nine months.

POLITICAL POT

Is Boiling Hot in Maine These Days

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 20.—The rock ribbed republican state of Maine is trembling in the political balance. The state election is to be held Sept. 12, at which time a governor, four representatives and a state legislature, which is to choose a United States senator as successor to Senator Eugene Hale, are to be elected, and at no time in the history of the state since the days of the Greenback party has the outlook for republican success appeared more gloomy. For the first time in 30 years the speaker then dwelt at length with the four possible destinies of Canada, namely, remaining in the position in which she is at present, which he regarded as very improbable; imperial federation, which would be an unwieldy and unworkable condition; annexation with the United States, and independence.

"Imperial federation means an imperial council with a preponderant British influence," said Mr. Bourassa. "Conditions today in Canada make for annexation rather than for imperial federation. The preponderant influence of trade by rail and coastal lines, the mental propensity of the two people living under the same or similar conditions, industrial and social, the constant inter-communication of Canadians and Americans, are all powerful factors making for annexation."

Nationalist Leader Declares His Position

ANTIGONISH, N. S., Aug. 20.—Annexation with the United States for Canada was declared for in an address by Henri Bourassa, M. P., the nationalist leader of Quebec, before the annual school of science at the University of St. Francis Xavier college. He said in part:

"Canada is not a nation, and it is late to endeavor to blink the fact. We are not on the same footing as even such a small state as Switzerland. We have no unity-making power, our national laws are subject to the extradition laws of Great Britain, and immigration is governed by imperial

Patchwork Quilts In Style Again

USE FOR ODD BITS OF SILK. ST. ANDREW'S CROSS DESIGN. AN ELABORATE MOTIF. SMALL SQUARES AND HALF SQUARES.

A FAD of the minute is the revival of the patchwork quilt—in an edition de luxe, as it were. Used in certain rooms in connection with old fashioned furniture the effect is often very good. The four squares illustrated as designs for quilts are an excellent means of using up odd pieces of cretonne, silk or printed cotton. The foundation is of unbleached cotton, and upon this the patchwork pieces are arranged in geometrical patterns firmly tacked in place and finally sewed down with the sewing machine. The lines of stitching running close to the turn in edges makes a good finish.

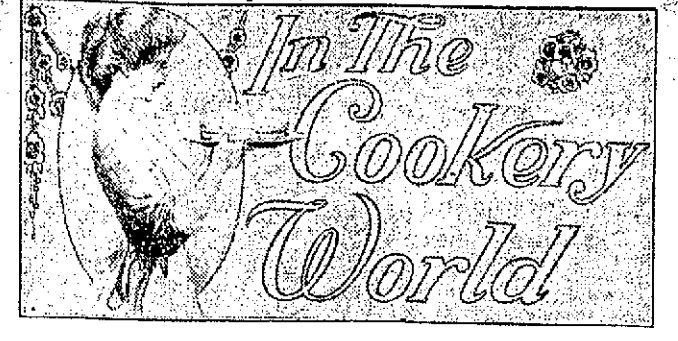

Each square measures thirteen inches across and is finished with a turnover hem three-quarters of an inch wide machined down on the right side. Square No. 1 is particularly ingenious. The center octagon consists of a scrap of dress satin in thin stripes of gray and black and white. This is laid upon a lozenge of old fashioned shot silk with tiny hall-stone spots in cream. The corners that form the lozenges into a square are of dark blue silk flowered with a honeysuckle pattern, and the whole is framed in a border, three-quarters of an inch wide, of plain blue silk stitched down with white thread. The four octagons in the corners are of red silk, also stitched down with white. For these and other geometrical designs the worker of the quilt had little tin shapes cut out to insure perfect accuracy.

When several pieces have to be joined together to form one ornament they should each be lined with paper cut out when required, the material being tacked lightly to it and turned over the edge. The paper backing is kept up until the pieces have been evenly sewed together, when it can be easily withdrawn.

Square No. 2 has for a center a St. Andrew's cross in blue sprigged cotton fastened in the center with a square of black satin. The upper and lower wedge shaped places are in black and white flowered print; those at the sides in the same pattern, but in maroon shades.

The third design is most elaborate of all. In the spread under consideration every square had a different design, and when finished all were sewed together, the seams being covered with an effective featherstitch done in heavy embroidery silk. The lining was of cream colored silk.

The fourth device consists mainly of a fitting together of ingenious small squares and half squares.

IN THE COOKERY WORLD

FROZEN CUSTARDS--THEY'RE OFTEN BETTER THAN ICE CREAM

WHEN you haven't enough rich cream to make a good ice cream, why not have a frozen custard for dessert? Indeed, if well made the difference between the two is hardly noticeable. In fact, a good frozen custard is much better than poor ice cream.

A frozen custard is made like an ordinary one, but instead of being baked or boiled it is frozen. When made with fruit flavoring it is particularly delectable. No flour, cornstarch or other thickening is used, but only eggs, milk, sugar and flavoring. Yolks of eggs are used liberally, and these make the dessert nutritious as well as refreshing.

A frozen peach custard is among the best. The following recipe is especially to be recommended:

Prepare a quart of peach pulp by pressing peeled peaches through a sieve and sweeten with a cupful of sugar. Prepare a thin custard from three cupfuls of milk, a cupful of sugar and four egg yolks. Heat the milk to the boiling point, beat up the egg yolks with the sugar and add to the boiling milk. Let it cook until it coats the spoon, but not until it boils. Stir almost constantly while heating to prevent curdling. Remove it from the stove and when cool mix with the peach pulp. Set the whole where it will become perfectly cold and freeze it like ice cream.

A plain frozen custard is very nice if peaches are sliced thin and added to it while it is freezing, or, better yet, after it has frozen, but before it has become hard. If slices of fruit are added at the beginning they will probably turn into icy lumps unless soaked in brandy or wine. The flavor of the fruit is better preserved if it is added at the last.

The flavor of caramel is very attractive in frozen desserts. For a frozen caramel custard have ready a quart of milk and the yolks of six eggs. Let the milk gradually heat in the double boiler. While it is heating melt three tablespoonfuls of sugar in a quart of a cupful of water. Let it cook to a dark rich caramel, stirring constantly to prevent burning; then stir into it two cupfuls of boiling water and a cupful of sugar. Let the water and sugar boil rapidly for fifteen minutes. Mix it with the boiling milk, and when it boils again add the egg yolks, beaten together. Stir thoroughly to prevent curdling. When cold freeze it and serve with white sponge cake, prepared from the whites that were left over after using the yolks in the custard.

Sometimes to a plain frozen custard that is simply flavored with an extract the whites of the eggs are added. Whip them until stiff and beat them through the mixture.

Hats for the Early Fall

THE small hat in the fall will be a smart model, but there are certain women who always wear large headgear, no matter what the edict of Dame Fashion may be in regard to millinery.

The Hindoo turban in draped effects promises to be good style, and the chapeau cloche, or bell shaped hat, which resembles the peach basket enough to be its twin, is to be first favorite. Many of the new shapes show the mushroom tendency, and an indentation or a distinct opening in front is observed. Turbans are in high favor, and the brims of smart chapeaus are often softened with ruffles, puffs and frills which are very flattering to the wearer.

Beaver hats in two tone and two piece effect are among the fall showings. Colored beavers faced with black, too, are liked; but there is no mistaking the fact that velvet hats are to be very much worn.

Among the trimming fabrics is a boucle silk, a heavy corded weave often in two toned effects. This material has a glaze effect in spite of its rough surface. Two toned peau de

THE MODERN UNREST

The "fever called living" is growing intense in this new world of ours. We have gradually evolved a modern malady—a mental St. Vitus' dance that throws us into a perpetual condition of febrile activity. As an Irishman remarked, "We are in a frantic hurry to get nowhere." Speed, senseless speed, has become our divinity, and we worship it to the exclusion of all things!

We have no time for friendship, no time for anything, not even love. The telephone is our confidant and sometimes our betrayer. The lie that ill-fated instrument has to register would pave the United States.

It is said that motorizing began the downfall; the week and finished us. The blessed rest of "over Sunday" that gave us renewed vigor on Monday is a thing of the past. We want to fly anywhere to get rid of our degenerate and uninteresting selves. What matters it if we get cinematographic views of scenery, that we are blinded by the dust and poisoned by the fumes of petroleum? We are "getting there," and when we reach the goal ten to one we vote it "rotten." We are bored. Still, we must go on, on, on.

And what of woman, the restless, the serene—woman the muse, the inspiration? We women, too, are suffering from an overplus of misdirected energies. We may find a mission when we fail to find a husband, but one thing is certain—we lack that repose which (oh, shade of Tennyson!) "stamps the caste of Vere de Vere." Woman up to date is as unsatisfactory and unsatisfying as the mirage of a thing once worshiped, the elusive shadow of a fallen idol, for woman is doing everything at once, and doing it badly as a whole. There is a want of finish, a lack of harmony, about her that gets on one's better balanced nerves. She has lost the divine gift of being the sensitized plate of man's emotions. Perhaps she has no emotions to register. Children bore her. She prefers dogs.

The heart we are told is a muscle. When muscles get no play they fall into a state of atrophy. What a vista of possibilities this opens up!

Wake up, women! Yours was once the kingdom of love. You have the power of the world yet. Smooth this modern fever of unrest; cease to cry for gold when the flowers of the wayside are far more perfect than anything the yellow metal can buy. To women alone is given the clearer vision that helps to lift man's soul to the stars, or, if we fall in our mission, to send it to the lowest depths of hades.

A NEW CLOAK MODEL--BY FELIX

FELIX, the Parisian couturier of fame, is responsible for the new cloak model illustrated. The material he has chosen to use is a soft though rather heavy black silk, and the creation is kept entire in the black coloring. As you see, it is draped, and a peculiar motif is the long pointed end that is thrown together over one shoulder. The huge soft falling revers are another smart feature. It is said that in the fall we will see many reproductions of this cloak model.

ALL ABOUT THE HOUSE

Every housewife should realize the possibilities of salt as a cleanser. Indeed, salt and kerosene should be in the cleaning outfit of every household, for together they form a combination which eradicates almost any dirt.

For polishing mirrors nothing can exceed the merit of salt. When applying it the glass must be wet with clear water, then the salt rubbed on with a damp newspaper. The final rubbing

A Smart Evening Gown

SIMPLICITY is the keynote of this charming evening gown, but it is a simplicity that only an artist dreams of. Still, there are many new points about the costume that the amateur dressmaker can use to advantage. The sleeves are a question in point, and the arrangement of the tulle drapery. As illustrated, the gown is of an iridescent net studded with fine jet beads. The foundation is black satin, which helps to bring out the lovely colorings of the transparent fabric.

ELABORATE EFFECTS IN HOSIERY

The newest hosiery shows many charming effects. Stockings beaded across the instep and up the ankles are perhaps the most novel, while others embroidered in vine-like designs appear more graceful than those with the pattern scattered indiscriminately in an all over or loose pattern.

A design describing a circle just above the instep is new, and there are innumerable drop stitch revers. The colors are unusually varied and can be found to match any gown. Some are of a most beautiful changeable effect in silk, while others are so closely embroidered that they have a two toned effect without being actually woven in that way.

Plain stockings of lisle, silk or gauze still hold their popularity with women of conservative taste for all except elaborate occasions or for home use with dainty house gowns or lounging robes.

HOW TO EAT A RAW EGG.

Break the yoke of an egg into a dish with a teaspoonful of white sugar and a teaspoonful of orange or lemon juice and beat lightly together with a fork. Put the white on a plate and add a pinch of salt. Then with a broad bladed knife beat it to a stiff froth. Now, as lightly as possible mix all together in the dish. Transfer it to a tumbler, which it will nearly fill if it is properly prepared. Any fruit juice may be used in place of the lemon or orange.

RUSTY SCREWS.

Screws that have rusted in their bed of wood may be easily loosened by pouring a small quantity of oil around the top of the screw. When sufficient time has been allowed for the grease to sink in the screw may be pulled out.

WHERE A FAN IS NEEDED.

An electric fan placed in the kitchen so that it will create an outward blowing current of air will not only remove the heated air, but will carry away to some extent the smell of the cooking.

CUPS OF DESTINY

That no one may remain in doubt concerning the future there are now cups of destiny that foretell coming events after the tea they hold has been consumed.

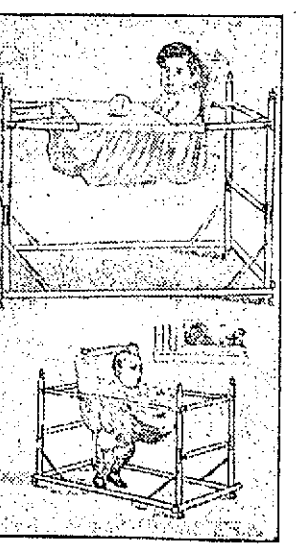

The cup of destiny is conventionally decorated on the outside, but the inside shows prophetic signs. A printed key comes with the cup where it is bought, otherwise the seeker after knowledge might be at a loss as to its meaning. A tea leaf covering a slipper means an adventure. On a ring it indicates a marriage. Two tiny turtles dooves if they have succeeded in capturing a leaf foretell an engagement.

A ship suggests an ocean voyage and a locomotive a journey on land. A bit of money signifies an inheritance, and an old shoe bespeaks good luck. The sign of a letter implies that one is on its way, and a package has the same significance. A small cat, almost hidden by the other signs, plaintively suggests the companion of the spouter. Then there is a medicine bottle to warn against sickness, and a grinning skull and crossbones is an omen of death.

To read these signs individually is a simple matter, but to weave them into a continuous and plausible story and eliminate all conflicting elements requires judgment, and some women do it much better than others. Should the tea leaves lodge on a ship and on a medicine bottle both of these signs

Every Baby Should Have One

NEXT to food sleep is the most important factor in making for a strong, healthy life for the baby. The crib pictured is a new idea that is meeting a long felt need and provides a safe, clean and comfortable bed. The white canvas duck body is both deep and wide and holds the infant securely and comfortably. The soft fabric

A NEW CONVERTIBLE CRIB.

A Bon Voyage Gift

A delicately suggestive as well as acceptable bon voyage gift is a box of correspondence paper. For foreign use there are gray white sheets accompanied by gray or metal blue tissue lined envelopes, pure white with envelopes lined with plain plaid and various colors with double faced envelopes of a contrasting shade.

Ultra smart are the pale gray dainty stationery having envelopes lined with a darker shade of gray, the French lawn in pale tan and dull blue and the squares of white fabric which fold once into their casings.

For quite small children there are special sizes in dainty and lawn sheets which fit into envelopes of from one and a half to two inches.

The correct way of presenting a stationery gift is to place it in a cabinet of cretonne, pliskin or silk which, emptied, will answer perfectly for handkerchiefs, ribbons and gewgaws and will continually serve to remind the possessor of the donor.

DON'T HAVE TOO MANY CLOTHES.

A woman who desires to dress well on a small income, and it can be done, must learn first of all never to have too many clothes on hand at once. Let her buy the things she needs, wear them out and then buy others. It is better to have one well fitting tailor made suit, kept it rigorously pressed and in order, wear it until it shows signs of wear and then replace it than it is to have several inferior suits. As in large stocks of underwear, they are only an anxiety. If not looked after frequently they grow yellow or a vagrant mouse makes a nest in them. Styles, too, alter frequently in underwear as in outer garments; also human figures alter and grow fat sometimes, and the treasured articles won't fit when they are brought out. As to shoes, it is better for the feet and better for the shoes to have several changes and wear them in rotation, but if shoes are kept too long the leather is apt to rot.

Spider is the mania of the moment for hatpins. Fashionable women are fond of indulging in crazes, and this is one of them. The spider and the fly in enamel and silver with the web embracing a bronze spider and a fly caught in the outer meshes is a winning pin just now. Huge colored enamel hatpins have superseded rhinestones. A good looking enamel pin has a large heart worked out in various tones of red enamel delicately wired with gold. So enormous are some of the new hatpins that there is room for quite a large sized powder puff when the hings is lifted. The girl who would always make sure of her vanity box will welcome this newcomer.

SCOVINO GUILTY MERRIMACK RIVER

Sent to Prison for From 15 to Is Not Exceptionally Low at the 25 Years Present Time

FITCHBURG, Aug. 20.—Lorenzo Scovino, who was indicted by the grand jury this week on charges of felonious assault, assault with intent and breaking and entering and larceny, was yesterday afternoon found guilty by a jury in the superior court on all three indictments.

Just before adjournment of court yesterday afternoon Asst. Dist. Atty. James A. Stiles moved for sentence and Judge Fessenden sentenced Scovino to state prison at Charlestown for not more than 25 years and not less than 15 years, the first day to be in solitary confinement.

Scovino did not testify in his own behalf. He claimed that he was innocent of the crimes charged against him and said that he did not know anything about any of them.

After he was sentenced he said that he would not live over a month in prison, stating that he would end his life the first chance that he got.

Scovino was arrested by Patrolman Goffley in this city on July 20. On that day it is alleged that he attempted to assault Little Anderson, aged 13 years. After his arrest Mrs. Tillma Luoma called at the police station and identified Scovino, saying he had assaulted her.

On June 28 the house of Leon Hayes of Westminister was broken into and a watch, ring, cap and suit of clothes were taken. When Scovino was arrested Hayes identified a suit of clothes and a ring found on the defendant as property which was stolen from his house. Scovino claimed that he got the property in Boston. Scovino is 34 years old and came to this city from Haverhill only a short time ago.

A jury yesterday afternoon heard evidence in the indictment against Walter J. Lawler of Boston, charged with larceny of $150 from George Anderson at Worcester on May 14. Lawler pleaded not guilty. He conducted his own case. Testimony was offered that Lawler with three other men entered the store of Anderson at Worcester late at night and that when the clerks were absent went to the safe, removed a cash drawer containing $150 in bills and several dollars in silver and ran from the place.

Lawler claimed that he had a wife and child living in Boston, who were dependent upon his support. He admitted being in Worcester with the three other men, but denied that he got any of the money.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty against him and he was sentenced to the house of correction for 15 months.

Louis Marion of Boston, who was jointly indicted with Lawler, pleaded guilty to larceny of $100 from George Anderson at Worcester. His case was continued until the October term for sentence.

Charles Alimantis of Hardwick was found guilty by a jury yesterday afternoon on a charge of breaking and entering and larceny of a watch at Hardwick. He was sentenced to the Concord reformatory.

John Johnson, who has been found guilty of attempting to commit larceny from the person of Frank L. Tatrow in this city on June 11, was called for sentence by Dist. Atty. Taft, but owing to the fact that the defendant claimed that he could prove that he was not a pickpocket and that he was never associated with John Carr, an alleged pickpocket, the court continued the case until Monday to allow him time to collect his proofs.

LAMP EXPLODED

Fire Followed Causing $6000 Damage

SOMERSWORTH, N. H., August 20.—Fire which followed the explosion of a lamp in the basement of Martell's department store, just before midnight last night resulted in damage of upwards of $6,000 to the stock and fixtures of the several stores which are located in the central block on Main street. The fire worked its way into the partitions and was a hard one to fight. Considerable damage was from water.

JOHN JACOB ASTOR DEAD

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Bellevue hospital was notified by the hospital on Blackwell's Island last night that John Jacob Astor, 74 years old, had died there at 3:55 o'clock. It is said that the man was a relative of Col. John Jacob Astor. When he entered the hospital he gave as his name of his friend, John Jacob Astor of 340 Fifth avenue. This is Col. Astor's 15th avenue address.

With regard to the extremely low mark reached by the water of Lake Winnepesaukee this year, a mark considered by many in a position to know to be the lowest ever reached by the water of the lake, there are several explanations, and among others that of Civil Engineer Henry W. Allen of the Amoskeag Manufacturing company of Manchester, N. H., seems most plausible.

Mr. Allen states that the principal reason for the shallowness of the lake is the decided meagreness of the rainfall in that section for three consecutive years past. The fall throughout this part of the state has been very inconsiderable and as a result the influx to the lakes and rivers has been constantly diminishing until at the present time it is practically at a minimum.

In 1908, the rainfall at the lake was 32.9 inches, which with the exception of the year 1894, is absolutely the lowest in 50 years, and no less than 10.32 inches below the average amount of rainfall for that period of time. In 1909 the rainfall was 37.14 inches at Lake Winnepesaukee, which mark is 5.28 inches below the average for the half century. This year, while the exact amount of rainfall has not been ascertained to a nicety, the total precipitation of moisture is known to be far below the ordinary fall, perhaps as far from the average as that of the preceding dry years. Thus it is easy to deduce that where the amount of rainfall, which is one of the chief sources of augmentation for streams and bodies of water, is so very small, the depletion of the lake or river will take place at a more rapid rate than the rate of supply, evaporation alone figuring appreciably in the lowering process.

In Manchester the same low amounts of rainfall are remarked for the past years. The fall of 1908 was 34.07 inches, which is 4.89 inches less than the average for the past 25 years. In 1909, 35.16 inches of rain fell in Manchester, or an amount which fell short of the usual by 3.30 inches. For the present year up to the first of August, 20.93 inches of rain was the record at Manchester, which makes the mark of 1910 up to the present date about 1.75 inches under the ordinary.

Another reason, and a potent one why there is not an abundance of water in New Hampshire's beautiful lake is the fact that there was a surprisingly small amount of snowfall during the past winter which resulted in a correspondingly small amount of spring run-off water, a living factor in determining the water mark of any basin. In consequence of the light fall of snow, light in weight as well as in color hue, the lake was given a poor start in the spring and never had an opportunity to literally "catch up" to its ordinary volume. Had there been a copious amount of snowfall, or had there been an abundant fall of snow and a dearth of rain, the lake would probably have held its usual amount of water, or would not have descended to such an unusually low level.

In spite of reports to the contrary, the Merrimack river is not exceptionally low and there are entertained no fears regarding the water power necessary to run the mills. It is, however, a stern fact that Lake Winnepesaukee has reached one of the lowest water marks on record.

A contemplation of this topic leads one on to conjecture what might be the result if the New Hampshire hills and mountains are denuded of their glorious trees. Spain was once a country of trees. Every hill and knoll was crowned with stately trees and all was well with the people. Lack of knowledge and foresight, however, allowed the inhabitants to cut down these gifts of nature, injudiciously, indiscriminately and today Spain in many parts is a sun-baked country, where rains are infrequent and where the rain, when it descends, meets with no controlling elements and tears down the hillsides and mountainsides overflowing the lakes and rivers, causing them to inundate the land temporarily only to dry up with the cease of the downfall and remain in drouth until the next period of showers, a deplorable condition.

Whether the slogan "Save the trees" is called for the case of Lake Winnepesaukee is a matter yet to be learned but it is true that now is the time for the New Hampshire people to act on the subject of conserving their arboreal treasures, for the state is really one vast arboratum, and the example of Spain is not a myth, it is an impressive reality.

Mr. McMurray testified that for general services he had two contracts with the Chickasaws at $5000 a year each; two with the Choctaws at $6000 a year each; another contract for special service at a fee of $15,000, only $3 of which was paid; a yearly expense allowance of $2700 under one contract and other general expenses amounting to $150,000. All of this money was in addition to the $750,000 allowed his law firm as a contingent fee in the citizenship cases, and in addition also to the contracts by which he now seeks to obtain 10 per cent of $3,000,000 as a contingent fee on the sale of $30,000,000 worth of land.

Asked by Representative Miller of Minnesota whether his work had tended to lead the Indians away from a close relationship with the government, Mr. McMurray said he always had done his utmost to bring the Indians and the government together.

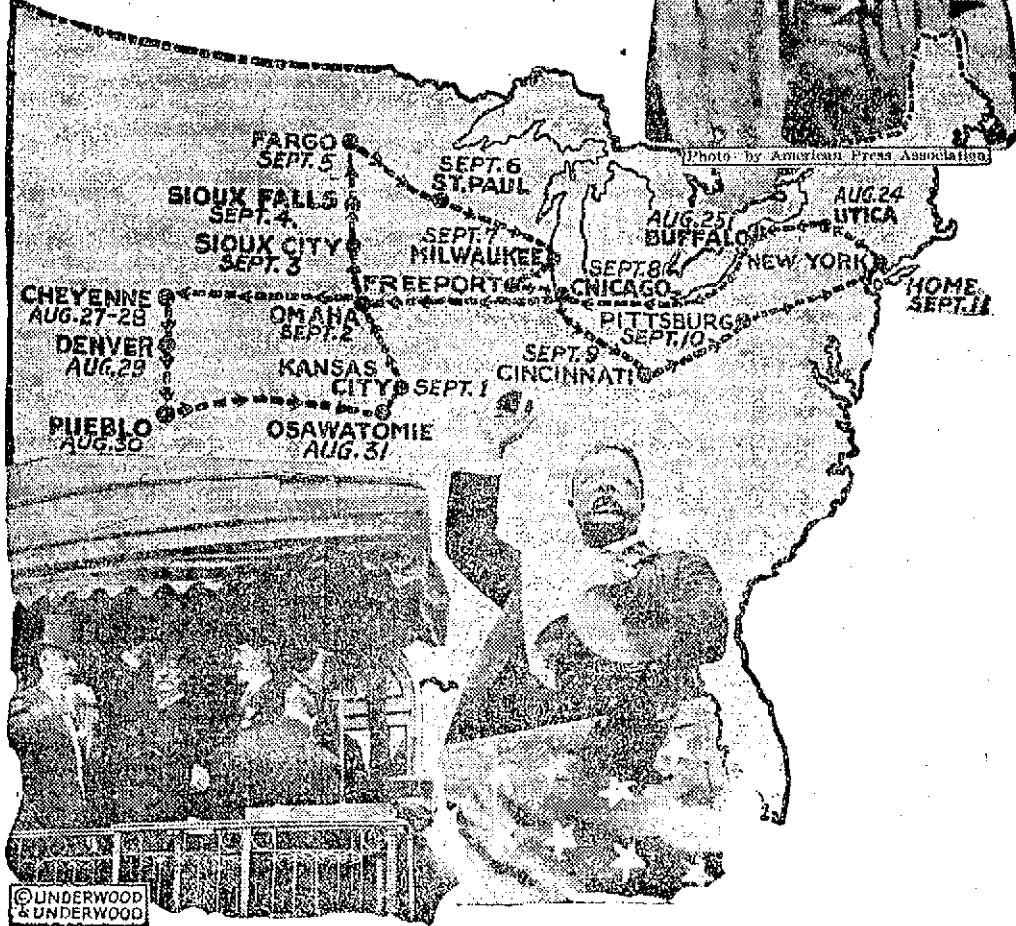

It was also shown that the Indians had employed other attorneys besides McMurray, each tribe paying $5000 a year, and one of the tribes paying $12,000 a year for special counsel.

OUT OF COMMISSION

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Aug. 20.—The "Flying Fish," the Burgess biplane which has several times been wrecked in the trials at Plum Island, was put out of commission again last night when John C. Stratton, after testing the machine out on Sharp turning for more than an hour, was preparing the machine for a flight, which was to be made by Walter H. Bowman, of Boston. All was in readiness for the flight when a connecting rod broke and smashed one of the propeller blades. As the machine was on the ground at the time, no one was injured, but it will be out of commission until a new engine can be secured.

MOISSANT'S FLIGHT FROM PARIS TO ENGLAND MARKS HIM AS GREAT AVIATOR

LONDON, Aug. 20.—By completing his flight from Paris to within twenty-five miles of London town, John Moissant, the Chicago architect, made a most remarkable record. He was unknown almost among aviators and had never been in England, until he flew across the channel. In the trip from Paris he covered a total distance of 200 miles and at the same time carried as a passenger his mechanic. He made but five flights before his sensational international skill. Moissant is a little man, 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighing 135 pounds, with keen brown eyes. His passenger was a burly French mechanic, weighing 175 pounds, who says he feels quite at home with his employer in the air. Moissant is 35 years of age and an architect by profession. He came to Europe on a pleasure trip, took up aviation and built two aeroplanes. His present machine is one of the latest Bleriot type, with a Gnome engine.

AVIATION MEET

At Sheephead Bay Race Track

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—It was a day aloft for the reporters at the opening of the three days' aviation meet at the Sheephead Bay race track yesterday afternoon. Eight were taken up. Four machines were in the air by turns. The drivers were Glenn H. Curtiss and his pupils, I. C. Mars, J. A. D. McCurdy, and Eugene Ely. Mrs. Mars and Mrs. Ely, both of them young girls, also went aloft with their husbands.

It was perhaps significant of the epoch that at two of the famous New York race tracks—Sheephead Bay and Brighton beach—the day was given over in one case to an aviation meet and in the other to a 24 hour automobile race.

At Ashbury Park, N. J., also Coffyn, a Wright aviator tried out a new model Wright machine, without the familiar front deflector, used for elevating and depressing, which Curtiss still retains in their latest design, which is frankly for speed only. The Wrights have adopted a rear deflector similar to that of the Bleriot monoplane. Coffyn said he was well pleased with his trial.

Afterward he tried for the altitude record in a standard Wright machine, but encountered nasty winds and intense cold aloft at a height of 4000 feet and was forced to descend.

Walter Brookings made a brief flight in the new machine late yesterday and a last performance both he and Coffyn ascended in it. They were in the air six minutes and came to earth lightly with a spectacular surveying drop which sent a thrill through the spectators.

Phillip J. Wilcox, the Columbia amateur who was to have attempted a flight across Long Island sound yesterday, came to grief after he rose and fell 40 feet to a bad smash. He was stunned, but not badly hurt. The machine was wrecked beyond repair.

N. Y. DEMOCRATS

Regret Attempt to Kill Mayor Gaynor

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 20.—By unanimous vote the democratic state committee decided here last night to hold the next democratic state convention at Rochester on September 29 at noon. Many of the delegates favored Saratoga but Rochester was chosen because the republicans had previously decided to hold their convention here during the same week and it was feared the hotel accommodations would be insufficient.

A resolution expressing regret at the attempt on the life of Mayor Gaynor and hope of his speedy recovery, was adopted by a rising vote. It reads: "Whereas—The attempt made last week upon the life of Mayor Gaynor has filled the whole country with abhorrence for such methods, and has again brought home to the people the dangers which constantly menace conspicuous public men.

THE DIVING HORSES

It was a source of great disappointment last year to the people of this section that it was impossible to make an arrangement with the famous diving horses to give their performances at Lakeview park for another week after the annual picnic. The horses were to have been brought to the city by the Boston and Northern Street Railway company, however, has been able to induce their manager to bring them back this year and they will make their first appearance at Lakeview park this season next Monday afternoon and will be there every afternoon and evening during the week, giving absolutely free exhibitions.

The horses are two magnificent white animals and are the original Prof. Hollownay's diving horses. They are the horses which were taken by Capt. Paul Boynton for a tour around the world during which they appeared before the various royal dignitaries of other countries. The horses are very graceful and the act is really a beautiful one. It is especially interesting from the fact that it is never necessary to urge these horses to do their work.

It has been demonstrated, and has been particularly demonstrated at some of the parks of the Boston & Northern system last year, that if the horses are left entirely alone they will make their dive more than once. They enjoy their dive into the waters of the tank fully as much as a boy in summer enjoys his plunge into the swimming hole.

Saw the American Sonder Yacht Harpoon Win His Cup

MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 20.—The Spanish sonder yachtsmen had their last chance today of winning the President Taft and the Governor Draper cup in the international series with the American yachtsmen. Under the rules only winners of the first four races of the series can continue but the descendants of old Spanish navigators, who blazed a way around the world, went out for today's contest with the Yankee yachtsmen in the thought that they had gained the real object of their American visit.

From the day of their arrival a little more than a week ago the Spanish yachtsmen have declared that the winning of silver trophies was the last object of their visit. What they endeavored to accomplish in America was a better knowledge of sonder yacht racing of American methods in worldwide sport and principally to obtain the good will of their hosts and the commendation of the yachting world as good sports.

So in starting off today for what they all believed to be their last American racing, the foreigners declared that they had won at least a majority of

THE ALDERMEN

Made Changes in the Polling Places

It is not very often that a meeting of either branch of the city council is held on a Saturday, but today proved the exception. The aldermen met this afternoon for the purpose of approving the list of jurors for the city of Lowell for the year 1910 and to take action on the order having to do with the location of polling places.

Ald. Gray called to order at 2.15. Department monthly reports were received and some minor petitions referred to the proper committees.

The list of jurors was approved as was also the order having to do with the location of polling places. Eight changes were made in the polling places. The changes were as follows:

Precinct 3 of ward 1, changed from Ninth street, corner of Bridge street to Jewett and Bridge streets.

Precinct 1 of ward 2, from Tremont, corner of Merrimack to Colburn and Merrimack.

Precinct 3 of ward 3, from the junction of Westford and Pine streets to Wilder street opposite the Highland school.

Precinct 1, ward 6, from West Clark street, corner of Fletcher, to Clark and Common streets; two of ward 6 from 438 Bridge street to West Sixth street, opposite the pumping station.

Precinct 2, ward 7, from Riverside street, corner of Mammoth road to Riverside street, between Mt. Hope and Plymouth streets.

Precinct 2, ward 8, from Lincoln street, near Quebec street, to Lincoln street, north corner of Main street.

PROMINENT G. A. R. MAN DEAD

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—William Chapple, Sr., of Laporte, Iowa, for many years prominent in Grand Army circles in the west, died today of anoxemia at the home of his son, Joe Altheim Chapple, the publisher and author, in Dorchester.

William Chapple, Sr., was born at Walton-on-Thames, England, June 5, 1835. He came to America with his brothers in 1856. Enlisting in Company I, 21st Iowa Volunteers, in 1861, he was severely wounded at the siege of Vicksburg. He was the father of the naval militia of Wisconsin, commander of the G. A. R. post at Ashland, Wis., and adjutant-general on the staff of Corporal Tanner while the latter was commander-in-chief of the Grand Army.

Chapple leaves four sons, Joe Altheim, William, John and Bennett.

Robert A. Taft, the president's son, was defeated by J. E. Keenan, one of Massachusetts cranks after a hard contest.

OBLATE PRIESTS

TRANSFERRED WILL BID FAREWELL TO FLOCKS TOMORROW

The new appointments in the Oblate order, announced a few days ago by the provincial, Very Rev. Fr. Smith, O. M. I., will not take effect until Monday morning. This arrangement is made in order to give the reverend gentlemen who are transferred an opportunity to say goodby to their respective flocks. They will start for their new posts on Monday.

INMATES WELL TREATED

The city of Haverhill sets a very good example in its treatment of the inmates at its city farm, as is disclosed in the following item culled from the Haverhill Gazette.

The inmates of the city farm are to have a holiday and an outing. The New Hampshire Electric railways will provide them with transportation to the beach, and the city council will entertain them to the extent of providing the lunches. The overseers of the poor first suggested the plan and Alderman Bean, head of the department, was named as a committee to act with Mayor Moulton in making whatever arrangements were possible. The mayor took up the matter with General Manager Woodman of the New Hampshire Electric railways, and he said that he would give them a special car to take them to Salisbury beach. The mayor and Alderman Bean agreed this morning that the city could afford to contribute lunches. The outing will be arranged for an early Thursday, the car being sent to the farm for the guests and returning to that point after the beach outing.

Joseph Halligan left today for South Barnstead, N. H., where he will remain until Labor Day.

Mr. John Leary, of Newark, N. J., has returned home after a very pleasant visit at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Daniel Lyons, 25 Cross street. Miss Nellie Lyons accompanied him to Newark.

Mrs. A. E. Sully and Mrs. C. G. Titcomb are spending their vacation at York beach.

Miss Nellie Flynn of School street is spending her vacation at Revere beach.

His Life Was Crushed Out by a Heavy Girder

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Knocked down by a wooden roller on which a 2500-pound girder rested, the girder being pulled at the same time by two horses, little Thomas Burns had his life crushed out at 6.30 last evening, when the roller and girder passing over his body before anyone discovered his plight.

A team owned by F. Knight & Son and driven by Leander C. Kellough, loaded with seven steel girders, attempted to pull into Douglas place, Roxbury, from Webber street, when the wheels stuck in the mud. The girders were to be dumped in the junk yard of Mark Angel, which fronts on Douglas place.

Unable to make any headway, the driver, assisted by helpers from the junk concern, dumped the girders into the street, and placing rollers under them commenced to pull them sepa-

New Bedford Strikers Refused Permit by the Police

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 20.—Today is one of the quietest for the striking carriers and building laborers and the public strength. The mayor says that no such demonstration would be permitted and as a result it is not thought that there would be further trouble before Monday, when it is said, some of the contractors will try to resume operations with strikers from the union ranks and with strikebreakers imported from Boston and other cities. This attempt is expected to bring about the crucial test of strength between the police and the strikers.

A delegation of the strikers' officials were refused a permit for a parade by Chief of Police Mason this morning and the same men received a rebuff from Mayor Ashley when they visited his office for the purpose of securing the much desired permit. They were insistent, declaring that they wanted to parade for the purpose of showing the

State Organization to Gather Here on Monday

All up for Hibernian Week! All indications point to the biggest week that Lowell has had for many a year.

While the decorations began to appear last Wednesday there was no general rush until today and from early morning decorators, professional and amateur, have been hustling with their bunting and other exterior adornments and judging from what was observed along the streets this morning Lowell will be generally decorated by Monday.

Chief Marshal Humphrey O'Sullivan of the big Hibernian parade which is to be the crowning feature of the week was too busy this morning to give any extended interview to the Sun reporter. He said: "It is impossible at this time to give out the complete roster of the parade but I can say that the parade

CAVALRY TROOPS MEN ARRESTED

Of O. M. I. Cadets Ready Tried to "Shoot Up" for Parade Bunker Hill District

The O. M. I. Cadets met at their armory last night and completed arrangements for the turnout in the great A. O. H. parade next Wednesday. The members of the cavalry troops were present and received instructions, while the cadets were told the time to report at the armory and the uniform to wear. It was a great meeting, practically every member of the military body being present. Quite a discussion arose between the rival "armies" in the sham battles at Milligan's grove on Thursday, and as a result Rev. Dr. Sullivan, O. M. I., agreed to arrange another sham battle to take place during the latter part of next month on the grounds in Tewksbury. This will be the decisive "battle" and will prove conclusively which is the stronger of the two "armies." The cadets will go to the field early in the morning of that day and the battleground will extend over a distance of about four or five miles. It will be strange ground for the boys, and so neither army will have any advantage. At the conclusion of the "fight" there will be a banquet served the young soldiers. Monday night the cadets will hold their final meeting before the A. O. H. parade. Every member is expected to attend, and this means that the cavalry troops and the field band are expected to be on hand at 5:30 Monday night. The field band will consist of twenty-five pieces, buglers, fliers and drummers. The silk flag presented to the cadets by Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan will be carried in the parade on Wednesday and will undoubtedly attract great attention.

FAKIRS RAIDED

Guess Weight Machines Were "Rigged"

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Coney Island received a visit from Commissioner of Weights and Measures Driscoll Thursday night and when he departed from the island he left behind him a saddened lot of "guess your weight within three pounds or it won't cost you anything men." Driscoll suggested some improvements in the method of conducting these enterprises which the operators thought were at least harsh. "I'm here," said Mr. Driscoll to the Coney Island reporters, "because the mayor and I have received several letters complaining that the operators of these machines seldom exhibit a card showing the price of being weighed, and charging also that the machines are rigged so that the operator almost always can make the weight registered come within three pounds of his guess." The commissioner looked over most of the weighing machines on the island and had himself weighed a dozen or 12 times. His weight he told the reporters afterward, is 176 pounds, and of all the machines he tested only one registered this weight. According to Mr. Driscoll, it is customary for some of the operators to charge as high as a quarter if they guess within three pounds of the victim's weight, especially in cases where the victim shows evidence of having been drinking, and therefore may be supposed to be somewhat off his guard.

Another source of trouble, said Mr. Driscoll, was the habit of the operators to run their hands over the victim's torso to aid them in estimating his weight. It adds them, too, the commissioner suspects, to locate the particular pocket in which the man before them carries his watch or money.

MAYOR HOWARD

Failed in Attempt to Settle Strike

SALEM, Aug. 20.—Mayor Howard made an ineffectual attempt today to induce the Salem shoe manufacturers to consider his proposition of arbitrating the strike of 600 men and women declared against six of the large factories and as many of the smaller firms. Four of the manufacturers refused to entertain the proposition. The strikers today had no trouble of any kind and good feeling seemed to be manifested everywhere. None of the shops have closed yet. The strikers have no stock in the factories and it is expected that by the middle of the next week the other departments in the factories will have caught up with the work and then the shops will close.

FRENCH CONVICT BIG LAWN PARTY A. O. P. WEEK

Is Ordered to Be In Aid of Canobie Lake Church

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Pierre Bally, a French convict who smuggled himself into Boston a year ago aboard a sugar steamer from San Domingo, has been ordered deported by Assistant Secretary of Commerce and Labor Cable. Bally is said to have escaped from the penal station at Cayenne, French Guiana, and is credited with a long record of crime. Under the law the steamship company will have to carry him back, and eventually he will be returned to the penal colony at Cayenne. He is now being held at New York.

According to the New York police, Bally, a year ago, was arrested and held for safe keeping and attempted burglary. He defaulted his bail of $5000 and was recently released. His criminal record in Europe, according to the department of commerce and labor, shows seven convictions and sentences ranging from six days up. He is said to have escaped from Cayenne in 1906.

LIVELY RUNAWAY

HORSE CREATED EXCITEMENT IN BROADWAY

A horse belonging to the Independent Beef and Provision company created considerable excitement in Broadway, Dummer and Market streets early last evening when it ran away and narrowly escaped colliding with several vehicles and running over children.

The horse was standing in Broadway near the corner of School street when it became frightened and ran through Broadway at a breakneck speed. Near the corner of Willie street the wagon attached to the runaway bumped into a light wagon belonging to Keefe Bros., but did little damage.

When the horse reached the Mann school it turned into Dummer street and narrowly escaped running over a number of children who were playing in the street. In attempting to turn the corner of Dummer into Market street the horse struck a stone post and was thrown to the pavement. The collision broke one of the shafts and tore a portion of the harness from the animal's back and in freeing himself from the wagon he again started down Market street but was brought to a stop by Dan Crane. The horse was apparently little the worse for his wild run. But for the shafts the wagon was little damaged.

TEXTILE SITUATION

Rather Dull But Not Without Its Encouraging Aspects

Several Local Mills Will Have a Brief Vacation—The Reports Show Financial Condition As to Assets and Liabilities

The textile business in Lowell is especially quiet, but conditions here are as hopeful as in other textile centres. A quiet period as yet unrelieved through the combination of a high cotton market and a low quotation for the finished product is responsible for the quiet that prevails. The great number of new mills shows that mill men have great confidence in the future.

Most of the mills are taking a vacation. The Massachusetts, Tremont & Suffolk and Hamilton mills will close next Saturday for a two weeks' vacation. The Lawrence Mfg. Co. is running only five days a week at the present time and while it was reported that this company would close substantially for two weeks some time this month, it was stated today that the company has not as yet decided upon a vacation.

The Boot and the Appleton mills will probably take a vacation but it was stated at the offices of these mills today that nothing definite in the line of a vacation had been decided upon.

The following from the Wool and Cotton Reporter, of even date, relative to Lowell mills will be of interest to the general public:

Massachusetts Cotton Mills

The Massachusetts cotton mills are now rushing the work on their new building, for the construction of which the new stock was issued earlier in the year. This new mill will greatly increase the earning capacity for this well-managed corporation, and undoubtedly by the time it has been completed the business will have picked up to such an extent that the company will be able to put it into operation at once. It is true, that on the present capital of $3,000,000, increased from $1,800,000 last February, the company will have to keep $240,000 in order to keep its dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum. This, of course, means that the company will have to earn almost $100,000 more than formerly. Last year the company showed a substantial surplus after dividends, so that when the new mill gets into operation no fear need be felt as to where dividends are going to come from. This year the corporation has been offered during the past week at $20, at which price it yields 6-2-3 per cent. For an eight per cent. stock which is non-taxable in Massachusetts, this looks to be an attractive purchase, which in the course of a year or so, can be turned over at a profit of $10 or $15 per share. In addition to the dividends which shall have been received, the third installment on the new stock comes due in October, and the final in February 1911, when the new stock becomes available.

Merrimack Mfg. Co.

Although Treasurer Greene has denied that the Pacific mills are planning to take over part of the Merrimack Mfg. Co., it is now felt generally in mill circles that the time is not far distant when the former will take over as the print works plant of the latter at least. As we have indicated for a year and a half, this has been the natural bent of affairs, and as a matter of fact, such an event will surprise no one. Ever since the Pacific mills absorbed the Merrimack plant, at Dover, it has been believed that they were after the Merrimack. In fact, the print works of the Merrimack Mfg. Co.'s plant is the only large plant east of Providence which the Pacific mills do not now own. Years ago, when the Manchester Print Works became extinct, the equipment went to the Cochecho mills, which in turn were absorbed by the Pacific mills. Then, recently, the Pacific mills bought the print works of the Hamilton Mfg. Co. What is more natural now than that the Pacific mills should take over the equipment of the Merrimack Mfg. Co.'s print works? The construction work now taking place on the property which the Pacific mills purchased in Lawrence is going on rapidly, and while many suspect that here will be located the great print works when all equipment which the company now owns, together with that of the Merrimack Mfg. Co., will be centralized, the utmost secrecy being observed, and no information concerning the plans has been made public up to the present time. The Merrimack Mfg. Co. has 24 printing machines, and a conservative estimate of the value of its print works is $1,000,000.

Under a centralized plant this equipment could be made to show better earnings, and the transfer would actually be a benefit to both companies, and it would add to the value of both the common and the preferred stock. Even at the present time there is a connecting link between both companies, for Arthur F. Lyman is president of both and his son, Herbert Lyman, is treasurer of the Merrimack. Every indication points to the fact that the common stock of the company is being acquired by certain interests and in upwards of three weeks the stock has advanced from 39 to 50. With all this, however, we look to see only the print works taken over by the Pacific. The financial statement of the Merrimack Mfg. Co., as compared with that of last year, reads as follows:

Real estate and machinery	$3,799,105	$5,646,581

Total	$7,960,469	$7,688,154

Undoubtedly the statement of the Hamilton Manufacturing Co. is of considerable interest to mill share investors in general just at this time, owing to the talk which has recently been made about this company. Several months ago considerable of this stock was kicking around the street, as it was seriously questioned whether or not the directors would pay the dividend which was to come due in July. There was little question but that the company had enough to pay these dividends, but it was believed in some quarters that the dividend would again be passed and the money put into further improvements. However, when the print works were disposed of to the Pacific mills, all doubt of the payment of the dividend vanished, and that curiously, as was later shown. However, as the fiscal year for this company ended on June 4, and the print works were disposed of later on in the month, the transaction does not show on the statement which follows. The statement, therefore, hardly reflects the real condition of the company at the present time, as there is every reason to believe that by disposing of the print works the Hamilton came into a goodly amount to add to their working capital. The net assets on June 4 were $726,978 as compared with $757,665 a year ago. The surplus shows an increase of only about $5000. However, with their present works now disposed of, we look to see Hamilton get better results in the next year or two, as that department had always been run at a loss. The property of the company is assessed at about $1,000,000 or more than what it is now selling at. A comparison of statements for the two years follows:

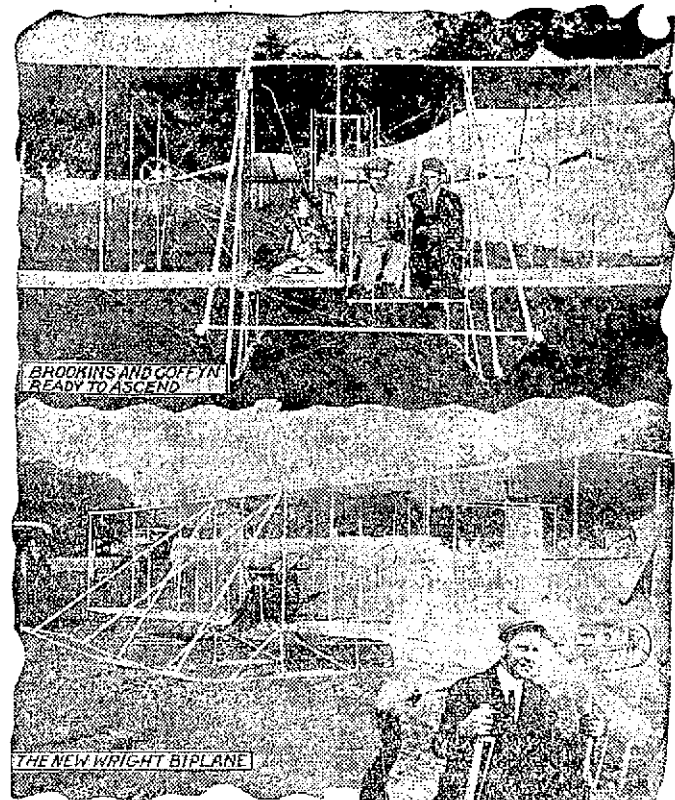

ASSETS

Lowell Bleachery
Few companies can show the improvement which has taken place in the affairs of the Lowell Bleachery within the past two years or more. When the capital of this company was last year it was felt by a conservative management that the company would be struggling under too heavy a load to try and pay dividends upon the former capitalization, and the decrease was, therefore, made for the good of all. Time has proven, however, that dividends might have been kept up even on the former capitalization. Management, the company has not only paid the regular dividend, but increased it from 6 per cent. in 1908 to 8 per cent. in 1909, and likewise paid an extra of 10 per cent. on January 1 of the present year. And unless all signs fail the stockholders are going to receive an extra before the end of the year.

This extra will certainly be as large as the last, but as to whether it will be in the shape of a cash dividend or a stock dividend which could easily be done by increasing the present very conservative capitalization, no one seems to know. With the stock quoted at 300 and paying 8 per cent. mill share investors are going to make no mistake in buying any of the stock which they may be able to pick up. For their stock is going to be worth considerably more than this figure before long. There are, however, only 2,000 shares of this stock closely held, we doubt very much if there is any of it to be obtained at the figure quoted. A comparison of the statement for the last three fiscal years follows, and should prove interesting to investors at large as well as particularly pleasing to the stockholders of the company:

WRIGHTS' NEW BIPLANE BEING USED BY BROOKINS

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 20.—Wright brothers' new aeroplane is now being used by Walter Brookins in his flights at Interlaken field. The new machine is the result of experiments by the Wright brothers to secure greater steadiness. It is frankly a freak machine, with but a small elevating plane in connection with the tail and is capable of carrying two persons besides the pilot. Brookins seems to have lost none of his nerve as the result of his recent accident, in which eleven spectators besides himself were injured, when his machine was badly smashed in alighting. The inventors expect to make some record flights with the new machine and may attempt to take the laurels from A. J. Drexel, Jr., for altitude.

HE LOST $1700 DEATH OF CHILD

Tourist Caught in the Is the Cause of An "Handkerchief Game" Investigation

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—The "handkerchief game," worked by Joseph Deusebio of the North End on Andrew Horgan of San Francisco while the latter was here on his way to Ireland, netted Deusebio an English draft of $1700 and $44 in cash.

Horgan, after a two weeks' search, succeeded in pointing Deusebio out to the police, and the latter was arrested and yesterday held in $2500 for the grand jury. Horgan's trip to Ireland is temporarily postponed.

Deusebio and a companion had a few drinks with Horgan and then offered to entrust him with their money for safe-keeping. Each handed out a "roll" consisting largely of paper. The three rolls were wrapped in a handkerchief. Later Deusebio handed Horgan another handkerchief containing an old padlock. Then the pair made their getaway.

Several days ago Deusebio tried to cash the draft on State street, but payment was refused and the draft was turned over to the police. At headquarters he explained that his companion had first offered to work the handkerchief game on him, and they had agreed to go into partnership. Horgan was their first victim.

Shaw Stocking Co.

On Jan. 1 of the present year, the stock of the Shaw Stocking Co. was quoted at $20 per share. It is doubtful if a share could be purchased at a figure below this even today, and in the seven months which have intervened the stock has shown but a fractional decline, a few shares selling at private sale at 12 1/2. This, to us, is every strong indication of the investment value of this stock: for it has had to be an unusually strong concern whose shares have not shown a decline of from 5 to 10 points during the past six months or in other words, since the depressed conditions in the textile industry set in. While many shares are today selling higher than they were several months ago, they nevertheless show a decline under the figures at which they were quoted at the beginning of the year. As previously stated, however, the shares of the Shaw Stocking company remained practically firm. As a matter of fact, the shares have been shown a serious decline, dropping down only to 110 at the time of the last panic, which figure, by the way, is the lowest point they have touched for over 10 years, at least. The shares of this company form what we believe to be a good investment for the most careful investor. For while they are not so attractive as some other mill shares from the point of view of dividends in the way of extras, the dividends of the company gives the best of grounds for believing that stockholders may expect both in good times and bad, dividends, at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum, which, buying their stock at 126, gives them a return of about 4.5 per cent. on their investment. This is certainly an ample return on a stock which has paid regular dividends of 6 per cent. on par continuously for the past 29 years. During the last 10 years, the company has also paid occasional extras.

The local mills of the Bigelow Carpet company closed today for two weeks.

Says That He Tasted "Wet Goods"

WATERTOWN, Aug. 20.—Chief Conroy of the local police department was called upon in court yesterday to test a package of wet goods alleged to have been seized by his men in a recent liquor raid on the drug stores in this town.

The firm involved in yesterday's trial was that of the East Watertown Drug company, and the contents of a bottle produced by the police as evidence was being questioned.

Chief Conroy was asked how he knew that his men had secured whiskey, as had been alleged. He admitted that his belief was because the bottles were labelled whiskey. "Bring the chief a glass and let him test the contents of one of the bottles," commanded Judge Abbott.

The chief tasted, made a wry face, and exclaimed: "It's whiskey, but I believe that it must be of a pretty poor brand."

John T. Bailey, for 11 years had been a conductor for the Boston Elevated company, was the principal witness in the cases against the drug company in which it was charged with the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors.

The cases were tried before Judge Abbott at Waltham, James H. Vahey appearing for the defense, and Attorney William Abbott for the government. P. S. Camille, chairman of the selectmen, who directed the raids on the drug stores, was sworn in as a witness and coached the town's attorney.

Bailey testified that he had gone to the store on three different occasions and had purchased half a pint of whiskey each time. He said he bought one bottle from W. R. Brown, manager of the store, and two from Mihan Jarredunlan, a clerk.

50 CENTS A WEEK

ALLOWED FOR THE SUPPORT OF HIS WIFE

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—"If a magistrate ordered a man to pay but fifty cents a week to his wife for her support," said Justice Page yesterday in the supreme court, "it is absurd and I will examine the papers submitted."

Francesco Napoli Calderone was suing for temporary alimony and a fee for her lawyer, pending the trial of her suit for separation.

Counsel for Calderone surprised the court by announcing that the application should not be entertained for the reason that Magistrate Corrigan in the police court had ordered Calderone to pay his wife fifty cents a week for her support.

"Fifty cents a week!" remarked Justice Page, in evident surprise.

"If a magistrate made such an order," he continued, "it is absurd and I will examine the papers and determine what allowance this plaintiff should have."

Mrs. Calderone set forth she was married to the defendant June 29, 1893; that she was 52 years old, and was a widow when she was married to Calderone. She said he was a widower with several children.

She said that she once found a bank book belonging to her husband which showed that he had $1200 in bank. Calderone set out that he was a lemon peddler, selling from door to door, and making from $2.50 to $3 a week.

BILL PAPKE

TO HAVE FOUR FIGHTS IN AUSTRALIA

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—After a conference between Promoter Hugh McIntosh of Australia and Bill Papke, claimant of the world's middleweight title, yesterday, an agreement was drawn up whereby Papke will meet four middleweights in Australia during a period covering about more than 20 weeks.

The four men named are Dave Smith, Arthur Crisp, Edward Williams, Les O'Donnell, all of whom are practically unknown to Americans. It was also agreed that none of these fighters should weigh more than 165 pounds ridside.

COLLINS & HOGAN'S SALES

Collins & Hogan, real estate and insurance, corner of Central and Market streets, passed deeds transferring a lot of land containing about 3500 square feet on Maple street, owned by Mr. James Everett. The purchaser was Mr. James Wood, who intends to build a three tenement house on this lot.

This firm also sold under a commissioner's sale, by public auction, a farm in the southwestern part of Tyngsboro, known as the Corns estate, containing sixty-four acres of land, a house, barn and sheds, for the sum of $1250. The assessed value being $1200. Also an acre and 1/2 of land for the sum of $75. The assessed value is $50.

The farm and the acre and 1/2 of land were bought by Mrs. Kate Connel of Tyngsborough.

SELLING STAKES

BIG EVENT EASILY WON BY PRETEND

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Pretend, backed from 9 to 2, to 13 to 5, easily won the Catskill selling stakes, seven furlongs, here yesterday. He had to be much the best to win, as he was last going down the back stretch, but came with a rush in the final quarter and won by three lengths. He was bid up to $1600 when he was offered for sale. This was an advance of $800 over his entered selling price. The stable protected him by the customary bid of $5. The surprise of the race was the disgraceful performance of Retigouche, the 10 to 40 favorite. He was thoroughly beaten at the head of the stretch. P. S. P. Randolph claimed Retigouche out of the race for $2700 and Hildroth in turn claimed Taquet for the same amount.

HIS WILL FILED

Spiritualist Left Nothing to the Society

TAUNTON, Aug. 20.—The will of William F. Nye, the eccentric Fairhaven millionaire, was filed yesterday in the registry of probate in this city.

Mr. Nye was the leading figure for many years in the Onset Bay Grove association, the spiritualist meeting place. He gave it financial support for many years, and was himself a firm believer in spiritualism.

It was popularly thought his will would bequeath something to the association but it did not.

On the contrary, provision is made for the sale of large holdings of his stock in the Grove association and in the New Bedford and Onset Street Railway company and the distribution of the proceeds among relatives and others.

The will filed here reflects the character of the man. The introductory clause directs that his body be cremated as this "assists the spirit in more completely eliminating itself from the past environments and the last kind act is performed that one can bestow upon dear mother earth in her over-burdened conditions with decaying and decaying mortal and animal forms so contaminating the well springs of the fountains of life to the living."

"Immediate friends or neighbors may scatter my ashes from the road along the old homestead field overlooking the pond and stretch of woodland where I spent my boyhood trapping the wild game."

Another characteristic clause appears in the codicil: "To Reuben Lawrence, I wish presented fifty dollars in gold as a souvenir of my very early memory of his grandfather, Uncle David Lawrence, as the eccentric schoolmaster of my father, who when aroused from his slumbers at his desk would exclaim, 'Zounds, boys, go to Elton with your question!'"

The heaviest beneficiary is his son, Joseph Keith Nye, to whom he leaves his Fish Island property with the oil refineries and the balance of his stock in the Grove association and the Onset Street Railway company, after certain blocks have been sold to pay other legacies. Bequests up to $2000 are made to other relatives and to old friends in smaller cash bequests.

Joseph Keith Nye is made executor and also receives the residue of the estate. The will was drawn July 9, 1910. An unofficial estimate of the estate places its value at a million dollars.

THEATRE VOYONS

If you haven't laughed for a month go to the Theatre Voyons today and see "Willie," a western comedy being shown there and you'll laugh all right. It is one of those comedies which begin with a smile and end with a real loud laugh. Another most interesting picture is a dramatization of one of Emile Zola's best works entitled "The Attack on the Mill." There are plenty of thrilling situations in this picture and the excellent company acting it has taken every advantage of them. Sunday a special concert will be given and the pictures will be not only the newest and best to be had but they will be shown exclusively at the Theatre Voyons. The musical program is pleasing and the well lighted theatre ensures physical comfort even in the closest weather. On Monday a special A. O. H. program will be offered.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

Today "St. Elmo" will be presented for the last two times at Lakeview theatre and if large, well pleased houses can be taken as a criterion, this great best play has been the biggest kind of a success.

The greatest play of the times and the most popular will be the attraction at Lakeview theatre next week, when Eugene Walter's "Paid in Full," with a cast that brings out in the highest degree the superbly dramatic qualities, the human sympathy, that makes the play the most appealing work the stage has seen.

"Paid in Full" comes to us direct from New York and takes the place of the stock company which goes to another of Mr. Flynn's summer parks. This is the first engagement of Mr. Walter's great play that has ever been played at a summer park, and to see this great play acted by a great cast is a treat that should not be missed by any one. Matinees will be given every day except Monday at 2:30, evenings at 8:15; and those wishing to buy seats in advance can secure them at Carter and Sherburne's drug store.

to make matters worse, they loaded on three corpses.

There's a mixup with St. Paul over Paul Howard, and as a result, Howard cannot play with Lowell for the present. Howard is coming along finely and, was batting in .312. His eye and arm were both good and next year he'll shine again.

At Whitridge has gone home, suffering with a bad arm.

Next Wednesday's game with Haverhill will be played at Spalding park and will be called at 3.30, instead of 3 o'clock.

The many admirers of Manager Tom Dowd will be pleased to learn that he has recovered from his recent illness and is in the game again.

Jake Boules has convinced the fans that he has it on Riley as a third baseman.

Dr. Collins, "angel" of the Nashua team of a few years ago, saw yesterday's game.

He was from Panama and he came all the way from New York to root for Fidelity and Magpie. And perhaps he could root! Lowell fans never heard anything like him before. He was the gentleman who sat in the old grandstand and vociferously demanded that Lowell win. He had an answer for everyone who attempted to butt in and lungs that were never weary. "Meggie, old girl," was his greeting to Jimmie. He had heard that nickname since he left the canal zone.

Burkett was chased off the field again yesterday by Umpire Rorty. It happened at Worcester.

The Detroit preacher who chose "Don't die on third base" as text for his sermon may be said to be applying thoughtfully the idea advanced by the Mattapoleet person who includes baseball in his program for heaven—Boston Record.

Dr. Crippen and His Affinity Start for Liverpool

QUEBEC, Aug. 20.—Dr. Crippen and Miss Ethel Leneve were taken from the provincial jail this morning in separate cabs and driven rapidly westward. The couple, in charge of Detectives Dew and Mitchell and the two wardresses, it is understood will board the Megantic which touched here early yesterday, and departs at 7 o'clock for Liverpool.

The detectives with Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve will probably meet the Megantic with a tug at Cape Rouge, seven miles from Quebec, on the St. Lawrence river, where the couple can be quietly placed aboard the steamship. Great secrecy was observed by the detectives in removing the prisoners from the jail as it was desired to avoid a demonstration.

Famous Sleuth Shot to Death at New York Boat House

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—George Gostelli, a New York detective who was well known for his enormous strength, was murdered early today. He was killed in a fight with a crowd at the landing of the Scowabaka Yacht club boathouse here. His assailant escaped. Gostelli had been acting as keeper of the boathouse during the summer while he was recuperating from a bullet wound received last spring while chasing a burglar.

Gostelli had had trouble with a crowd of men who were loitering about the boathouse. A week ago he drove them away. Half a dozen of them went to the boathouse last night and again Gostelli drove them away. They returned in a few minutes, one with a shotgun. Three shots were fired, two by the detective's revolver and one from the shotgun. Gostelli fell dead on the wharf. Gostelli came to America several years ago from Denmark. He said little of his past life. He prized greatly a seal ring on which was a coat of arms and was believed here to be a member of a noble family.

LOWELL BOY VICTIM OF ACCIDENT AT SALEM

As the result of having been run over by a big touring car on Essex street, in front of the Lynde block in Salem, about 6 o'clock Thursday night, John Charles McManemon, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McManemon of 25 Essex street, died about 10.30 in the evening at the Salem hospital. Young McManemon, whose skull was fractured and whose right leg was broken, as a result of being knocked down and run over, never regained consciousness.

According to witnesses of the accident the lad jumped from a wagon on which he was riding and stepped directly in front of a large touring car owned and operated by William Wallace Benjamin of West Somerville. The car was proceeding at an ordinary rate of speed, but the boy appeared suddenly in front of the machine that he was not observed until struck.

Cornelius Dubitzky saw the accident while in Bixby's furniture store in the Lynde block and ran out and picked up the unconscious boy. Dr. Elliott changed along just then in his auto and took the injured lad to the hospital, where everything possible was done for him, but it was found that his skull had been fractured and he failed to regain consciousness.

Mr. Benjamin, as soon as he saw that the boy was cared for, proceeded to the police station and gave his name and his account of the unfortunate occurrence. He was not detained. The car was a large, six-seater one, and carried five lady passengers besides Mr. Benjamin.

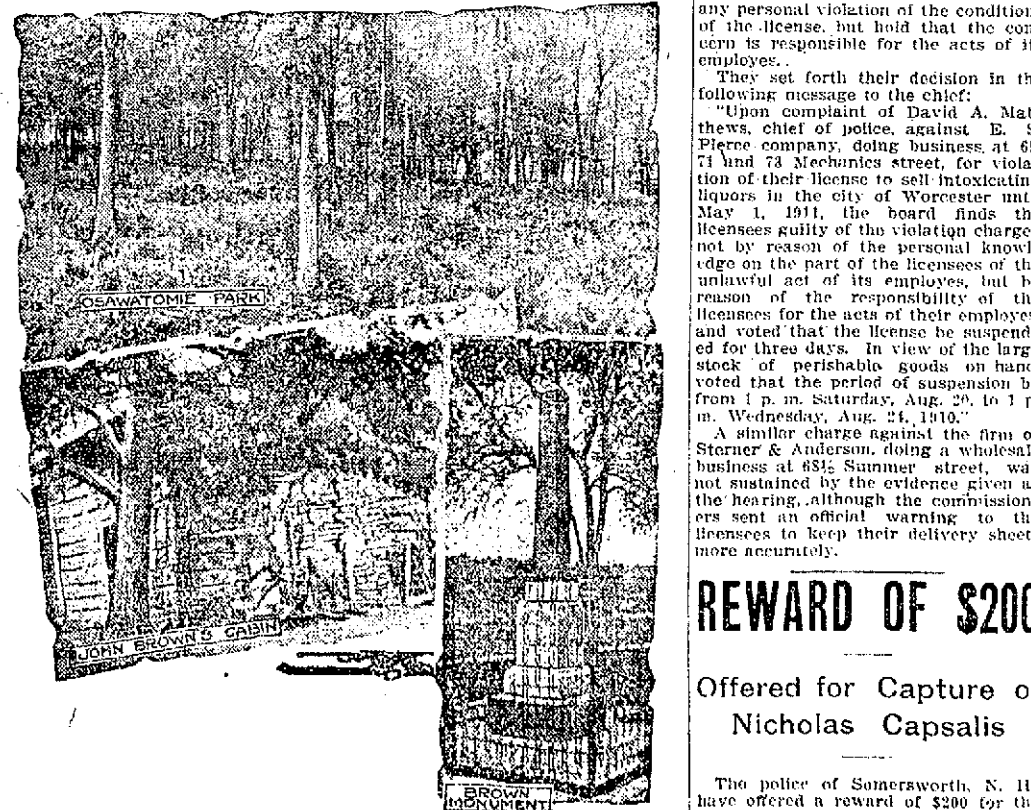

John Charles McManemon, the victim of the accident, was one of two children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McManemon of 25 Essex street, Salem. He was born in Lowell, July 7, 1900. An older sister survives him, besides the parents. The family had recently moved to Salem, and the lad was a pupil at St. Mary's school.

Mr. McManemon, the father of the unfortunate boy, has been employed until recently by the D. C. & C. Co. of this city and lives at 23 West Adams street. He had not been notified of his son's death until last night after word had been received at the local police station.

For the past couple of years misfortune has followed the McManemon family. In less than a year and a half Mr. and Mrs. McManemon have lost three children and the recent fatality brings the number up to four.

The funeral took place in Salem this afternoon.

OSAWATOMIE PARK WILL BE DEDICATED BY ROOSEVELT

OSAWATOMIE, Kan., Aug. 30.—The famous battleground of John Brown will be dedicated as a park by Colonel Roosevelt on Aug. 31, and at the same time the monument erected to Brown's memory will be in its new position facing the road as it is now surveyed. The park consists of about twenty-two acres and was purchased and presented to the city by the women of several societies. Besides the dedicatory address of the former president, there are to be three days of festivities, the last of which will be devoted largely to political utterances of various candidates for state and county offices.

BRAVE. SAILOR

Saved the Lives of Several Persons

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 20.—Second class baker James McGlone of the battleship Rhode Island, well known to the citizens of Newport gave for the men of the Atlantic fleet yesterday afternoon by saving three girls and many more people from being injured by a horse running wild.

The horse had been unhitched and started into the crowd and but for the quick efforts of one of Admiral Schreeder's men death might have resulted.

Whether McGlone, who comes from New York, was ever a circus performer could not be learned, but he knows something about horses. When the horse took him over two stone walls and landed on terra firma the baker from the Rhode Island was also there standing upright.

"That's nothing," McGlone said afterward. "The girls and others were in danger. I had a good clambake and did what anyone else would do. I was nearer the horse and it was my turn, that's all."

Baker McGlone seemed unmindful of the bruises on his hands until Robert Laurie of Mansfield, Mass., formerly of Newport, called his attention to the deep wounds.

His opponent, "Spiky" Sullivan, his seconds and the manager of the club surrendered themselves to the police.

Strike Is Threatened in Worcester

WORCESTER, Aug. 20.—Incensed because the Worcester Consolidated street railway company is said to contemplate changing an old rule relative to their Sunday pay, which will virtually wipe out, they claim, the recent increase granted by an arbitration board to the street car men of the city, the union members assembled in special session last night and voted to absolutely insist upon the old arrangement.

Under the old plan the trolley men have been paid for the time of the first run in the morning, which never got out on Sunday. Every line in the city strikes the first morning run on Sunday, but the men have always been paid for this time and now understand that this policy is to be dropped and pay allowed only for the actual time served.

No official notification to this effect has been received, however.

Claiming that it was specifically stated in submitting the wage question to an arbitration board that it was understood that "local conditions should remain unchanged," the men voted to insist that this alleged new move on the part of the company was changing a local condition and therefore in violation of the agreement reached and subscribed to a week ago.

The local union officials wired national headquarters in Detroit yesterday for a national officer to come to Worcester and attempt an adjustment of the matter. The men say that the new change would practically wipe out the advance of 1 to 1 1/2 cents an hour, and in some instances would more than wipe it out.

On the suburban lines the early Sunday runs start more than two hours after the usual schedule and the employees who formerly received extra pay for their service stripes will actually lose money with that custom abolished and the loss of Sunday time, the men claim.

The sentiment of the men last night was strongly in favor of a strike if necessary to settle the controversy and voted to absolutely insist upon the full pay on Sundays.

General Manager Henry C. Page of the Consolidated was not in the city yesterday and no official statement for the company was given out.

Word was sent to the local police last night relative to the reward and members of the department were again notified to keep a close watch for the man, who it is thought may be in hiding in this city.

fully examined the bond and its conditions and does not believe that the company can be held for more than $20,000 regardless of the period covered by the shortage. According to the attorney's opinion, as this shortage dates back for twenty years or more, the company could be held for $400,000.

CARRYING A FAD TOO FAR

Trees about one's place are very beautiful and serviceable, but sometimes they are apt to be dangerous, particularly when we have too many of them. A few trees about a place serve to shade the premises in very hot weather, but it would be better to have no trees at all than to have too much shade.

All physicians and sanitary engineers agree that it is impossible to keep a dwelling house healthful and sanitary without a reasonable amount of sunlight. It is an old saying: "If the sunlight does not enter a house the doctor surely will." Nevertheless, we find thoughtless people protesting against cutting down shade trees in front of premises whose occupants are suffering for want of sunlight to drive out dampness and disease germs which always lurk where the sun does not enter. We have had several instances of this short-sightedness in our city, notably on Nesmith street, which has altogether too many shade trees, and the result is a street that is hardly ever free from dampness. Not only are the trees in this street and many other streets of the city a menace to the health of the people residing under their crowded branches, but the trees themselves become diseased because they are set too close together. All this comes from selling out young trees improperly. While the trees are young, of course, they have no ill effect upon the adjoining premises nor upon one another, but when they attain full size they damage one another as well as the adjoining property.

Anyone who is competent to talk on the subject of shade trees will agree that large shade trees should be set at least thirty feet apart, otherwise they will become diseased in a short time after reaching full size. This is the deplorable state of affairs on Nesmith street, Chestnut street, and many other streets in our city, and worst of all, in a few years these streets may be entirely destitute of trees, unless the present rotting shade trees are thinned out so as to be about thirty feet apart.

Many people protest against taking down shade trees, because they don't want to lose them, but there is another side to the question. Common sense should govern this as well as all other propositions.

CITY CHARTER REFORM

The cities of the west are rapidly adopting the commission form of charter and with the most gratifying results. The old style of charter such as hampers our own city is condemned as cumbersome, a hindrance to the free and unobstructed transaction of business, a block to progress, the nursery of graft and a remnant of bygone days that should be thrown aside.

The cities that have adopted the new form of charter are prospering as they could never have done under the old and hide bound instruments which they discarded.

The new charters are of the Des Moines style or a modification thereof. They do away with the double chamber, provide for a small council with legislative and executive powers. By this means the transaction of business is facilitated and responsibility is centered so that if things are done right the people know where the credit lies and if wrong they know equally where to place the blame.

The city of Chelsea is making wonderful progress under the commission form of government. There is no chance for the deadlock so frequent under our charter.

With the three branches the chief executive, the upper and lower boards, valuable time is lost in bringing about an agreement on certain measures. What originates in one board is regarded with suspicion by the other board and then the latter retaliates in rejecting measures sent to it for concurrence. When both boards concur, the mayor may dissent and then there is more wrangling, more delay. Furthermore, it is very seldom that any measure passed by the city council in its present form represents the best judgment of both bodies. There is a lack of that calm and unselfish deliberation that characterizes the acts of a small governing body.

If Lowell is to get out of her present difficulties and to secure an up-to-date progressive method of doing business she must put aside the present antiquated charter and adopt one that will provide for a single chamber vested with all the powers now exercised by the mayor and city council.

For years certain necessary reforms and improvements have been advocated but with the deadlocking of the city council branches or committees thereof, nothing has been done and nothing can be done. Had we a single chamber made up of business men the city's business would be disposed of with ability and despatch instead of being held up by the wrangles, the political scheming and needless dickering of the bicameral council or some of its committees. It is a fact patent to every citizen that under our present system we cannot elect men of the highest ability, to office. This in itself is an evil that should bring about a change in the charter at the earliest possible opportunity which of course cannot be before next year. We want a charter that will secure the very best men we can find to transact the city's business, one that will do away with deadlocks that block business however urgent and that will at the same time conserve the city's best interests in every direction.

As to the real form of charter, if the commission idea be not favored let it be a modification in the direction of simplicity, despatch and reliability. These changes can be secured only by a single chamber of moderate size on which power and responsibility will be firmly centered so that the citizens will have no difficulty in placing responsibility where it belongs, rewarding the good and punishing the bad. Our present system scatters responsibility and power so that there is conflict of authority and no matter what happens the people are practically without a remedy unless where evidence of corruption or conspiracy can be proved. It is not alone necessary that public officials be honest and upright, it is also necessary that they be men of sound business judgment, that they possess more than average executive ability, with some experience to fit them for public office. It is impossible to secure a council of such men under our present charter.

SEEN AND HEARD

An insurance company, in which you have to die to win, issues a pretty little publication, sort of a party magazine, containing among other things hopeful verses which flow along with that "he happy and live long" swing, and by the time a fellow gets through reading those little "elixirs of life" he feels that his life insurance policy is a luxury rather than a necessity.

She came back to Lowell from Bass Point, bringing with her pleasant memories of a vacation delightfully spent and the dearest and tenderest of all her recollections had to do with a very nice young man. She knew that it was foolish of her to continue to think of him; it was only a chance acquaintance, made in the same old seashore way, but the harder she tried to forget the harder it was to forget, and she lapsed into a state of absent-mindedness that was embarrassing, to say the least. The climax was reached when the girl, trying hard to forget, was on a Pawtucketville car. She was accompanied by her sister, and the latter motioned the conductor to stop the car. The absent-minded sister observed the motion and still thinking of Bass Point and the new, quick love that filled her heart, stepped from the car while it was in motion. For a few minutes the poor girl's mind was relieved of all thoughts of Bass Point and its insouciant attraction, and by the time she had collected her parcels and her scattered senses, likewise a shoe which came off in the mixup, she vowed that she would forget Bass Point and all that went with it, or die in the attempt.

The bell-hopper was teasing on the counter in the office of a local hotel, working a toothpick overtime, when a traveler came in and addressing the boy, said, "What are your rates?" The boy gave the toothpick an extra push and replied, "I get nine dollars a week and my board I don't know what the other fellows get."

"I'm afraid," he said, "your father would never give his consent to our marriage."

"Oh, I am quite sure he would be willing to listen to reason," she replied. "Your mother never has seemed to like me very well."

"I can't understand why you should think that. Mamma has always said she thought you were a very nice fellow."

"I fear you would not like my family," she said.

"I think your father and mother are both as nice as can be."

"You know I couldn't support you in the style to which you have been accustomed."

"I shouldn't mind that in the least. Luxury has ceased to have charms for me."

"It will probably be impossible for me to afford even a cook."

"I have always thought that it would be so lovely to have a cozy little home, where I might do the cooking myself."

THINGS TO FORGET

If you see a tall fellow ahead of a crowd—
A leader of men marching fearless and proud—
And you know of a tale whose mere telling aloud
Would cause his proud head to in anguish be bowed,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a skeleton hidden away
In a closet, and guarded and kept from the day
In the dark, and whose showing, whose sudden display
Would cause grief and sorrow and life-long dismay,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a thing that will darken the joy
Of a man or a woman, a girl or a boy,
That will wipe out a smile or the least way annoy
A fellow, or cause any gladness to cloy,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

George Clinton Batchelder pleasantly scored the man who says he never read advertisements in a brilliant and witty address to advertising men, at Asbury Park a few days ago. This man never believed in ads or ad men," he said.

BEEF TRUST OFFICIALS ESCAPE PUNISHMENT FOR BURNING BOOKS

JUDGE KENESAW M. LANDIS

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Despite the fact that Alfred R. Union, general counsel for Armour & Co., and president of the Chicago school board, and three other Armour officials have been freed from blame for the burning of the stenographic notebooks wanted by the prosecution in connection with the trial of the big packing companies, the interest in the trial continues. Among the witnesses examined in connection with the disappearance of the notebooks was

Miss Maud I. Dimock, for seven years the private secretary of Arthur Meeker, general manager and director of Armour & Co. She failed to remember about any event that the court was anxious to learn of and proved a most unwilling witness. When all the persons connected with the burning of the books had been examined Judge Kenesaw M. Landis dismissed the contempt proceedings against Union and the others.

"No, sir, he never read an ad in all his born days. This was his boast, and he had said it so often he believed it to be true—and he kept on saying it. Then he got out of an advertised bed. Took a bath with advertised soap. Put on an advertised collar and tie. Pulled on a pair of advertised shoes. Hitched up his trousers with advertised suspenders. Sat down to eat an advertised breakfast food. Drank two cups of advertised coffee, putting in four lumps of advertised sugar. Went to his office in an advertised taxicab. Looked in the advertising column of a paper for an advertised play. Sent for tickets to an advertised agency. Called up his wife on an advertised telephone. Put on an advertised hat. After the show went out to an advertised restaurant. Drank an advertised wine. Smoked an advertised cigar—and yet, he never read an advertisement in all his life. Well, maybe he didn't, but after this one day's doing I must say I don't believe him. Of course you don't. How could you?"

Whereupon the king smiled sweetly. The secretary had struck a responsive chord, for George V. is in fact the first philatelist of the country. His unthumbed collection is valued at many thousands of pounds. It contains practically every stamp since 1840, the date of Rowland Hill's innovation, not only of England and the British colonies, but of every country that ever issued a postage stamp.

The new British stamp will, it is said, soon appear, and, of course, it will bear the effigy of George V. in profile, but turned in the opposite direction to that of Edward VII. The postoffice has its established customs. One of these is that two kings, one following another, must not face in the same direction.

While the Republic of Liberia is attracting some little of the world's attention one may recall that there still lives, in a quiet street off Battersea park, a remarkable old lady, Mrs. Jane Roberts, the widow of Joseph J. Roberts, who was elected the first president of Liberia in 1847. Mrs. Roberts was born in America in 1818, the daughter of a Baptist minister named Waring, and went to Liberia with her parents (both octogenarians) in 1824. She married Roberts in 1836, and accompanied him on numerous visits to Europe. She visited most of the European courts in the fifties, and knew Napoleon III. rather intimately. Mrs. Roberts lived for over seventy years in Liberia before going to end her days in London.

Former Vice-President Charles W. Fairbanks will stump Indiana this fall for the republican congressional and state tickets.

A Quantity of Liquor Was Found

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 20.—The most of the day in the supreme court yesterday was taken up with liquor and minor cases: From appearances nearly every one of those indicted on the charge of liquor selling will demand a jury trial, and prominent lawyers have been retained for the defense.

The first trial yesterday was that of George Perry of Bangor, who has a place on Lower Union street. Several policemen testified that they found a "hide" in the ground just outside of his shop covered with boards, from which they took 18 pints of whiskey. They said they had searched Perry's place several times, but found no liquor, although glasses found had an odor of whiskey and many men were seen going in and out of the place.

Perry went on the stand in his own defense. He said he had seen the "hide," but did not know to whom it belonged and that it was not his. He said a dozen other places, he added, opened into the same backyard. He said he had not sold any liquor.

The jury brought in a verdict of guilty.

Stargis Deputies Toward Lucas Clifford and Fernald were the principal witnesses in a liquor case against William Smith of Oldtown, who kept a hotel in Milford. The deputies said that they followed a wheelbarrow track to a henhouse and found 90 bottles of ole and some whiskey. The defense was a denial of ownership. A verdict of not guilty was returned.

Nicholas Manchula and Ralph Letor were before the court charged with assault upon Cleveland McCarthy, colored. The alleged affray took place in Hiram, Me. The indictment against Letor was not pressed. Manchula was sentenced to jail for three months.

Richard Mahoney of Baltimore, said to have figured as a mailer under the name of Kid Birch, indicted on the charge of stealing a suit of clothes from a freight train on the M. & N. railroad, retraced a plea of not guilty and was sent to jail for nine months.

POLITICAL POT

Is Boiling Hot in Maine These Days

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 20.—The rock ribbed republican state of Maine is trembling in the political balance. The state election is to be held Sept. 12, at which time a governor, four representatives and a state legislature, which is to choose a United States senator as successor to Senator Eugene Hale, are to be elected, and at no time in the history of the state since the days of the Greenback party has the outlook for republican success appeared more gloomy. For the first time in 30 years interest. There must be a process of evolution before nationhood is reached.

"Nor have we the true national spirit. One proof of this is found in the fact that some of our public men as well as publicists advocate further assistance to the mother country in contributing to a navy and advocating money contributions, while neglecting or overlooking their own home needs. The true policy that made for imperial greatness was the policy of building up the component parts of the empire."

The speaker then dwelt at length with the four possible destinies of Canada, namely, remaining in the position in which she is at present, which he regarded as very improbable; imperial federation, which would be an unworkable and unworkable condition; annexation with the United States, and independence.

"Imperial federation means an imperial council with a preponderant British influence," said Mr. Bourassa. "Conditions today in Canada make for annexation rather than for imperial federation. The penetrative influence of trade by rail and coastal lines; the mental propensity of the two peoples living under the same or similar conditions; industrial and social; the constant inter-communication of Canadians and Americans, are all powerful factors making for annexation."

FOR ANNEXATION

Nationalist Leader Declares His Position

ANTIGONISH, N. S., Aug. 20.—Annexation with the United States for Canada was declared for in an address by Henry Bourassa, M. P., the nationalist leader of Quebec, before the summer school of science of the University of St. Francis Xavier college. He said in part:

"Canada is not a nation, and it is time to endeavor to blink the fact. We are not on the same footing as even such a small state as Switzerland. We have no treaty-making power, our criminal laws are subject to the extradition laws of Great Britain, and immigration is governed by imperial

USE FOR ODD BITS OF SILK.

ST. ANDREW'S CROSS DESIGN.

AN ELABORATE MOTIF.

SMALL SQUARES AND HALF SQUARES.

A FAD of the minute is the revival of the patchwork quilt—in an edition de luxe, as it were. Used in certain rooms in connection with old-fashioned furniture the effect is often very good. The four squares illustrated as designs for quilts are an excellent means of using up odd pieces of cretonne, silk or printed cotton. The foundation is of unbleached cotton, and upon this the patchwork pieces are arranged in geometrical patterns firmly tacked in place and finally sewed down with the sewing machine. The lines of stitching running close to the turn-in edges makes a good finish.

Each square measures thirteen inches across and is finished with a turnover hem three-quarters of an inch wide machined down on the right side. Square No. 1 is particularly ingenious. The center octagon consists of a scrap of dress satin in pin stripes of gray and black and white. This is laid upon a lozenge of old fashioned shot silk with tiny halftone spots in cream. The corners that form the lozenge into a square are of dark blue silk flowered with a honeyuckle pattern, and the whole is framed in a border, three-quarters of an inch wide, of plain blue silk stitched down with white thread. The four octagons in the corners are of red silk, also stitched down with white. For these and other geometrical designs the worker of the quilt had little tin shapes cut out to insure perfect accuracy. When several pieces have to be joined together to form one ornament they should each be lined with paper cut out when required, the material being tacked lightly to it and turned over the edge. The paper backing is kept up until the pieces have been evenly sewed together, when it can be easily withdrawn. Square No. 2 has for a center a St. Andrew's cross in blue sprigged cotton

THE MODERN UNREST

The "fever called living" is growing intense in this new world of ours. We have gradually evolved a modern malady—a mental St. Vitus' dance that throws us into a perpetual condition of febrile activity. As an Irishman remarked, "We are in a frantic hurry to get nowhere." Speed, senseless speed, has become our divinity, and we worship it to the exclusion of all things! We have no time for friendship, no time for anything, not even love. The telephone is our confidant and sometimes our betrayer. The lies that ill-fated instrument has to register would pave the United States. It is said that motoring began the downfall; the week end finished us. The blessed rest of "over Sunday" that gave us renewed vigor on Monday is a thing of the past. We want to fly anywhere to get rid of our degenerate and uninteresting selves. What matters it if we get cinematographic views of scenery, that we are blinded by the dust and poisoned by the fumes of petroleum? We are "getting there," and when we reach the goal ten to one we vote it "rotten." We are bored. Still, we must go on, on, on. And what of woman, the restful, the serene—woman the muse, the inspiration? We women, too, are suffering

ALL ABOUT THE HOUSE

Every housewife should realize the possibilities of salt as a cleanser. Indeed, salt and kerosene should be in the cleansing outfit of every household, for together they form a combination which eradicates almost any dirt. For polishing mirrors nothing can exceed the merit of salt. When applying it the glass must be wet with clear water, then the salt rubbed on with a damp newspaper. The final rubbing may be done with dry newspapers or with a chamol's skin. A tablespoonful of coarse salt, a teaspoonful of ammonia and a pint of hot water mixed and kept for rinsing decanters and carafes will make them as bright as new. Silver discolored either by egg or other use will respond at once to a vigorous rubbing of damp salt. Salt and vinegar combined will usually restore polish to brass and copper, and salt is a wonderful restorer of polished wood surfaces that have been dulled with hot dishes. To brighten such spots cover the gray portions with salt, which is then wet with olive oil, all of the latter being poured on that the salt will absorb. This should stand for twenty-four hours, when it should be removed and the surface rubbed with a soft cloth. If all grays have not disappeared repeat the salt and oil bath. For removing discolorations of fruit from teeth or hands salt is excellent.

A Smart Evening Gown

SIMPLICITY is the keynote of this charming evening gown, but it is a simplicity that only an artist dreams of. Still, there are many now points about the costume that the amateur dressmaker can use to advantage. The sleeves are a question in point, and the arrangement of the train drapery. As illustrated, the gown is of an iridescent net studded with fine jet beads. The foundation is black satin, which helps to bring out the lovely colorings of the transparent fabric.

ELABORATE EFFECTS IN HOSIERY
The newest hosiery shows many charming effects. Stockings beaded across the instep and up the ankles are perhaps the most novel, while others embroidered in vinelike designs appear more graceful than those with the pattern scattered indiscriminately in an all over or loose pattern. A design describing a circle just above the instep is new, and there are innumerable drop stitch weaves. The colors are unusually varied and can be found to match any gown. Some are of a most beautiful changeable effect in silk, while others are so closely embroidered that they have a two toned effect without being actually woven in that way. Plain stockings of fine, silk or gauze still hold their popularity with women of conservative taste for all except elaborate occasions or for home use with dainty house gowns or lounging robes.

HOW TO EAT A RAW EGG.
Break the yoke of an egg into a dish with a teaspoonful of white sugar and a teaspoonful of orange or lemon juice and beat lightly together with a fork. Put the white on a plate and add a pinch of salt. Then with a broad bladed knife beat it to a stiff froth. Now, as lightly as possible mix all together in the dish. Transfer it to a tumbler, which it will nearly fill if it is properly prepared. Any fruit juice may be used in place of the lemon or orange.

RUSTY SCREWS.
Screws that have rusted in their bed of wood may be easily loosened by pouring a small quantity of oil around the top of the screw. When sufficient time has been allowed for the grease to sink in the screw may be pulled out.

WHERE A FAN IS NEEDED.
An electric fan placed in the kitchen so that it will create an outward blowing current of air will not only remove the heated air, but will carry away to some extent the smell of the cookery.

FELIX, the Parisian couturier of fame, is responsible for the new cloak model illustrated. The material he has chosen to use is a soft though rather heavy black silk, and the creation is kept entire in the black color-

CUPS OF DESTINY

That no one may remain in doubt concerning the future there are now cups of destiny that foretell coming events after the tea they hold has been consumed. The cup of destiny is conventionally decorated on the outside, but the inside shows prophetic signs. A printed key comes with the cup where it is bought, otherwise the seeker after knowledge might be at a loss as to its meaning. A tea leaf covering a slipper means an adventure. On a ring it indicates a marriage. Two tiny turndoves if they have succeeded in capturing a leaf foretell an engagement. A ship suggests an ocean voyage and a locomotive a journey on land. A bit of money signifies an inheritance, and an old shoe bespeaks good luck. The sign of a letter implies that one is on its way, and a package has the same significance. A small cat, almost hidden by the other signs, plaintively suggests the companion of the spinster. Then there is a medicine bottle to warn against sickness, and a grinning skull and crossbones is an emblem of death. To read these signs individually is a simple matter, but to weave them into a continuous and plausible story and eliminate all conflicting elements requires judgment, and some women do it much better than others. Should the tea leaves lodge on a ship and on a medicine bottle both of these signs

IN THE COOKERY WORLD

FROZEN CUSTARDS--THEY'RE OFTEN BETTER THAN ICE CREAM

WHEN you haven't enough rich cream to make a good ice cream, why not have a frozen custard for dessert? Indeed, if well made the difference between the two is hardly noticeable. In fact, a good frozen custard is much better than poor ice cream. A frozen custard is made like an ordinary one, but instead of being baked or boiled it is frozen. When made with fruit flavoring it is particularly delectable. No flour, cornstarch or other thickening is used, but only eggs, milk, sugar and flavoring. Yolks of eggs are used liberally, and these make the dessert nutritious as well as refreshing. A frozen peach custard is among the best. The following recipe is especially to be recommended: Prepare a quart of peach pulp by pressing peeled peaches through a sieve and sweeten with a cupful of sugar. Prepare a thin custard from three cupfuls of milk, a cupful of sugar and four egg yolks. Heat the milk to the boiling point, beat up the egg yolks with the sugar and add to the boiling milk. Let it cook until it coats the spoon, but not until it boils. Stir almost constantly while heating to prevent curdling. Remove it from the stove and when cool mix with the peach pulp. Set the whole where it will become perfectly cold and freeze it like ice cream. A plain frozen custard is very nice if peaches are sliced thin and added to it while it is freezing, or, better yet, after it has frozen, but before it has become hard. If slices of fruit are added at the beginning they will probably turn into icy lumps unless soaked in brandy or wine. The flavor of the fruit is better preserved if it is added at the last. The flavor of caramel is very attractive in frozen desserts. For a frozen caramel custard have ready a quart of milk and the yolks of six eggs. Let the milk gradually heat in the double boiler. While it is heating melt three tablespoonfuls of sugar in a quarter of a cupful of water. Let it cook to a dark rich caramel, stirring constantly to prevent burning; then stir into it two cupfuls of boiling water and a cupful of sugar. Let the water and sugar boil rapidly for fifteen minutes. Mix it with the boiling milk, and when it boils again add the egg yolks, beaten together. Stir thoroughly to prevent curdling. When cold freeze it and serve with white sponge cake, prepared from the whites that were left over after using the yolks in the custard. Sometimes to a plain frozen custard that is simply flavored with an extract the whites of the eggs are added. Whip them until stiff and beat them through the mixture.

GOING A-VISITING

"When I went home for the holidays for the first time," said a woman who is married now and has daughters of her own, "I made my initial attempt at packing. I just turned my bureau drawers upside down, one by one, and dumped the contents in the trunk. I touch my daughters better, for when one goes upon a visit the hostess if she chances to be in one's room when the trunk is opened is likely to size one up by the way the contents look, to say nothing of the maid's opinion. If they are a jumbled, tumbled mass she is pretty sure to think, 'If she doesn't know one well, 'Dear me, I'm afraid my guest's room will be in disorder during this visit!'" There's a science in packing. Some women make a profession of it, packing other people's trunks for pay. But it is a science any one may learn with a little effort, and in these days, when every one is making week end visits and rounds of visits, and it is so often impossible to take a maid along, it is a necessary science to know. The size of a trunk for week end visits is of the first importance. A trunk about 2 feet 8 inches long by 18 inches high is a convenient size. This trunk will fit easily into the rack of a motorcar. Summer wardrobes, being light in weight, can be packed in the trunks with astonishing ease. Too close packing, however, should be avoided, for it will crush out the new, fresh appearance which is the chief charm of summer frocks. It is better to go on a visit with a few clothes all crisp and attractive looking than to have a greater number of bedraggled ones. Everything, moreover, that is to be put into the trunk should be in perfect order. Each button and tape should be in its place, velvets should be fresh, gloves should be spotlessly clean. At house parties it is often necessary to change the clothes very quickly, and, as every guest cannot have the service of the maid at the same time, it is well to be independent. The problem of what to do with jewels when traveling has been somewhat simplified by the introduction of suede jewel bags, made to suspend from a belt worn under the skirt of the gown. They are fashioned in different shapes and sizes and divided into several convenient compartments. Good ones cost not less than $8. To hold semiprecious jewels, beads, buckles and various other ornaments, cases in imitation of the suede ones are made of heavy linen and tucked securely to the inside of one of the compartments of the trunk. After a trunk is supplied with a set of linen linings it often follows as a natural sequence that various pockets made of the same stuff are tacked to the inside of the trays and the hat box. The more certain kinds of things are kept together the easier it is to find them in the trunk.

THE NEWEST "BEST" GIRL.
The latest invention in weddings is the "best girl," who occupies the position toward the bride that the "best man" does toward the bridegroom. She was invented recently by a young bride. The "best" girl on this occasion arrived at the church some little time before the bride and at once proceeded to the top of the center aisle, where she took up her position on the left hand side exactly opposite the best man and there awaited the coming of the bride, upon whom during the ceremony she attended in much the same manner as the bridegroom is attended by his best man. She held the bride's bouquet and gloves and generally "supported" her. "I never could see the use of a crowd of girls trooping up the aisle behind the bride," remarked the bride on that occasion. "I really don't see why I should not be attended on my wedding day by my best girl friend in the same way as my husband will have his best friend in the person of his best man."

Every Baby Should Have One

NEXT to food sleep is the most important factor in making for a strong, healthy life for the baby. The crib pictured is a new idea that is meeting a long felt need and provides a safe, clean and comfortable bed. The white canvas duck body is both deep and wide and holds the infant securely and comfortably. The soft fabric gently yields to every position of the child, giving perfect support and rest. The canvas may be taken out and easily washed. The crib weighs only eight pounds and is conveniently moved from room to room or out on the porch. Besides these advantages, it can be instantly changed into a chair or walker by simply adjusting the canvas, so that as the baby grows this invention takes care of it during the day and night. The price of the crib is $4.50.

A Bon Voyage Gift

A delicately suggestive as well as acceptable bon voyage gift is a box of correspondence paper. For foreign use there are gray white sheets accompanied by gray or metal blue tissue lined envelopes, pure white with envelopes lined with clean plaid and various colors with double faced envelopes of a contrasting shade. Ultra smart are the pale gray dimity stationery having envelopes lined with a darker shade of gray, the French lawn in pale tan and dull blue and the squares of white fabric which fold once into their casings. For quite small children there are special sizes in dimity and lawn sheets which fit into envelopes of from one and a half to two inches. The correct way of presenting a stationery gift is to place it in a cabinet of cretonne, plaid or silk which, emptied, will answer perfectly for handkerchiefs, ribbons and gewgaws and will continually serve to remind the possessor of the donor. DON'T HAVE TOO MANY CLOTHES. A woman who desires to dress well on a small income, and it can be done, must learn first of all never to have too many clothes on hand at once. Let her buy the things she needs, wear them out and then buy others. It is better to have one well fitting tailor made suit, kept it rigorously pressed and in order, wear it until it shows signs of wear and then replace it than it is to have several inferior suits. As to large stocks of underwear, they are only an anxiety. If not looked after frequently they grow yellow or a vagrant mouse makes a nest in them. Styles, too, alter frequently in underwear as in outer garments; also human figures alter and grow fat sometimes, and the treasured articles won't fit when they are brought out. As to shoes, it is better for the feet and better for the shoes to have several changes and wear them in rotation, but if shoes are kept too long the leather is apt to rot. Soles is another silk that lends itself to drapery. Twilled and corded effects are to be particularly good for covering entire hats and for trimmings. The illustrations show three hats for early fall--Paris models in straw. The modified lamballe shape of black straw and velvet, with crown of white net and roses, is very chic. A good model of the rather large type is of bay colored tagal straw, lined with black velvet and trimmed with a black asprey. Still another hat is a smart affair of gray green fancy straw simply ornamented with a stunning long white breast where the shape rolls up at the side. Spiders are the mania of the moment for hatpins. Fashionable women are fond of indulging in crazes, and this is one of them. The spider and the fly in enamel and silver with the web embracing a bronze spider and a fly caught in the outer meshes is a winning plan just now. Huge colored enamel hatpins have superseded rhinestones. A good looking enamel pin has a large heart worked out in various tones of red enamel delicately wired with gold. So enormous are some of the new hatpins that there is room for quite a large sized powder puff when the huge is lifted. The girl who would always make sure of her reality box will welcome this newcomer.

Hats for the Early Fall

THE small hat in the fall will be a smart model, but there are certain women who always wear large headgear, no matter what the edict of Dame Fashion may be in regard to millinery. The Hindoo turban in draped effects promises to be good style, and the chapeau cloche, or bell shaped hat, which resembles the peach basket enough to be its twin, is to be first favorite. Many of the new shapes show the mushroom tendency, and an indentation or a distinct opening in front is observed. Turb crowns are in high favor, and the brims of smart chapeaus are often softened with ruffles, puttings and frills which are very flattering to the wearer. Beaver hats in two tone and two piece effect are among the fall showings. Colored beavers faced with black, too, are liked, but there is no mistaking the fact that velvet hats are to be very much worn. Among the trimming fabrics is a boucle silk, a heavy corded weave often in two toned effects. This material has a lace effect in spite of its rough surface. Two toned pea de

SCOVINO GUILTY MERRIMACK RIVER

Sent to Prison for From 15 to Is Not Exceptionally Low at the 25 Years Present Time

FITCHBURG, Aug. 20.—Lorenzo Scovino, who was indicted by the grand jury this week on charges of felonious assault, assault with intent and breaking and entering and larceny, was yesterday afternoon found guilty by a jury in the superior court on all three indictments.

Just before adjournment of court yesterday afternoon, Dist. Atty. James A. Stiles moved for sentence and Judge Fessenden sentenced Scovino to state prison at Charlestown for not more than 25 years and not less than 15 years, the first day to be in solitary confinement.

Scovino did not testify in his own behalf. He claimed that he was innocent of the crimes charged against him and said that he did not know anything about any of them.

After he was sentenced he said that he would not live over a month in prison, stating that he would end his life the first chance that he got.

Scovino was arrested by Patrolman Godley in this city on July 20. On that day it is alleged that he attempted to assault Lottie Anderson, aged 13 years. After his arrest Mrs. Hilma Luoma called at the police station and identified Scovino, saying he had assaulted her.

On June 28 the house of Leon Hayos of Westminister was broken into and a watch, ring, cap and suit of clothes were taken. When Scovino was arrested, Hayos identified a suit of clothes and a ring found on the defendant as property which was stolen from his house. Scovino claimed that he got the property in Boston. Scovino is 34 years old and came to this city from Haverhill only a short time ago.

A jury yesterday afternoon heard evidence in the indictment against Walter J. Lawler of Boston, charged with larceny of $150 from George Anderson at Worcester on May 14. Lawler pleaded not guilty. He conducted his own case. Testimony was offered that Lawler with three other men entered the store of Anderson at Worcester late at night and that when the clerk was absent went to the safe, removed a cash drawer containing $150 in bills and several dollars in silver and ran from the place.

Lawler claimed that he had a wife and child living in Boston, who were dependent upon his support. He admitted being in Worcester with the three other men, but denied that he got any of the money.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty against him and he was sentenced to the house of correction for 15 months.

Louis Marlon of Boston, who was jointly indicted with Lawler, pleaded guilty to larceny of $100 from George Anderson at Worcester. His case was continued until the October term for sentence.

Charles Almentis of Hardwick was found guilty by a jury yesterday afternoon on a charge of breaking and entering and larceny of a watch at Hardwick. He was sentenced to the Concord reformatory.

John Johnson, who has been found guilty of attempting to commit larceny from the person of Frank L. Tatro in this city on June 11, was called for sentence by Dist. Atty. Taft, but owing to the fact that the defendant claimed that he could prove that he was not a pickpocket and that he was never associated with John Carr, an alleged pickpocket, the court continued the case until Monday to allow him time to collect his proofs.

LAMP EXPLODED

Fire Followed Causing $6000 Damage

SOMERSWORTH, N. H., August 20.—Fire which followed the explosion of a lamp in the basement of Martell's department store, just before midnight, last night resulted in damage of upwards of $6,000 to the stock and fixtures of the several stores which are located in the central block on Main street. The fire worked its way into the partitions and was a hard one to fight. Considerable damage was from water.

JOHN JACOB ASTOR DEAD
NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Bellevue hospital was notified by the hospital on Blackwell's island last night that John Jacob Astor, 74 years old, had died there at 8:55 o'clock. It is said that the man was a relative of Col. John Jacob Astor. When he entered the hospital he gave as his name of his friend, John Jacob Astor of 840 Fifth avenue. This is Col. Astor's 17th avenue address.

With regard to the extremely low mark reached by the water of Lake Winnepesaukee this year, a mark considered by many in a position to know to be the lowest ever reached by the water of the lake, there are several explanations, and among others that of Civil Engineer Henry W. Allen of the Ameskeag Manufacturing company of Manchester, N. H., seems most plausible.

Mr. Allen states that the principal reason for the shallowness of the lake is the decided meagreness of the rainfall in that section for three consecutive years past. The fall throughout this part of the state has been very inconsiderable and as a result the influx to the lakes and rivers has been constantly diminishing until at the present time it is practically at a minimum.

In 1903, the rainfall at the lake was 32.8 inches, which with the exception of the year 1894, is absolutely the lowest in 50 years, and no less than 10.33 inches below the average amount of rainfall for that period of time. In 1909 the rainfall was 37.14 inches at Lake Winnepesaukee, which mark is 5.28 inches below the average for the half century. This year, while the exact amount of rainfall has not been ascertained to a nicety, the total precipitation of moisture is known to be far below the ordinary fall, perhaps as far from the average as that of the preceding dry years. Thus it is easy to deduce that where the amount of rainfall, which is one of the chief sources of augmentation for streams and bodies of water, is so very small, the depletion of the lake or river will take place at a more rapid rate than the rate of supply, evaporation alone figuring appreciably in the lowering process.

In Manchester the same low amounts of rainfall are remarked for the past years. The fall of 1903 was 34.07 inches which is 4.89 inches less than the average for the past 28 years. In 1909, 35.56 inches of rain fell in Manchester, or an amount which fell short of the usual by 3.30 inches. For the present year up to the first of August, 20.99 inches of rain was the record at Manchester, which makes the mark of 1910 up to the present date about 1.78 inches under the ordinary.

Another reason, and a potent one why there is not an abundance of water in New Hampshire's beautiful lake is the fact that there was a surprisingly small amount of snowfall during the past winter which resulted in a correspondingly small amount of spring run-off water, a twofold factor in determining the water mark of any lake. In consequence of the light fall of snow, light in weight as well as in color hue, the lake was given a poor start in the spring and never had an opportunity to literally "catch up" to its ordinary volume. Had there been a copious rainfall after the small amount of snowfall, or had there been an abundant fall of snow and a dearth of rain, the lake would probably have held its usual amount of water, or would not have descended to such an unusually low level.

In spite of reports to the contrary, the Merrimack river is not exceptionally low and there are entertained no fears regarding the water power necessary to run the mills. It is, however, a stern fact that Lake Winnepesaukee has reached one of the lowest water marks on record.

A contemplation of this topic leads one on to conjecture what might be the result if the New Hampshire hills and mountains are denuded of their glorious trees. Spain was once a country of trees. Every hill and knoll was crowned with stately trees and all was well with the people. Lack of knowledge and foresight, however, allowed the inhabitants to cut down these gifts of nature, injudiciously, indiscriminately and today Spain in many parts is a sun-baked country, where rains are infrequent and where the rain, when it descends, meets with no controlling elements and tears down the hillsides and mountain sides, overflowing the lakes and rivers, causing them to inundate the land temporarily only, to dry up with the cease of the downfall and remain in drouth until the next period of showers, a deplorable condition.

Whether the slogan "Spare the trees" is called for the case of Lake Winnepesaukee is a matter yet to be learned but it is true that now is the time for the New Hampshire people to act on the subject of conserving their arboreal treasures, for the state is really one vast arboratum, and the loss of Spain is not a myth, it is a pressing reality.

GOT BIG FEES

McMurray Had Contracts With Indians

SULPHUR, Okla., Aug. 20.—It was brought out yesterday in the testimony of J. F. McMurray, before the congressional committee investigating Indian affairs, that he held as many as half a dozen contracts with the Indians for legal services, all covering the same period of time.

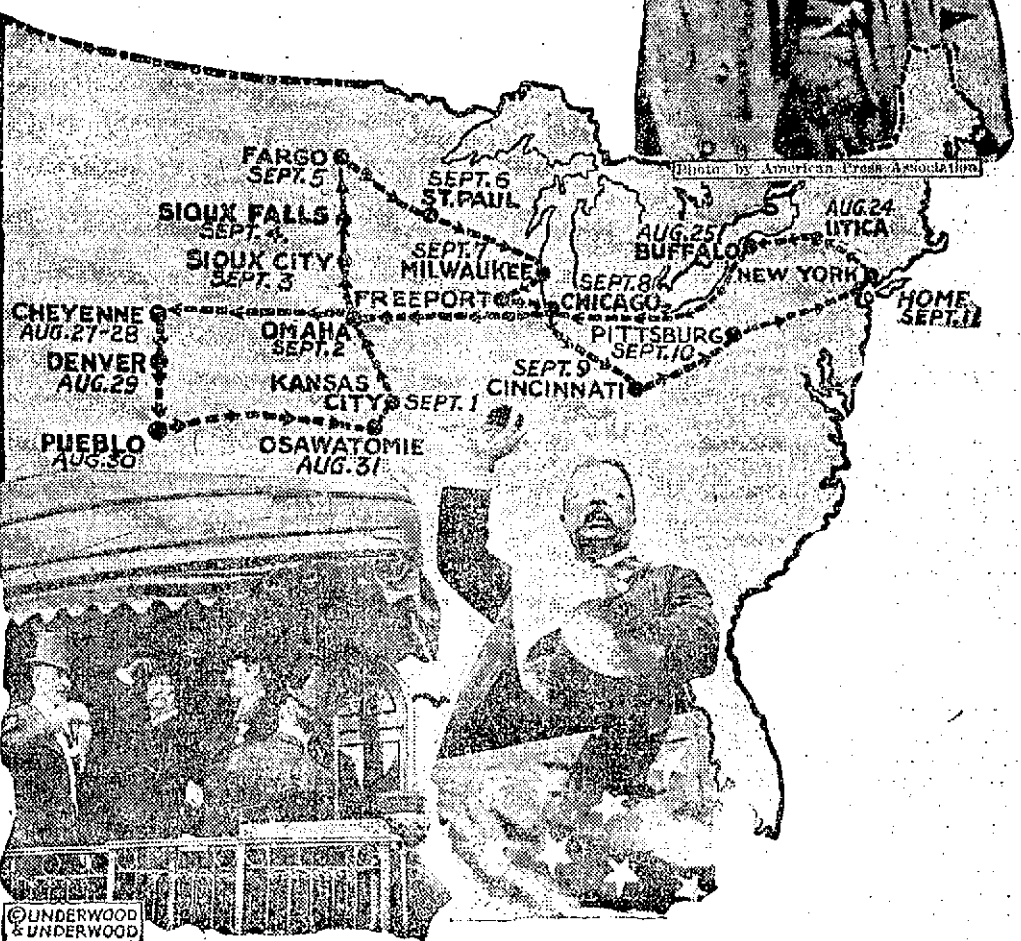

Mr. McMurray testified that for general services he had two contracts with the Chickasaws at $5000 a year each; two with the Choctaws at $5000 a year each; another contract for special service at a fee of $15,000, only $3 of which was paid; a yearly expense allowance of $7000 under one contract and other general expenses amounting to $180,000. All of this money was in addition to the $750,000 allowed his law firm as a contingent fee in the citizenship cases, and in addition also to the contracts by which he now seeks to obtain 10 per cent. of $3,000,000 as a contingent fee on the sale of $30,000,000 worth of land.

Asked by Representative Miller of Minnesota whether his work had not tended to lead the Indians away from a close relationship with the government, Mr. McMurray said he always had done his utmost to bring the Indians and the government together.

It was also shown that the Indians had employed other attorneys besides McMurray, each tribe paying $5000 a year, and one of the tribes paying $12,000 a year for special counsel.

OUT OF COMMISSION

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Aug. 20.—The "Flying Fish," the Burgess biplane which has several times been wrecked in the trials at Plum Island, was put out of commission again last night when John G. Stratton, after testing the machine out on Sharp turning for more than an hour, was preparing the machine for a flight which was to be made by Walter H. Bowman, of Boston. All was in readiness for the flight when a connecting rod broke and smashed one of the propeller blades. As the machine was on the ground at the time, no one was injured, but it will be out of commission until a new engine can be secured.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT STARTS FIVE THOUSAND MILE JOURNEY

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The itinerary of Col. Roosevelt's trip west has been issued from the press, and when the party starts next Tuesday morning for Utica the eyes of a great part of the United States will be turned toward the places he will visit. Of course of first importance will be his utterances on things political, but he is to make other speeches in the course of his journey which will probably have little bearing on national affairs. A look at the map will convince one that the former president is not going to be satisfied to "swing around the circle," as has President Taft several times since he assumed office, but that Mr. Roosevelt plans to "cut figure eight" by crisscrossing and retracing his route in a number of places. Col. Roosevelt will occupy the private car. Constitution with William B. Howland, Ernest

Hamlin Abbott, Harold J. Howland and Frank Harper, his secretary. In the car Forrest there will be Wade Mountfort, Jr., representing the American Press association, and sixteen other special correspondents and artists. The total mileage of the trip will be 5493 miles. The itinerary is as follows: New York, leave at 10.30 a. m. Tuesday, Aug. 23; arrive Utica 3.57 p. m.; leave 6.20 a. m.; leave 7.30 a. m. Thursday, Aug. 26. Chicago, arrive 9 p. m.; leave 10.45 p. m. Omaha, arrive 3.28 p. m.; leave 4 p. m. Friday, Aug. 26. Cheyenne, arrive 10.25 a. m. Saturday, Aug. 27. Sunday, Aug. 28, spend day with Gov. Brooks. Leave Cheyenne 8.25 a. m. Monday, Aug. 29. Denver, arrive 11.35 a. m.; leave Denver 7.45 a. m. Tuesday, Aug. 30. Pueblo, arrive 11.45 a. m.; leave 12.30 p. m. Ogawa-

THE NEGRO LEAGUE

Pledges Its Support to Roosevelt for Third Term

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The support of the negro electorate of the United States for a possible third term was pledged to Col. Roosevelt yesterday by the 1100 delegates of the National negro business men's league here in convention.

The endorsement of the ex-president came after he had addressed the delegates on the opportunities for advancement open to the colored race in this country, and as the climax of an earnest and eloquent eulogy of his conduct in office made by Bishop Clinton of this city.

Recalling the words of the former executive that he would not be the one "to close the door of hope in the face of a man because his skin happened to be black," Bishop Clinton expressed the gratitude of all negroes for the encouragement which this attitude of the then president had given to those of his race, and closed by assuring Col. Roosevelt that in whatever "promotion" in public life he might seek, he would always find the negro element solidly allied in his support.

The cheering, which greeted this declaration had hardly abated when Booker T. Washington, chairman of the meeting, advanced to the front of the platform and urged that all in sympathy with the sentiment expressed by Bishop Clinton rise to their feet. The entire assemblage rose amid renewed cheering.

In his address Col. Roosevelt urged his hearers to practice the doctrine of self help. Col. Roosevelt said in part: "The white man of the south is the vital man to have sympathy with the negro. When your neighbor likes and respects you, you have won your battle. The white man of the north does his worst work in interfering between the two peoples of the south and his best work when he improves their relations."

"I would not slur over the injustice with which good colored men are treated, but I feel that the really substantial way of conquering injustice is to train your people so that the white man will, willy nilly, recognize in his colored neighbor a desirable neighbor."

"Every down-at-the-heel, ramshackle negro cabin is not only bad for the people who live in it, but is a reflection on the race. The man who lives a ne'er-do-well life of idleness is doing not only ill to himself, but to his people."

"I believe in this league. As I wrote five years ago when I was president, I believe in it because it is out of politics. You also stimulate among your people principles or business enterprise. That is well. You recognize that you should build a firm foundation before you can erect your superstructure."

"In Mombassa we were shown much courtesy by an American colored man who was serving there as a doctor. At a government experiment station I found a Jamaican negro in charge. An abyss of nearly 10,000 years seemed to separate these two men from the naked savage I had seen—yet the abyss was not more than 300 years."

"In your advance there have been halting and shortcomings, shortcomings on your part. Nevertheless, there has been progress. The interests of good citizenship have advanced. There is improvement in the attitude of the two races toward each other."

"It takes some time to make a reformer think that an outlook is not one of unalloyed gloom. You sometimes see a reformer who thinks if he says a good word about anything he will be set down as a hopeless reactionary."

"You colored men and women must set your faces like flint against those who would preach to you only the gospel of hate, envy and bitterness. Realize that the only way to help your race is not by preaching vindictiveness and hatred, but by leading your people up to prosperity through good citizenship."

CURED MY BABY OF ITCHING ECZEMA

First Came when 3 or 4 Weeks Old. Used Everything Imaginable. Nose and Eyes Nothing but Sores. Two Cakes Cuticura Soap and One Box Cuticura Ointment Cured.

I can't tell in words how happy the word "Cuticura" sounds to me, for it cured my baby of itching, torturing eczema. It first came when she was between three and four weeks old, appearing on her head. I used everything imaginable and had one doctor's bill after another but nothing cured it. Then the eczema broke out so badly behind her ear that I really thought her ear would come off. For months I doctored it but to no avail. Then it began at her nose and her eyes were nothing but sores. I had to keep her in a dark room for two weeks. The doctor did no good, so I stopped him coming. For about two weeks I had used Cuticura Soap for her every day, then I got a box of Cuticura Ointment and began to use that. In a week there was a marked improvement. In all I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and my baby was cured of the sores. This was last November; now her hair is growing out nicely and she has not a scar on her. I can not praise Cuticura enough, I can take my child anywhere and people are amazed to see her without a sore. From the time she was four weeks old until she was three years, she was never without the terrible eruption but now, thanks to Cuticura, I have a well child. (Signed) Mrs. H. E. HOUSEHOLDER, 2004 Wilhelm Street, Baltimore, Md.

Sufferers from torturing, disfiguring eruptions of skin and scalp should read the latest 32-page Cuticura Book, free of Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., 131 Columbus Ave., Boston.

ACTORS' FUND

WILL BE INCREASED BY SUM OF $15,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—From two o'clock yesterday afternoon until dark many of the best known actors and actresses of the country played baseball runs, and did "stunts" before 13,000 people for the benefit of the Actors' Fund of America. It was the annual actors' field day at the Polo grounds.

The Franks' baseball team lost by 4 to 3 to the Lew Fields' team. Dan Brothers, the old professional, and Terry McGovern were the umpires. In another game a team of southerners in bloomers won on a forfeit from a team of actors composed of George T. Cohan, Raymond Hitchcock, George Evans, James J. Corbett, Bickel and Watson, Tom Lewis, John King and "Scamp," otherwise James Montgomery, a brother to Dave. According to the decision the actors lost because the southerners' pitcher gave them three men on bases by foul balls in one inning.

It is thought in the receipts will reach $15,000.

HELD IN $25,000 STARVING THEMSELVES

Autoist Severely Denounced by Members of Sect Think End of World is at Hand

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Denuced as a liar, brute, an automobilist without regard for the law and a man without regard for the lives of his fellow beings, Edward T. Rosenheimer, millionaire needle maker of Pelham, son of the Julius Rosenheimer who was murdered at Pelham three years ago, sat in the coroner's court in the Bronx yesterday morning, imperturbable.

He did not flinch when witnesses told of the killing of Miss Anna McCabe and of the maiming of Miss Anna McCabe and of George Vedder. He showed no emotion when it was asserted he had forsaken them as they lay injured on Pelham road shortly after 9 o'clock Thursday night, after he had run into them with his automobile.

Nor was Rosenheimer moved when Coroner Schwabnecka, indignant at his attitude, told of the conditions under which he would consent to release him on $25,000 bail for the action of a jury of inquest of Sept. 7.

Again, after the coroner had remanded Rosenheimer to the Tombs prison pending the arrangement of bail, the needleman's nerve did not fail him when a crowd at Tremont and Third avenues hissed him. He was unmoved when somebody in that crowd, with no regard for his feelings, made a rude remark concerning the death of his father.

Rosenheimer was arrested shortly before Thursday midnight at his beautiful Pelham home.

Vedder, Miss Hough and Miss McCabe were driving in a runabout when it was struck by the automobile containing Rosenheimer and an artist friend, Milton Fleischer. Miss Hough was thrown 50 feet and her neck was broken. But Rosenheimer did not stop his evening's entertainment. He kept on up Pelham road to a roadhouse, where he and Fleischer drank.

Fleischer was remanded to the Tombs, but was released on bail last evening.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 20.—Lying on pallets, too weak to move, detectives yesterday found in an arroyo bungalow four members of a sect who were deliberately starving themselves to death in anticipation of the end of the world. There were two men, a woman, and a girl, 16 years old. They had not touched food for six weeks and for the last ten days had not stirred from their couches on the floor of a room that had not been aired since the long fast began.

Last night the officers forced them to take nourishment—a pint of milk divided among the four. John Irving O'Neil, one of the four, said he was the leader of the sect which he called the Disciples of the Holy Ghost, with the gift of tongues, and invited the curses of heaven down upon those who compelled him to break the fast.

The torpedoes weigh a ton and carry 17,000 yards.

CONFERENCE HELD

PAROCHIAL SCHOOL TEACHERS MET IN BOSTON

A conference on pedagogy, covering in general the fundamental principles of education, was opened yesterday in Boston College hall, James street, Boston, at which there were about 500 teachers from parochial schools present.

The course was arranged by Archbishop O'Connell, who has wished that teachers in the parochial and private schools should receive a course annually in the latest theories in pedagogy, and gather methods and principles that might aid them in their work.

The lectures will be given by the Rev. Thomas E. Shields, Ph.D., professor of pedagogy at the Catholic University of Washington, D.C.

The details for carrying out the wishes of the archbishop were attended to by the Rev. George A. Lyons, supervisor of parochial schools of the archdiocese, who invited the teachers to attend the conference. The series of lectures will continue six days, not including Sundays.

The following facts were made known at the opening session, concerning Catholic education: Buildings representing an investment of more than $2,000,000, on which the annual interest amounts to $135,000, are being maintained here in Boston for the education of Catholic children.

In the five counties included in the archdiocese there are 79 schools, grammar grade, and 26 high schools, with an attendance of 22,612 boys and 23,355 girls in grammar grades, and a high school attendance of 171 boys and 964 girls, making a total of 32,142 pupils.

FRAUD CHARGED

Three Officers of Road Arrested

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Three former executive officers of the Illinois Central railroad company were arrested yesterday on warrants in connection with the alleged frauds by means of which the railroad was defrauded, it is said, of $1,500,000. The men arrested were: Frank B. Harriman, formerly general manager of the road;

Charles L. Ewing, formerly manager of lines north of the Ohio river;

John M. Taylor, formerly general store-keeper of the road.

The warrants, sworn to by J. T. Harrahan, of the Illinois Central railroad charges the three men with conspiracy to cheat and defraud the railroad by false pretenses, and with operating a confidence game. Harriman and Ewing were taken to the Harrison street police station. Their bonds of $10,000 each were signed by a professional bondsman.

The allegations in the graft case are startling. The investigation began a year ago. It reached a crisis last spring when President Harriman began negotiations to recover sums said to aggregate from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 to have been taken from the road by car repair companies in connivance with high officials of the road. Harriman, Ewing, Taylor and many others

STATES' RIGHTS

QUESTION TO BE RAISED IN NATIONAL CONGRESS

SAINT PAUL, Minn., Aug. 20.—The old question of state's rights that has often cropped out between the government and the various commonwealths of the union is bound to be raised in the National Conservation congress in Saint Paul, September 3 to 5.

Indication of this comes to St. Paul in statements attributed to delegates from the state of Washington. If two of the delegates are correctly quoted there is a division of opinion in the Washington delegation which makes an interesting situation. Wilbur S. Yeasley, one of the five delegates appointed by Mayor Nelson S. Pratt of Spokane, is quoted as saying:

"I am unalterably opposed to national conservation and the present tendency toward bureaucratic control of our public resources."

J. J. Browne and George Chandler, who were also named by Mayor Pratt, are members with me of the Western conservation league. We believe in the control of all public resources by the states, and we have faith in the citizens of the state of Washington electing representatives to the legislature who will pass laws controlling public resources if they are turned over to the commonwealths that will be equitable to the state and the public and the capital invested."

Samuel A. Mann, judge of the Spokane municipal court, an "insurgent" candidate for congress will come to St. Paul with an entirely different view from that expressed by Mr. Yeasley. If he was correctly quoted when he said: "I am strongly in favor of national conservation. I believe in the title of public lands and water rights remaining in the control of the government. I feel that the states will receive their benefit from the development of these resources."

This difference of opinion presents to the others of the congress who are now in St. Paul an idea of what may be expected in the debates that are to take place in the convention. It is not regarded as unlikely that both President Taft and Col. Roosevelt will have something to say along this line of thought and that they will be supporters of the convention that the government should control the resources there is no doubt here.

MOUNT MCKINLEY EXPEDITION

SEWARD, Alaska, Aug. 20.—The Parker-Browne Mount McKinley expedition passed through Seward yesterday sailing on the steamship Portland for Seattle. The party was unsuccessful in its efforts to scale the peak. The members of the expedition assert that they have conclusive evidence that Dr. Cook did not reach the summit.

The members of the Parker and Browne party corroborate the statements made by C. E. Rusk, who recently led an unsuccessful Mount McKinley expedition, that the peak climbed by Dr. Cook and used in his photographs as Mount McKinley is a smaller peak ten miles away from the real summit.

INVENTOR FOLSOM DEAD

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—George Folsom, inventor of an inter-locking signal device used by railroads and a printing press that would print on both sides of the paper, died yesterday at his home in Roslindale at the age of 80 years. Mr. Folsom was 35 years in the employ of the old Boston and Providence railroad, the greater part of the time serving in the capacity of construction superintendent.

20 MILE RACE

WAS WON BY WALTER DEMARA OF PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 20.—Walter Demara of this city won the 20 mile motor paced race at the Metropole Cycle track here last night, the event being called off three laps before the finish and just after Demara had fallen. Jimmy Moran of Boston was the other rider to meet with an accident, rupturing a vein in his left leg just below the knee when his wheel slipped from under him in the first lap of the 13th mile, being in the lead at the time. Fred Hill, of Boston, the third participant, was awarded second money, finishing three laps behind Demara. The spillover caused by a damp track. In the half-mile amateur race, Martin Olsen fell and was badly scratched and bruised. Alvin Laffen also went down in the smashup but was not hurt. Moran's injury caused him to quit and will keep him out of the racing game for a few days at least. He was riding in the form and had a fairly good lead over Demara when his wheel went from under him. Aside from the spillover the race was through in fine form, good racing being enjoyed by some 2500 people.

A THREE-TENEMENT HOUSE WITH STORE AND ABOUT 1574 SQ. FT. OF LAND AT 137 FAYETTE STREET. A FIVE-TENEMENT BLOCK AND ABOUT 2712 SQ. FT. OF LAND AT 28-30 AND 32 CHESTNUT ST.

Saturday, Aug. 27th, Commencing at 2.30 P.M.

FIRST PARCEL AT 2.30 P. M.

AT NO. 32 AND REAR OF 32 HIGH STREET, CONSISTING OF ABOUT TWO TWO-TENEMENT HOUSES, COTTAGE HOUSE AND ABOUT 8015 SQ. FT. OF LAND TO BE SOLD IN ONE LOT. The two-tenement houses facing High street and numbering 32, has six rooms and bath, with hot and cold water, open plumbing and furnace heat with one tenement and nine rooms and bath with hot and cold water and open plumbing with the other. There is a piazza in front of house running full length. The two-tenement houses in the rear has six rooms and bath, with open plumbing with each tenement, hot and cold water and gas. The cottage in the rear which has been built within five years, has six rooms, and bath with hot and cold water, open plumbing and gas. All the buildings are in first class repair inside and out, the two-tenement houses being remodeled a few years ago, and the cottage in the rear practically new. The property is all rented to a first-class lot of tenants, most of them living there since it was remodeled, and brings in a yearly rental of about $850. The lot has a good frontage on High street and an area of about 8015 sq. ft. The yard is all concreted and the lot is all fenced in. Now then, this property is located in a very central part of Belvidere, being the second property on High street from East Merrimack street, bringing it less than five minutes' walk to Merrimack square and the many industries located in that vicinity. I consider it one of the best pieces of realty that has been offered at public auction this season; for it has all the essential qualities which go to make up a good piece of realty, offering you as it does, about 8015 square feet of land with three substantial buildings, in first class condition, in an excellent location and bringing in a steady income of about $850 a year. It is a proposition worthy of your careful consideration; look it up. A good, liberal mortgage can be had at 5 per cent. Terms, $550 to be paid to the auctioneer as soon as the property is struck off.

SECOND PARCEL AT 3 P. M.

AT 137 FAYETTE STREET, A THREE TENEMENT HOUSE WITH STORE AND ABOUT 1574 SQUARE FEET OF LAND

On the first floor is a store with two rooms in the rear, and a tenement of five rooms; on the second floor are two tenements, one five and one of six rooms. There are toilets on each floor, and the house is in good condition. The tenements are occupied by a lot of good tenants and bring in a yearly rental of about $450. The lot has a good frontage on Fayette street and has an area of about 1574 square feet. Now here is a proposition which should command the attention of the speculator, for it is bound to pay a large revenue on the amount invested.

TERMS—$250 to be paid to the auctioneer as soon as struck off.

CONDITION CRITICAL Doctors Think That Man's Skull is Fractured

Louis Caron, address unknown, is at St. John's hospital in a critical condition as the result of a fall sustained in Middlesex street near the Morse Coach company's stable.

Caron is unconscious and it is feared that his skull is fractured. Caron was removed in the ambulance to St. John's hospital, and at 4 o'clock the doctors were working on him to ascertain the extent of his injuries. From superficial examination the doctors were of the opinion that his skull was fractured.

The story in the vicinity of the accident was to the effect that Caron had had an altercation with another man. The story has it that the other fellow pushed him and Caron's head struck the pavement. He was unconscious and weak from loss of blood when the ambulance arrived. Up to 4:15 o'clock he had not regained consciousness. He is about 45 years old and has a brother living in Middlesex street. The police are investigating.

PRESIDENT TAFT

Saw the American Sonder Yacht
Harpoon Win His Cup

MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 20.—The Spanish sonder-yachtsmen had their last chance today of winning the President Taft and the Governor Draper cup in the international series with the American defenders. Under the rules only winners of the first four races of the series can continue but the descendants of old Spanish navigators, who blazed a way around the world, went out for today's contest with the Yankee yachts happy in the thought that they had gained the real object of their American visit.

From the day of their arrival a little more than a week ago the Spanish yachtsmen have declared that the winning of silver trophies was the last object of their visit. What they endeavored to accomplish in America was a better knowledge of sonder yacht racing of American methods in worldwide sport and principally to obtain the good will of their host and the commendation of the yachting world as good sports.

So in starting off today for what they all believed to be their last American racing, the foreigners declared that they had won at least a majority of their desires and hoped that they had secured the firm friendship of the Americans. This spirit has been uppermost in the international series this year. While every crew has sailed to win and the contest especially between the three American yachts, Harpoon, Beaver and Chonta, and the Spanish yacht Chonta, has been nearly always close and exciting, all hands seemed to have felt that there were more victories ashore than afloat and the morning and afternoon gatherings before and after the races with the evening's entertainment have been the pleasantest features of the international races this year.

In starting the race today the Harpoon had two legs and the Beaver one in the President Taft cup, while for the Draper cup the Beaver had 15 points, the Chonta 14, the Harpoon 12, the Chonta 10, the Papoose 6 and the Mosquito 5. As a yacht cannot take both prizes, the contest today was apparently narrowed to the three American boats and the Chonta. The Eastern Yacht club also gives two prizes for first and second boats.

When the yachts got outside today they found a six mile breeze blowing from the east for the windward and leeward races. The sea was fairly smooth and the sky was clear.

The race started at 11:10. The Chonta went well to the windward and immediately tacked away. In a few minutes it was seen that another duel was on between the Beaver and Harpoon. For the first ten minutes the Beaver had the better of it but then the Harpoon pulled ahead and the Beaver tacked away. At 11:30 the Chonta had come up and joined the fight while the three Spanish boats dropped gradually astern.

President Taft saw the American sonder yacht Harpoon, owned and sailed by C. E. Adams, 2nd, win the cup that bears the name of the chief magistrate. In the fourth race against the Spanish challengers today, the Beaver, owned and sailed by C. H. Foster, was second, and the Chonta, Gus Lowell's entry, was third.

The Spaniards were beaten worse today than before. The Chonta was two miles astern when the Harpoon crossed the finish line. The Mosquito II turned the outer mark only a minute before the Harpoon was saluted as the winner.

The official elapsed time of the race: Harpoon, 2:14.20; Beaver, 2:16.37; Chonta, 2:18.27; Papoose, 2:26.47; Mosquito II, 2:41.14.

Big Crowd Saw Game at Spalding Park Today

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
LOWELL	-	2	0	0	1	0	2	0	x --- 5

There were about 3000 enthusiastic baseball fans at Spalding park this afternoon to witness the game between New Bedford, the topnotcher of the league, and Lowell. The Panama router was present in all his glory, but his voice was not as much in evidence today as it was yesterday, owing to the large number of rosters present who shouted their lungs until they grew hoarse.

Among those who occupied seats in the grandstand was Paddy Gray of Philadelphia, a brother of Manager Gray. The former came to this city for the Hibernal week. He was the first financial secretary of the Mathew Temperance Institute.

Tyler was on the mound for Lowell, while Huston was on the receiving end of the battery. For the Whalers, McIntyre was in the points and Ulrich was behind the bat.

Manager Tom Dowd of the New Bedford team, who was confined to his home for several days with a severe illness, was on the coach line for his team.

The game was called at 3 o'clock by Umpire Connolly, the batting order of the team being as follows:

Lowell	New Bedford
Blakely	Walsh
Fitzpatrick	McCormick
Coney	Rising
Magee	McIntyre
Tenney	Bauman
Fluharty	Wilson
Boules	Ulrich
Huston	McIntyre
Tyler

First Inning
The home team started to get in its work in the first inning and succeeded in sending two men across the plate while the visitors had to be satisfied with a goose egg.

Walsh hit to Boules and was out at first. McCormick struck out and Rising followed with a single to left field but Cunningham was third out on a fly to Tenney.

In the latter half of the inning Blakely hit to Cunningham and was out at first and Fitz singled. Coney sent Fitz to third with a single and the latter scored on Magee's two-bag-

Second Inning
Neither side scored in the second inning. McCrone hit to Fitz who fumbled and Bauman hit to Tyler and was out at first. Wilson flied to Boules and Ulrich drew a base on balls, but McIntyre was retired on strikes.

Huston flied to McCormick and Tyler drew a base on balls. Blakely hit a line drive to Cunningham who caught the ball and then threw to first for a double play on Tyler.

Third Inning
Walsh opened the third with a two bagger and McCormick hit to Fitz and was out at first. Rising singled to left field scoring Walsh. New Bedford then tried the hit and run game but failed to make good. Cunningham hit to Tyler who threw to second getting Rising and Fitz threw to first for a double play.

In Lowell's half Fitz hit to Wilson and was out at first and Coney hit to McIntyre and also died at first. Magee singled but was caught while trying to steal second.

Fourth Inning
Magee's playing was the feature of the first half of the fourth inning. McCormick hit out to Magee in short left field and the latter made a beautiful running catch. Bauman struck out and Wilson then hit to deep left field and Magee made another sensational catch.

Lowell got another run in the latter half of the inning. Tenney hit to Cunningham and was out at first and Fluharty flied to Walsh. Boules drew a free pass, went to third on Huston's single and scored on a passed ball. Tyler closed the inning with a fly to McCormick.

In this inning Ulrich injured his finger and Pratt took his place behind the bat.

Fifth Inning
Clever fielding on the part of the Lowell team in the first half of the inning prevented the visitors from scoring and a sensational one hand catch by Weaver in the latter half of the inning resulted in a goose egg for the home team.

Fitz drew a base on balls. McIntyre intended to sacrifice but Tyler threw back to first and both men were safe. Walsh then got a base on balls. McCormick hit to Coney who threw Pratt out at the plate. Rising hit to Tyler, who threw home getting McIntyre, and Huston threw to first for a double play.

Blakely flied to Cunningham and Fitz flied to Pratt. Coney singled and went to third on Magee's scorching single, scoring Fluharty. Blakely hit to center field for two bases scoring Tyler, but Blakely tried to make three bases and was caught.

Sixth Inning
Cunningham hit along the first base line to Tenney and was first out. McCormick hit to Fitz and was sent out while Bauman hit to Boules and was out at first.

Lowell got two more runs in the latter half of the inning. Fluharty singled and went to second on Boules' sacrifice. Huston flied to Rising. Tyler singled, scoring Fluharty. Blakely hit to center field for two bases scoring Tyler, but Blakely tried to make three bases and was caught.

Seventh Inning
Wilson was robbed of a nice three base hit by a phenomenal one hand catch against the left field fence by Magee. Pratt hit to Coney and was out at first and McIntyre went out on strikes.

Fitz hit to Wilson and was out at first. Coney flied to Cunningham and Magee hit along the first base line to McCormick and was out.

Eighth Inning
Another sensational catch by Magee was the feature of the eighth inning. Walsh flied to Blakely and McCormick flied to Magee. Rising hit to the left field fence and Magee made a catch while running backward.

In the latter half of the inning Tenney flied to Rising. Fluharty flied to Walsh. Boules hit to center field for a single. Huston got a base on balls. Pratt threw to second to hold Boules on the base and the ball went into the field. Boules tried to make third and was thrown out.

Ninth Inning
Cunningham flied to Blakely. Pratt went to bat for McCrone and flied to Blakely. Bauman drew a free pass. Bauman stole second.

Wilson flied to Huston.

INMAN BEATEN

He Was Defeated by Dean Mathey

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 20.—The defeat of P. C. Inman by Dean Mathey furnished the only decided surprise in the fifth round of the national lawn tennis tournament on the Casino courts which was completed today. Inman had come so far through the tournament without difficulty and in the fourth round easily disposed of T. W. Hendrick, the strong young Pacific coast player. Mathey showed unexpected strength today and allowed Inman but seven games.

Boules C. Wright of Boston, former national champion, and M. E. McLoughlin, the leader among the far western cracks, easily won their matches today. McLoughlin defeating J. D. Jones of Rhode Island in straight sets and Wright winning from Malcolm G. Chase in similar style. Wright was in splendid form today in contrast to some of his earlier playing in the tournament and the veteran Chase who up to this round had been playing a strong game could do nothing with the former champion's strokes. On Monday Wright will meet McLoughlin in what is expected to be the feature match of the entire tournament and the other three matches in the sixth round will be played.

All indications point to the biggest week that Lowell has had for many a year.

Chief Marshal Humphrey O'Sullivan of the big Hibernal parade which is to be the crowning feature of the week was too busy this morning to give any extended interview to the Sun reporter. He said: "It is impossible at this time to give out the complete roster of the parade but I can say that the parade

Of O. M. I. Cadets Ready to "Shoot Up" Bunker Hill District for Parade

The O. M. I. Cadets met at their armory last night and completed arrangements for the turnout in the great A. O. H. parade next Wednesday. The members of the cavalry troops were present and received instructions, while the cadets were told the time to report at the armory and the uniform to wear. It was a great meeting, practically every member of the military body being present. Quite a discussion arose between the rival "armies" in the two sham battles at Milligan's grove on Thursday, and as a result Rev. Dr. Sullivan, O. M. I., agreed to arrange another sham battle take place during the latter part of next month on the grounds in Tewksbury. This will be the decisive "battle" and will prove conclusively which is the stronger of the two "armies." The cadets will go to the field early in the morning of that day and the battleground will extend over a distance of about four or five miles. It will be strange ground for the boys, and so neither army will have any advantage. At the conclusion of the "fight" there will be a banquet served the young soldiers. Monday night the cadets will hold their final meeting before the A. O. H. parade. Every member is expected to attend, and this means that the cavalry troops and the field band are expected to be on hand at 7:30 Monday night. The field band will consist of twenty-five pieces, buglers, fifers and drummers. The silk flag presented to the cadets by Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan will be carried in the parade on Wednesday and will undoubtedly attract great attention.

FAKIRS RAIDED

Guess Weight Machines Were "Rigged"

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Coney Island received a visit from Commissioner of Weights and Measures Driscoll Thursday night and when he departed from the island he left behind him a saddened lot of "guess your weight" within three pounds or it won't cost you anything. Driscoll suggested some improvements in the method of conducting these enterprises which the operators thought were at least harsh. "I'm here," said Mr. Driscoll to the Coney Island reporters, "because the mayor and I have received several letters complaining that the operators of these machines seldom exhibit a card showing the price of being weighed, and charging also that the machines are rigged so that the operator almost always can make the weight registered come within three pounds of his guess." The commissioner looked over most of the weighing machines on the island and had himself weighed a dozen or 15 times. His weight he told the reporters afterward, is 176 pounds, and of all the machines he tested only one registered this weight. According to Mr. Driscoll, it is customary for some of the operators to charge as high as a quarter if they guess within three pounds of the victim's weight, especially in cases where the victim shows evidence of having been drinking, and therefore may be supposed to be somewhat off his guard.

MAYOR HOWARD

Failed in Attempt to Settle Strike

SALEM, Aug. 20.—Mayor Howard made an ineffectual attempt today to induce the Salem shoe manufacturers to consider his proposition of arbitrating the strike of 600 men and women declared against him of the smaller firms and as many of the smaller firms. Four of the manufacturers were out of the city when the mayor called at their offices today and the others refused to entertain the proposition. The strikers were paid off at all the factories today and good feeling seemed to be manifested everywhere. None of the shops have closed yet. The strikers include cutters, ironers, stitchers, baggers, trimmers and stock attendants. It is expected that by the middle of the next week the other departments in the factories will have caught up with the work and then the shops will close.

In accordance with her wishes for a simple private funeral the ceremony was of the quietest nature, the only feature reminding of her great service to the army being the squad of the Grenadier Guards who acted as bearers. Tribute to the "Angel of Crime" was paid in a memorial service at St. Paul's church at noon today at which King George, Queen Mary, the queen mother, Alexandra, the war office, admiralty and the greater part of British public bodies and colonies were represented. The United States ambassador, Mr. Belmont, and Mrs. Belmont were present. Among the flowers sent for the funeral were a number of wreaths contributed by American nursing associations.

LIVELY RUNAWAY

HORSE CREATED EXCITEMENT IN BROADWAY

A horse belonging to the Independent Beef and Provision company created considerable excitement in Broadway, Dummer and Market streets early last evening when it ran away and narrowly escaped colliding with several vehicles and running over children.

The horse was standing in Broadway near the corner of School street when it became frightened and ran through Broadway at a breakneck speed. Near the corner of Willie street the wagon attached to the runaway bumped into a light wagon belonging to Keefe Bros., but did little damage.

When the horse reached the Mann school it turned into Dummer street and narrowly escaped running over a number of children who were playing in the street. In attempting to turn the corner of Dummer into Market street the horse struck a stone post and was thrown to the pavement. The collision broke one of the shafts of a portion of the harness from the animal's back and in freeing himself from the wagon he again started down Market street but was brought to a stop by Dan Crane. The horse was slightly cut but outside of this was apparently little the horse was in little damage.

SEN. LAFOLLETTE'S FIGHT

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 20.—Senator LaFollette is directing his fight for re-election as the republican candidate for senator at the republican convention Sept. 6 from his farm near here. His campaign managers and stenographers go over to the farm daily and receive his directions. During the time between his political work and his sleeping and reading hours he goes out into the fields and works with the farm hands pitching hay and grain and cultivating growing crops. He is expected to make one or two political addresses just before primary election day.

TEXTILE SITUATION

Rather Dull But Not Without Its Encouraging Aspects

Several Local Mills Will Have a Brief Vacation—The Reports Show Financial Condition As to Assets and Liabilities

The textile business in Lowell is especially quiet, but conditions here are as hopeful as in other textile centres. A quiet period as yet unrelieved through the combination of a high cotton market and a low quotation for the finished product is responsible for the quiet that prevails. The great number of new mills shows that mill men have great confidence in the future.

Most of the mills are taking a vacation. The Massachusetts, Tremont & Suffolk and Hamilton mills will close next Saturday for a two weeks' vacation. The Lawrence Mfg. Co. is running only five days a week at the present time and while it was reported that this company would close substantially for two weeks some time this month, it was stated today that the company had not as yet decided upon a vacation.

The Booth and the Appleton mills will probably take a vacation but it was stated at the offices of these mills today that nothing definite in the line of a vacation had been decided upon.

The following from the Wool and Cotton Reporter, of even date, relative to Lowell mills will be of interest to the general public:

Massachusetts Cotton Mills

The Massachusetts cotton mills are now rushing the work on their new building, for the construction of which the new stock was issued earlier in the year. This new mill will greatly increase the earning capacity for this well-managed corporation, and undoubtedly by the time it has been completed the business will have picked up to such an extent that the company will be able to put it into operation at once. It is true, that on the present capital of $3,000,000, increased from $1,800,000 last February, the company will be able to earn $240,000 in order to keep its dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum. This, of course, means that the company will have to earn almost $100,000 more than formerly. Last year the company showed a substantial surplus after dividends, so that when the new mill gets into operation no fear need be felt as to where dividends are going to come from. The stock of this corporation has been offered during the past week at 120, at which price it yields 2-3 per cent. For an eight per cent. stock which is non-taxable in Massachusetts, this looks to be an attractive purchase, which in the next year or two, as that year's dividend has been run at a loss. The property of the company is assessed at about $1,600,000 or for more than what it is now selling at. A comparison of statements for the two years follows:

ASSETS
Real estate and machinery	$1,540,000	$1,540,000
Cash and receivables	1,331,968	1,510,412

LIABILITIES

Lowell Bleachery
Few companies can show the improvement which has taken place in the affairs of the Lowell Bleachery within the past two years or more. When the capital of this company was last reduced it was felt by a conservative management that the company would be struggling under too heavy a load to try and pay dividends upon the former capitalization, and the decrease was, therefore, made for the good of all. Time has proven, however, that dividends might have been kept up even on the former capitalization; for with the aid of a particularly capable management, the company has not only paid the regular dividend, but increased it from 10 per cent. in 1908 to 12 per cent. in 1909, and likewise paid an extra of 10 per cent. on January 1 of the present year. And unless all signs fail the stockholders are going to receive another extra before the end of the year.

This extra will certainly be as large as the last, but as to whether it will be in the shape of a cash dividend or a stock dividend which could easily be done by increasing the present very conservative capitalization, no one seems to know. With the stock quoted at 200 and paying 8 per cent. mill share investors are going to make no mistake in buying and of the stock which they may be able to pick up. For their stock is going to be worth considerably more than this figure before long. There are, however, only 2,000 shares of this stock closely held, we doubt very much if there is any of it to be obtained at the figure quoted. A comparison of the statement for last three fiscal years follows, and should prove interesting to investors at large as well as particularly pleasing to the stockholders of the company:

The Best Hour of Life
Is when you do some great deed or discover some wonderful fact. This hour came to J. R. Pitt of Rocky, Mt. N. C. when he was suffering intensely, as he says, "from the worst cold I ever had." ## WRIGHTS' NEW BIPLANE BEING USED BY BROOKINS

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 20.—Wright brothers' new aeroplane without front elevating planes is now being used by Walter Brookins in his flights at Interlaken field. The new machine is the result of experiments by the Wright brothers to secure greater steadiness. It is frankly a freak machine, with but a small elevating plane in connection with the tail and is capable of carrying four persons besides the pilot. Brookins seems to have lost none of his nerve as the result of his recent accident, in which eleven spectators besides himself were injured when his machine was badly smashed in alighting. The inventors expect to make some record flights with the new machine and may attempt to take the laurels from A. J. Drenth, Jr., for all-time.

CHIEF OF POLICE HIS WILL FILED

Says That He Tasted "Wet Goods"

WATERTOWN, Aug. 20.—Chief Conroy of the local police department was called upon in court yesterday to test a package of wet goods alleged to have been seized by his men in a recent liquor raid on the drug stores in this town.

The firm involved in yesterday's trial was that of the East Watertown Drug company, and the contents of a bottle produced by the police as evidence was being questioned.

Chief Conroy was asked how he knew that his men had secured whiskey, as had been alleged. He admitted that his belief was because the bottles were labelled whiskey. "Bringing the chief a glass and let him test the contents of one of the bottles," commanded Judge Abbott.

The chief tasted, made a wry face, and exclaimed: "It's whiskey, but I believe that it must be of a pretty poor brand."

John T. Bailey, for 11 years had been a conductor for the Boston Elevated company, was the principal witness in the cases against the drug company in which it was charged with the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors.

The cases were tried before Judge Abbott at Waltham, James H. Vahey appearing for the defence and Attorney William Abbott for the government. P. S. Cunniff, chairman of the selectmen, who directed the raids on the drug stores, was sworn in as a witness and coached the town's attorney.

Bailey testified that he had gone to the store on three different occasions and had purchased half a pint of whiskey each time. He said he bought one bottle from W. R. Brown, manager of the store, and two from Mithran Jazardunian, a clerk.

50 CENTS A WEEK

ALLOWED FOR THE SUPPORT OF HIS WIFE

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—"If a magistrate ordered a man to pay but fifty cents a week to his wife for her support," said Justice Page yesterday in the supreme court, "it is absurd and I will examine the papers submitted."

Francesco Napoli Calderone was suing for temporary alimony and a fee for her lawyer, pending the trial of her suit for reparation.

Counsel for Calderone surprised the court by announcing that the application should not be entertained for the reason that Magistrate Corrigan in the police court had ordered Calderone to pay his wife fifty cents a week for her support.

"Fifty cents a week!" remarked Justice Page, in evident surprise.

"If a magistrate made such an order," he continued, "it is absurd and I will examine the papers and determine what allowance this plaintiff should have."

Mrs. Calderone set forth she was married to the defendant June 29, 1908; that she was 32 years old, and was a widow when she was married to Calderone. She said she was a widow with several children.

She said that she once found a bank book belonging to her husband which showed that he had $1200 in bank. Calderone set out that he was a lemon peddler, selling from door to door, and making from $2.50 to $3 a week.

BILL PAPKE

TO HAVE FOUR FIGHTS IN AUSTRALIA

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—After a conference between Promoter Hugh McIntosh of Australia and Bill Papke, champion of the world's middleweight title, yesterday, an agreement was drawn up whereby Papke will meet four middleweights in Australia during a period covering not more than 20 weeks.

The four men named are Dave Smith, Arthur Crips, Edward Williams, and O'Donnell, all of whom are practically unknown to Americans. It was also agreed that none of these fighters should weigh more than 165 pounds ringside.

COLLINS & HOGAN'S SALES

Collins & Hogan, real estate and insurance, corner of Central and Market streets, passed deeds transferring a lot of land containing about 5500 square feet on Maple street, owned by Mr. James Everett. The purchaser was Mr. James Wood, who intends to build a three tenement house on this lot.

This firm also sold under a commissioner's sale, by public auction, a farm in the southwestern part of Tyngsboro, known as the Cornell estate, containing sixty-four acres of land, a house, barn and sheds, for the sum of $1350. The assessed value being $1260. Also an acre and 1/4 of land for the sum of $75. The assessed value is $59.

The farm and the acre and 1/4 of land were bought by Mrs. Kate Cornell of Tyngsborough.

SELLING STAKES

BIG EVENT EASILY WON BY PRETEND

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Pretend, backed from 9 to 2, to 18 to 5, easily won the Catskill selling stakes, seven furlongs, here yesterday. He had to be much the best to win, as he was last going down the back stretch, but came with a rush in the final quarter and won by three lengths. He was bid up to $1000 when he was offered for sale. This was an advance of $800 over his entered selling price. The stable protected him by the customary bid of $5. The surprise of the race was the disgraceful performance of Rotigouche, the 7 to 10 favorite. He was thoroughly beaten at the head of the stretch. F. S. E. Randolph claimed Rotigouche out of the race for $2700 and Hildreth in turn claimed Racquet for the same amount.

Spiritualist Left Nothing to the Society

TAUNTON, Aug. 20.—The will of William F. Nye, the eccentric Fairhaven millionaire, was filed yesterday in the registry of probate in this city.

Mr. Nye was the leading figure for many years in the Onset Bay Grove association, the spiritualist meeting place. He gave it financial support for many years, and was himself a firm believer in spiritualism.

It was popularly thought his will would bequeath something to the association, but it did not.

On the contrary, provision is made for the sale of large holdings of his stock in the Grove association and in the New Bedford and Onset Street Railway company and the distribution of the proceeds among relatives and others.

The will filed here reflects the character of the man. The introductory clause directs that his body be cremated as this "assists the spirit in more completely eliminating itself from the past environments and the last kind act is performed that can be done upon dear mother earth in her over-burdened conditions with deceased and decaying mortal and animal forms so contaminating the well springs of the fountains of life to the living."

"Immediate friends or neighbors may scatter my ashes from the road along the old homestead field overlooking the pond and stretch of woodland where I spent my boyhood trapping the wild game."

Another characteristic clause appears in the codicil: "To Reuben Lawrence, I wish presented fifty dollars in gold as a souvenir of my very early memory of his grandfather, Uncle David Lawrence, as the eccentric school master of my father, who when aroused from his slumbers at his desk would exclaim, 'Zounds, boys, go to Eden with your question.'"

The heaviest beneficiary is his son, Joseph Keith Nye, to whom he leaves his Fish Island property with the oil refineries and the balance of his stock in the Grove association and the Onset Street Railway company, after certain blocks have been sold to pay other legacies. Bequests up to $2000 are made to other relatives and to old friends in smaller amounts.

Joseph Keith Nye is made executor and also receives the residue of the estate. The will was drawn July 9, 1910. An official estimate of the estate places its value at a million dollars.

THEATRE VOYONS

If you haven't laughed for a month go to the Theatre Voyons today and see "Willie," a western comedy being shown there and you'll laugh all right. It is one of those comedies which begin with a smile and end with a real loud laugh. Another most interesting picture is a dramatization of one of Emile Zola's best works entitled "The Attack on the Mill." There are plenty of thrilling situations in this picture and an excellent company acting it has taken every advantage of them. Sunday a special concert will be given and the pictures will be not only the newest and best to be had but they will be shown exclusively at the Theatre Voyons. The musical program is pleasing and the well ventilated theatre ensures physical comfort even in the hottest weather. On Monday a special A. O. H. program will be offered.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

Today "St. Elmo" will be presented for the last two times at Lakeview theatre and if large, well pleased houses can be taken as a criterion, then this great book play has been the biggest kind of a success.

The greatest play of the times and the most popular will be the attraction at Lakeview theatre next week, when Eugene Walter's "Paid in Full," with a cast that brings out in the highest degree the superbly dramatic qualities, the human sympathy, that makes the play the most appealing work the stage has seen.

"Paid in Full" comes to us direct from New York and takes the place of the stock company which goes to another of Mr. Flynn's summer parks. This is the first engagement of Mr. Walter's great play that has ever been played at a summer park, and to see this great play acted by a great cast is a treat that should not be missed by any one. Matinees will be given every day except Monday at 2:30, evenings at 8:15, and those wishing to buy seats in advance can secure them at Carter and Sherburne's drug store.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of James A. Garfield W. R. C. 32, G. A. R., met on Thursday night with Mrs. Kilpatrick, president, in the chair. Considerable routine business was transacted. At the annual fair to be held this year in Boston in October, the following ladies will serve at the table of the corps: Mrs. Kilpatrick, Mrs. M. Mrs. Whitney and Mrs. Tuttle.

Sons of Veterans

Camp 75, Sons of Veterans, had its first regular meeting after the summer vacation last night. There was a large attendance of members. General orders were read and it was stated that the division was the largest in its history, over 5000 members. The minutes spoke on the condition of the camp and a lot of work was planned to increase the membership.

FETE CHAMPETRE

PARTY HELD LAST NIGHT AT ST. LOUIS' HALL

An entertaining musical party was held in St. Louis' hall last night for the benefit of the fete champetre. There was a large attendance, and the affair proved to be a social as well as a financial success.

Of course the feature of the evening was the punning of tails on the donkey which furnished plenty of amusement. After all had tried their skill, it was found that Mr. Pierre Faure had come the nearest to placing the tail where it belonged. Miss Monique Harvey was second, and Miss Marianna Piche third, while the fourth prize went to Mr. Martineau. The boobies were given to Miss A. Caron and Mr. Elzevir Vezina.

After the donkey fun was over, a charming musical program was given. Mr. John Lebeau gave a humorous monologue and dance. The Centralville ramoulette and dance. The Jolly Five club sang, and Messrs. George Labrauche and Arcole Brunelle sang comic songs. E. C. Gaudin had charge of the program.

Mrs. Otter J. David and Mrs. Jules Morissette were the organizers of the delightful affair. They were assisted by Messrs. Joseph Masse and Adolphe Bouchard were the judges in the donkey contest.

THE SCENIC THEATRE REMODELED

The Scenic theatre on Middlesex street will open this afternoon after being entirely remodeled. The seating capacity has been increased and the theatre can now accommodate one-third more than formerly. The picture screen has been removed to the back of the theatre, the walls have been covered up with the painter's brush, new lights and a new ventilating system, which will keep the theatre in a very comfortable temperature have been installed.

The entrance to the picture house has been entirely reconstructed and new steel ceilings and side walls have been placed in position. Swinging doors have been put in and in case of danger the theatre can be emptied in less than two minutes. The rear exit leads to Postoffice avenue. New seats which have not been shown in this city, as yet, have been secured by Manager M. J. Murray and the motion pictures to be shown at this house this week will maintain the same high standing as the pictures exhibited at the house last season.

The Scenic theatre is on the list of the best picture theatres in the country and the manager is careful to eliminate anything that might be considered objectionable. Visit the Scenic and see how you like it in its new splendors.

CENTRALVILLE SOCIAL CLUB

The Centralville Social club held a smoke talk last night in aid of the fete champetre. There was a large attendance. David Houde presiding. Speeches and songs were given during the evening, the following contributing to the entertainment: Severin Hobert, president of the committee; Rev. Abbe Fortier, Rosario Lusell, president of the club; Councilman Henry Achin, Jr., Frank McKinnon, Elzevir J. Larochelle, Ludger Carignan, Ernest Perron, Ludger Noel and others. Refreshments were served. The committee in charge consisted of Severin Hobert, Geoffrey Caron, Joseph Payette, David Houde, Camille Desmarais, Joseph Grenier, David Auclair, J. B. de Pontbriand.

BACK TO ENGLAND

Dr. Crippen and His Affinity Start for Liverpool

QUEBEC, Aug. 20.—Dr. Crippen and Miss Ethel Levee were taken from the provincial jail this morning in separate cabs and driven rapidly westward. The couple, in charge of Detectives Dew and Mitchell and the two wardresses, it is understood, will board the Megantic, which touched here early yesterday, and depart at 7 o'clock for Liverpool.

The detectives with Dr. Crippen and Miss Levee will probably meet the Megantic with a tug at Cape Rouge, seven miles from Quebec, on the St. Lawrence river, where the couple can be quietly placed aboard the steamship. Great secrecy was observed by the detectives in removing the prisoners from the jail as it was desired to avoid a demonstration.

DETECTIVE MURDERED

Famous Sleuth Shot to Death at New York Boat House

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—George Gostelli, a New York detective who was well-known for his enormous strength, was murdered early today. He was killed in a fight with a crowd at the landing of the Seawanhaka Yacht club boathouse here. His assailant escaped. Gostelli had been acting as keeper of the boathouse during the summer while he was recuperating from a bullet wound received last spring while chasing a burglar.

Gostelli had had trouble with a crowd of men who were loitering about the boathouse. A week ago he drove them away. Half a dozen of them went to the boathouse last night and again Gostelli drove them away. They returned in a few minutes, one with a shotgun. Three shots were fired, two by the detective's revolver and one from the shotgun. Gostelli fell dead on the wharf. Gostelli came to America several years ago from Denmark. He said little of his past life. He prized greatly a seal ring on which was a coat of arms and was believed here to be a member of a noble family.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The police received reports of an unusual number of accidents caused by falling stages yesterday, although there was only one which resulted fatally.

A platform gave way at 63 Myrtle street, and a skilled workman, Abraham Brothsky, of North Anderson street, fell five stories to the pavement and was almost instantly killed. The body was moved to the North Grove street morgue.

Israel Schechter of 7 Ashland street and Israel Kat of 37 Garden street were on a section of the staging that collapsed, but they jumped to a firmer part and were uninjured.

The relief hospital received several injured men from Lewis street when staging collapsed. The victims were Carl Turley, 39, of 250 Quincy street, who received contusions and a sprained back; Henry James, 23, of 155 Main street, Modford, who sustained contusions and abrasions; John McKee, 29, of 19 Murray street, Watfield, who was thrown into the water, but was taken out practically uninjured; and Ezekiel Hill of 62 Gramplan way, who received slight contusions about the head and neck.

Yesterday morning Joseph Talano of 154 Everett street fell from a staging 20 feet to the ground at the Metropolitan pumping station on Aldis street, near the old Chelsea bridge. He is on the dangerous list at the East Boston Relief hospital.

LIQUOR LICENSE HAS BEEN SUSPENDED FOR THREE DAYS

WORCESTER, Aug. 20.—The liquor license of the E. S. Pierce company, at 69, 71 and 73 Mechanic street, a large wholesale house, was suspended yesterday by the license commissioners for a period of three days as the result of charges preferred against the concern by the police department.

Chief Matthews charged that a driver of the place delivered liquor from his wagon that had not been ordered from the store.

The commissioners held E. S. Pierce, the head of the concern, blameless of any personal violation of the conditions of the license, but held that the concern is responsible for the acts of its employees.

They set forth their decision in the following message to the chief: "Upon complaint of David A. Matthews, chief of police, against E. S. Pierce company, doing business at 69, 71 and 73 Mechanic street, for violation of their license to sell intoxicating liquors in the city of Worcester until May 1, 1911, the board finds the licensees guilty of the violation charged, and by reason of the personal knowledge on the part of the licensees of the unlawful act of its employees, but by reason of the responsibility of the licensees for the acts of their employees, and voted that the license be suspended for three days. In view of the large stock of perishable goods on hand, voted that the period of suspension be from 1 p. m. Saturday, Aug. 20, to 1 p. m. Wednesday, Aug. 24, 1910."

A similar charge against the firm of Sterner & Anderson, doing a wholesale business at 65 1/2 Summer street, was not sustained by the evidence given at the hearing, although the commissioners sent an official warning to the licensees to keep their delivery sheets more accurately.

CARRYING A FAD TOO FAR

Trees about one's place are very beautiful and serviceable, but sometimes they are apt to be dangerous, particularly when we have too many of them. A few trees about a place serve to shade the premises in very hot weather, but it would be better to have no trees at all than to have too much shade.

All physicians and sanitary engineers agree that it is impossible to keep a dwelling house healthful and sanitary without a reasonable amount of sunlight. It is an old saying: "If the sunlight does not enter a house the doctor surely will." Nevertheless, we find thoughtless people protesting against cutting down shade trees in front of premises whose occupants are suffering for want of sunlight to drive out dampness and disease germs which always lurk where the sun does not enter. We have had several instances of this short-sightedness in our city, notably on Nesmith street which has altogether too many shade trees, and the result is a street that is hardly ever free from dampness. Not only are the trees in this street and many other streets of the city a menace to the health of the people residing under their crowded branches, but the trees themselves become diseased because they are set too close together. All this comes from setting out young trees improperly. While the trees are young, of course, they have no ill effect upon the adjoining premises nor upon one another, but when they attain full size they damage one another as well as the adjoining property.

Anyone who is competent to talk on the subject of shade trees will agree that large shade trees should be set at least thirty feet apart, otherwise they will become diseased in a short time after reaching full size. This is the deplorable state of affairs on Nesmith street, Chestnut street, and many other streets in our city, and worst of all, in a few years these streets will be entirely destitute of trees, unless the present rotting shade trees are thinned out so as to be about thirty feet apart.

Many people protest against taking down shade trees, because they don't want to lose them, but there is another side to the question. Common sense should govern this as well as all other propositions.

CITY CHARTER REFORM

The cities of the west are rapidly adopting the commission form of charter and with the most gratifying results. The old style of charter such as hampers our own city is condemned as cumbersome, a hindrance to the free and unobstructed transaction of business, a block to progress, the nursery of graft and a remnant of bygone days that should be thrown aside.

The cities that have adopted the new form of charter are prospering as they could never have done under the old and hide bound instruments which they discarded.

The new charters are of the Des Moines style or a modification thereof. They do away with the double chamber, provide for a small council with legislative and executive powers. By this means the transaction of business is facilitated and responsibility is centered so that if things are done right the people know where the credit lies and if wrong they know equally where to place the blame.

The city of Chelsea is making wonderful progress under the commission form of government. There is no chance for the deadlock so frequent under our charter.

With the three branches the chief executive, the upper and lower boards, valuable time is lost in bringing about an agreement on certain measures. What originates in one board is regarded with suspicion by the other board and then the latter retaliates in rejecting measures sent to it for concurrence. When both boards concur, the mayor may dissent and then there is more wrangling, more delay. Furthermore, it is very seldom that any measure passed by the city council in its present form represents the best judgment of both bodies. There is a lack of that calm and unselfish deliberation that characterizes the acts of a small governing body.

If Lowell is to get out of her present difficulties and to secure an up-to-date progressive method of doing business she must put aside the present antiquated charter and adopt one that will provide for a single chamber vested with all the powers now exercised by the mayor and city council.

For years certain necessary reforms and improvements have been advocated but with the deadlocking of the city council branches or committees thereof, nothing has been done and nothing can be done. Had we a single chamber made up of business men the city's business would be disposed of with ability and despatch instead of being held up by the wrangles, the political scheming and needless dickerings of the bicameral council or some of its committees. It is a fact patent to every citizen that under our present system we cannot elect men of the highest ability to office. This in itself is an evil that should bring about a change in the charter at the earliest possible opportunity which of course cannot be before next year. We want a charter that will secure the very best men we can find to transact the city's business, one that will do away with deadlocks that block business however urgent and that will at the same time conserve the city's best interests in every direction.

As to the real form of charter, if the commission idea be not favored let it be a modification in the direction of simplicity, despatch and reliability. These changes can be secured only by a single chamber of moderate size on which power and responsibility will be firmly centered so that the citizens will have no difficulty in placing responsibility where it belongs, rewarding the good and punishing the bad. Our present system scatters responsibility and power so that there is conflict of authority and no matter what happens the people are practically without a remedy unless where evidence of corruption or conspiracy can be proved. It is not alone necessary that public officials be honest and upright, it is also necessary that they be men of sound business judgment, that they possess more than average executive ability, with some experience to fit them for public office. It is impossible to secure a council of such men under our present charter.

SEEN AND HEARD

An insurance company, in which you have to die to win, is a pretty little publication, sort of a magazine, containing among other things, hopeful verses which flow along with the "be happy and live long" swing, and by the time a fellow gets through reading those little "elixirs of life" he feels that his life insurance policy is a luxury rather than a necessity.

She came back to Lowell from Bass Point, bringing with her pleasant memories of a vacation delightfully spent and the dearest and tenderest of all her recollections had to do with a very nice young man. She knew that it was foolish of her to continue to think of him; it was only a chance acquaintance, made in the same old seashore way, but the harder she tried to forget the harder it was to forget, and she lapsed into a state of absent-mindedness that was embarrassing to say the least. The climax was reached while the girl, trying hard to forget, was on a Pawtucketville car. She was accompanied by her sister, and the latter motioned the conductor to stop the car. The absent-minded sister observed the motion and still thinking of Bass Point and the new, quick love that filled her heart, stepped from the car while it was in motion. For a few minutes the poor girl's mind was relieved of all thoughts of Bass Point and its masculine attraction, and by the time she had collected her parcels and her scattered senses, likewise a shoe which came off in the mixup, she vowed that she would forget Bass Point and all that went with it, or die in the attempt.

The bell-hopper was leaning on the counter in the office of a local hotel, working a toothpick overtime, when a traveler came in and, addressing the boy, said, "What are your rates?" The boy gave the toothpick an extra push and replied, "I got nine dollars a week and my board I don't know what the other fellows get."

"I'm afraid," he said, "your father would never give his consent to our marriage."

"Oh, I am quite sure he would be willing to listen to reason," she replied.

"Your mother never has seemed to like me very well."

"I can't understand why you should think that. Mamma has always said she thought you were a very nice fellow."

"I fear you would not like my family."

"I think your father and mother are both as nice as can be."

"You know I couldn't support you in the style to which you have been accustomed."

"I shouldn't mind that in the least. Luxury has ceased to have charms for me."

"It will probably be impossible for me to afford even a cook."

"I have always thought that it would be so lovely to have a cook little home, where I might do the cooking myself."

THINGS TO FORGET

If you see a tall fellow ahead of a crowd—

A leader of men marching fearless and proud—

And you know of a tale whose mere telling alone—

Would cause his proud head to in anguish be bowed,

It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a skeleton hidden away

In a closet, and guarded and kept from the day

In the dark, and whose showing, whose sudden display—

Would cause grief and sorrow and life-long dismay,

It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a thing that will darken the joy

Of a man or a woman, a girl or a boy,

That will win out a smile or the least way annoy—

A fellow, or cause any gladness to cloy,

It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

George Clinton Batcheller pleasantly scored the man who says he never read advertisements in a brilliant and witty address to advertising men, at Ashbury Park a few days ago. "This man never believed in ads or ad men," he said.

BEEF TRUST OFFICIALS ESCAPE PUNISHMENT FOR BURNING BOOKS

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Despite the fact that Alfred R. Urien, general counsel for Armour & Co., and president of the Chicago school board, and three other Armour officials have been freed from blame for the burning of the stenographic notebooks wanted by the prosecution in connection with the trial of the big packing companies, the interest in the trial continues. Among the witnesses examined in connection with the disappearance of the notebooks was Miss Maud I. Dimock, for seven years the private secretary of Arthur Meeker, general manager and director of Armour & Co. She failed to remember about any event that the court was anxious to learn of and proved a most unwilling witness. When all the persons connected with the burning of the books had been examined Judge Kenesaw M. Landis dismissed the contempt proceedings against Urien and the others.

"No, sir," he never read an ad in all his born days. This was his boast, and he had said it so often he believed it to be true—and he kept on saying it. Then he got out of an advertised bed. Took a bath with advertised soap. Put on an advertised collar and tie. Pulled on a pair of advertised shoes. Hitched up his trousers with advertised suspenders. Sat down to eat an advertised breakfast food. Drank two cups of advertised coffee, putting in four lumps of advertised sugar. Went to his office in an advertised taxicab. Looked in the advertising column of a paper for an advertised play. Sent for tickets to an advertised agency. Called on his wife on an advertised telephone. Put on an advertised hat. After the show went out to an advertised restaurant. Drank an advertised wine. Smoked an advertised cigar—and yet, he never read an advertisement in all his life. Well, maybe he didn't, but after this one day's doing I must say I don't believe him. Do you? Of course you don't. How could you?"

Whereupon the king smiled sweetly. The secretary had struck a responsive chord, for George V is in fact the first philatelist of the country. His unrivaled collection is valued at many thousands of pounds. It contains practically every stamp since 1840, the date of Rowland Hill's inauguration, not only of England and the British colonies, but of every country that ever issued a postage stamp.

The new British stamp will, it is said, soon appear, and, of course, it will bear the effigy of George V in profile, but turned in the opposite direction to that of Edward VII. The postage has its established customs. One of these is that two kings, one following another, must not face in the same direction.

While the Republic of Liberia is attracting some little of the world's attention one may recall that there still lives, in a quiet street off Battersea park, a remarkable old lady, Mrs. Jane Roberts, the widow of Joseph J. Roberts, who was elected the first president of Liberia in 1847. Mrs. Roberts was born in America in 1818, the daughter of a Baptist minister named Waring, and went to Liberia with her parents (both octogenarians) in 1824. She married Roberts in 1836, and accompanied him on numerous visits to Europe. She visited most of the European courts in the fifties, and knew Napoleon III rather intimately. Mrs. Roberts lived for over seventy years in Liberia before going to end her days in London.

IN A HENHOUSE

A Quantity of Liquor Was Found

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 20.—The most of the day in the supreme court yesterday was taken up with minor and minor cases. From appearances nearly every one of those indicted on the charge of liquor selling will demand a jury trial, and prominent lawyers have been retained for the defense.

The first trial yesterday was that of George Perry of Bangor, who has a place on Lower Union street. Several gentlemen testified that they found a "hide" in the ground just outside of his shop covered with boards, from which they took 16 pints of whiskey. They said they had searched Perry's place several times, but found no liquor, although glasses found had an odor of whiskey and many men were seen going in and out of the place.

Perry went on the stand in his own defense. He said he had seen the "hide," but did not know to whom it belonged and that it was not his. Half a dozen other places, he added, opened into the same backyards. He said he had not sold any liquor.

The jury brought in a verdict of guilty.

Sturgea Deputies Towne, Lucas Clifford and Fernald were the principal witnesses in a liquor case against William Smith of Oldtown, who kept a hotel in Milford. The deputies said that they followed a wheelbarrow track to a henhouse and found 90 bottles of ale and some whiskey. The defense was a denial of ownership. A verdict of not guilty was returned.

Nicholas Manichals and Ralph Letour were before the court charged with assault upon Cleveland McCarthy, colored. The alleged affray took place in Bangor, Me. The indictment against Letour was not prosed. Manichals retracted his plea of not guilty and was sent to jail for three months.

Richard Ambrose of Bangor, said to have secured a pugilist under the name of Kid Blech, indicted on the charge of stealing a suit of clothes from a freight train caboose at Millinocket, retracted a plea of not guilty and was sent to jail for nine months.

POLITICAL POT

Is Boiling Hot in Maine These Days

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 20.—The rock ribbed republican state of Maine is trembling in the political balance. The state election is to be held Sept. 12, at which time a governor, four representatives and a state legislature, which is to choose a United States senator as successor to Senator Eugene Hale, are to be elected, and at the same time the history of the state since the days of the Greenback party has the outlook for republican success appeared more gloomy. For the first time in 30 years interests. There must be a process of evolution before nationhood is reached.

"Nor have we the true national spirit. One proof of this is found in the fact that some of our public men, as well as publicists advocate further assistance to the mother country in contributing to a navy and advocating money contributions, while neglecting or overlooking their own home needs. The true policy that made for imperial greatness was the policy of building up the component parts of the empire."

The speaker then dwelt at length with the four possible destinies of Canada, namely, remaining in the position in which she is at present, which he regarded as very improbable; imperial federation, which would be an unwieldy and unworkable condition; annexation with the United States, and independence.

"Imperial federation means an imperial council with a preponderant British influence," said Mr. Bourassa. "Conditions today in Canada make for annexation rather than for imperial federation. The present influence of trade by rail and coastal lines, the mental propensity of the two peoples living under the same or similar conditions, industrial and social, the constant inter-communication of Canadians and Americans, are all powerful factors making for annexation."

SCOVINO GUILTY MERRIMACK RIVER

Sent to Prison for From 15 to Is Not Exceptionally Low at the 25 Years Present Time

FITCHBURG, Aug. 20.—Lorenzo Scovino, who was indicted by the grand jury this week on charges of felonious assault, assault with intent and breaking and entering and larceny, was yesterday afternoon found guilty by a jury in the superior court on all three indictments.

Just before adjournment of court yesterday afternoon Asst. Dist. Atty. James A. Stiles moved for sentence and Judge Fessenden sentenced Scovino to state prison at Charlestown for not more than 25 years and not less than 15 years, the first day to be in solitary confinement.

Scovino did not testify in his own behalf. He claimed that he was innocent of the crimes charged against him and said that he did not know anything about any of them.

After he was sentenced he said that he would not live over a month in prison, stating that he would end his life the first chance that he got.

Scovino was arrested by Patrolman Godley in this city on July 20. On that day it is alleged that he attempted to assault Lottie Anderson, aged 13 years. After his arrest Mrs. Hilma Luoma called at the police station and identified Scovino, saying he had assaulted her.

On June 28 the house of Leon Hayes of Westminister was broken into and a watch, ring, cap and suit of clothes were taken. When Scovino was arrested Hayes identified a suit of clothes and a ring found on the defendant as property which was stolen from his house. Scovino claimed that he got the property in Boston. Scovino is 34 years old and came to this city from Haverhill only a short time ago.

A jury yesterday afternoon heard evidence in the indictment against Walter J. Lawler of Boston, charged with larceny of $150 from George Anderson at Worcester on May 14. Lawler pleaded not guilty. He conducted his own case. Testimony was offered that Lawler with three other men entered the store of Anderson at Worcester late at night and that when the clerks were absent went to the safe, removed a cash drawer containing $150 in bills and several dollars in silver and ran from the place.

Lawler claimed that he had a wife and child living in Boston, who were dependent upon his support. He admitted being in Worcester with the three other men, but denied that he got any of the money.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty against him and he was sentenced to the house of correction for 15 months.

Louis Marion of Boston, who was jointly indicted with Lawler, pleaded guilty to larceny of $100 from George Anderson at Worcester. His case was continued until the October term for sentence.

Charles Aimentis of Hardwick was found guilty by a jury yesterday afternoon on a charge of breaking and entering and larceny of a watch at Hardwick. He was sentenced to the Concord reformatory.

John Johnson, who has been found guilty of attempting to commit larceny from the person of Frank L. Tatro in this city on June 11, was called for sentence by Dist. Atty. Taft, but owing to the fact that the defendant claimed that he could prove that he was not a pickpocket and that he was never associated with John Carr, an alleged pickpocket, the court continued the case until Monday to allow him time to collect his proofs.

With regard to the extremely low mark reached by the water of Lake Winnepesaukee this year, a mark considered by many in a position to know to be the lowest ever reached by the water of the lake, there are several explanations, and among others that of Civil Engineer Henry W. Allen of the Ameskeag Manufacturing company of Manchester, N. H., seems most plausible.

Mr. Allen states that the principal reason for the shallowness of the lake is the decided meagreness of the rainfall in that section for three consecutive years past. The fall throughout this part of the state has been very inconsiderable and as a result the influx to the lakes and rivers has been constantly diminishing until at the present time it is practically at a minimum.

In 1903, the rainfall at the lake was 23.3 inches, which with the exception of the year 1894, is absolutely the lowest in 50 years, and no less than 10.33 inches below the average amount of rainfall for that period of time. In 1900 the rainfall was 37.14 inches at Lake Winnepesaukee, which mark is 5.28 inches below the average for the half century. This year, while the exact amount of rainfall has not been ascertained to a nicety, the total precipitation of moisture is known to be far below the ordinary fall, perhaps as far from the average as that of the preceding dry years. Thus it is easy to deduce that where the amount of rainfall, which is one of the chief sources of augmentation for streams and bodies of water, is so very small, the depletion of the lake or river will take place at a more rapid rate than the rate of supply, evaporation alone figuring appreciably in the lowering process.

In Manchester the same low amounts of rainfall are remarked for the past years. The fall of 1903 was 34.07 inches, which is 4.89 inches less than the average for the past 28 years. In 1900, 35.66 inches of rain fell in Manchester, or an amount which fell short of the usual by 3.20 inches. For the present year up to the first of August, 20.08 inches of rain was the record at Manchester, which makes the mark of 1910 up to the present date about 1.78 inches under the ordinary.

Another reason, and a potent one why there is not an abundance of water in New Hampshire's beautiful lake is the fact that there was a surprisingly small amount of snowfall during the past winter, which resulted in a correspondingly small amount of spring run-off water, a twofold factor in determining the water mark of any basin. In consequence of the light fall of snow, light in weight as well as in color hue, the lake was given a poor start in the spring and never had an opportunity to literally "catch up" to its ordinary volume. Had there been a copious rainfall after the small amount of snowfall, or had there been an abundant fall of snow and a dearth of rain, the lake would probably have held its usual amount of water, or would not have descended to such an unusually low level.

In spite of reports to the contrary, the Merrimack river is not exceptionally low and there are entertained no fears regarding the water power necessary to run the mills. It is, however, a stern fact that Lake Winnepesaukee has reached one of the lowest water marks on record.

A contemplation of this topic leads one on to conjecture what might be the result if the New Hampshire hills and mountains are denuded of their glorious trees. Spain was once a country of trees. Every hill and knoll was crowned with stately trees and all was well with the people. Lack of knowledge and foresight, however, allowed the inhabitants to cut down these gifts of nature, injudiciously, indiscriminately and today Spain in many parts is a sun-baked country, where rains are infrequent and where the rain, when it descends, meets with no controlling elements and tears down the hillsides and mountainsides overflowing the lakes and rivers, causing them to inundate the land temporarily only, to dry up with the cease of the downfall and remain in drouth until the next period of showers, a deplorable condition.

Whether the slogan "Spare the trees" is called for the case of Lake Winnepesaukee is a matter yet to be learned, but it is true that now is the time for the New Hampshire people to act on the subject of conserving their arboreal treasures, for the state is really

STILPHUR, Okla., Aug. 20.—It was brought out yesterday in the testimony of J. F. McMurray, before the congressional committee investigating Indian land affairs, that he held as many as half a dozen contracts with the Indians for legal services, all covering the same period of time.

Mr. McMurray testified that for general services he had two contracts with the Chickasaws at $5000 a year each; two with the Choctaws at $5000 a year each; another contract for special service at a fee of $15,000, only $5,000 of which was paid; a yearly expense allowance of $2700 under one contract and other general expenses amounting to $150,000. All of this money was in addition to the $750,000 allowed his law firm as a contingent fee in the citizenship cases, and in addition also to the contracts by which he now seeks to obtain 10 per cent of $3,000,000 as a contingent fee on the sale of $30,000,000 worth of land.

Asked by Representative Miller of Minnesota whether his work had not tended to lead the Indians away from a close relationship with the government, Mr. McMurray said he always had done his utmost to bring the Indians and the government together.

It was also shown that the Indians had employed other attorneys besides McMurray, each tribe paying $5000 a year, and one of the tribes paying $12,000 a year for special counsel.

THE NEGRO LEAGUE

Pledges Its Support to Roosevelt for Third Term

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The support of the negro electorate of the United States for a possible third term was pledged to Col. Roosevelt yesterday by the 1100 delegates of the National negro business men's league here in convention.

The endorsement of the ex-president came after he had addressed the delegates on the opportunities for advancement open to the colored race in this country, and as the climax of an earnest and eloquent eulogy of his conduct in office made by Bishop Clinton of this city.

Recalling the words of the former executive that he would not be the one "to close the door of hope in the face of a man because his skin happened to be black," Bishop Clinton expressed the gratitude of all negroes for the courage which this attitude of the then president had given to those of his race, and closed by assuring Col. Roosevelt that in whatever "promotion" in public life he might seek, he would always find the negro element solidly allied in his support.

The cheering which greeted this declaration had hardly abated when Booker T. Washington, chairman of the meeting, advanced to the front of the platform and urged that all in sympathy with the sentiment expressed by Bishop Clinton rise to their feet. The entire assemblage rose amid renewed cheering.

In his address Col. Roosevelt urged his hearers to practice the doctrine of self help. Col. Roosevelt said in part: "The white man of the south is the vital man to have sympathy with the negro. When your neighbor likes and respects you, you have won your battle. The white man of the north does his worst work in interfering between the two peoples of the south and his best work when he improves their relations."

"I would not slur over the injustice with which good colored men are treated, but I feel that the really substantial way of conquering injustice is to train your people so that the white man will, willy nilly, recognize in his colored neighbor a desirable neighbor."

"Every down-at-the-heel, ramshackle negro cabin is not only bad for the people who live in it, but is a reflection on the race. The man who lives a never-do-well life of idleness is doing not only ill to himself, but to his people."

"I believe in this league. As I wrote five years ago when I was president, I believe in it because it is out of politics. You also stimulate among your people principles of business enterprise. That is well. You recognize that you should build a firm foundation before you can erect your superstructure."

"In Mombassa we were shown much courtesy by an American colored man who was serving there as a doctor. At a government experiment station I found a Jamaica negro in charge. An abnegate of nearly 10,000 years seemed to separate these two men from the naked savage I had seen—yet the abyss was not more than 200 years."

"In your advance there have been haltings and shortcomings, shortcomings on the part of the whites as well as on your part. Nevertheless, there has been progress. The interests of good citizenship have advanced. There is improvement in the attitude of the two races toward each other."

"It takes some time to make a reformer think that an outlook is not one of unalloyed gloom. You sometimes see a reformer who thinks if he says a good word about anything he will be set down as a hopeless reactionary."

"You colored men and women must set your faces like flint against those who would preach to you only the gospel of hate, envy and bitterness. Realize that the only way to help your race is not by preaching vindictiveness and hatred, but by leading your people up to prosperity through good citizenship."

Fire Followed Causing $6000 Damage

SOMERSWORTH, N. H., August 20.—Fire which followed the explosion of a lamp in the basement of Martell's department store, just before midnight last night resulted in damage of upwards of $6,000 to the stock and fixtures of the several stores which are located in the central block on Main street. The fire worked its way into the partitions and was a hard one to fight. Considerable damage was from water.

Astor's 157th avenue address.

OUT OF COMMISSION

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Aug. 20.—The "Flying Fish," the Burgess biplane which has several times been wrecked in the trials at Plum Island, was put out of commission again last night when John G. Stratton, after testing the machine out on Sharp turning for more than an hour, was preparing the machine for a flight which was to be made by Walter H. Bowman, of Boston. All was in readiness for the flight when a connecting rod broke and smashed one of the propeller blades. As the machine was on the ground at the time, no one was injured, but it will be out of commission until a new engine can be secured.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT STARTS FIVE THOUSAND MILE JOURNEY

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The itinerary of Col. Roosevelt's trip west has been issued from the press, and when the party starts next Tuesday morning for Ulta the eyes of a great part of the United States will be turned toward the places he will visit. Of course the first importance will be his utterances on things political, but he is to make special speeches in the course of his journey which will probably have little midnight Wednesday, Aug. 24, Buffalo, bearing on national affairs. A look at the map will convince one that the former president is not going to be satisfied to "sling around the circle," as President Taft several times said. He has assumed office, but that Mr. Roosevelt plans to "cut across the country" by day with his bronchos, leave Cheyenne, cross-country and retracing his route 825 a. m. ## CURED MY BABY OF ITCHING ECZEMA

First Came when 3 or 4 Weeks Old; Used Everything Imaginable. Nose and Eyes Nothing but Sores. Two Cakes Cuticura Soap and One Box Cuticura Ointment Cured.

I can't tell in words how happy the word "Cuticura" sounds to me, for it cured my baby of itching, torturing eczema. It first came when she was between three and four weeks old, appearing on her head. I used everything imaginable and had one doctor's bill after another; but nothing cured it. Then the eczema broke out so badly behind her ear that I really thought her ear would come off. For months I doctored it but to no avail. Then it began at her nose and her eyes were nothing but sores. I had to keep her in a dark room for two weeks. The doctor did no good, so I stopped him coming. For about two weeks I had used Cuticura Soap for her every day, then I got a box of Cuticura Ointment and began to use that. In a week there was a marked improvement. In all I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and my baby was cured of the sores. This was last November; now her hair is growing out nicely and she has not a scar on her. I can not praise Cuticura enough, I can take my child anywhere and people are amazed to see her without a sore. From the time she was four weeks old until she was three years, she was never without the terrible eruption but now, thanks to Cuticura, I have a well child.

BOY WAS KILLED

His Life Was Crushed Out by a Heavy Girder

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—Knocked down by a wooden roller on which a 2500-pound girder rested, the girder being pulled at the same time by two horses, little Thomas Burns, his life crushed out at 6.30 last evening, the roller and girder passing over his body before anyone discovered his plight.

A team owned by F. Knight & Son and driven by Leander C. Kellough, loaded with seven steel girders, attempted to pull into Douglas place, Roxbury, from Webster street, when the wheels stuck in the mud. The girders were to be dumped in the junk yard of Mark Angel, which fronts on Douglas place.

Unable to make any headway, the driver, assisted by helpers from the junk concern, directed the girders into the street, and placing rollers under them commenced to pull them sepa-

THE ALDERMEN GOING TO CAMP

Made Changes in the Polling Places

It is not very often that a meeting of either branch of the city council is held on a Saturday, but today proved the exception. The aldermen met this afternoon for the purpose of approving the list of jurors for the city of Lowell for the year 1910 and to take action on the order having to do with the location of polling places.

Ald. Gray called to order at 2.15. Department monthly reports were received and some minor petitions referred to the proper committees.

The list of jurors was approved as was also the order having to do with the location of polling places. Eight changes were made in the polling places. The changes were as follows:

Precinct 3 of ward 1, changed from Ninth street, corner of Bridge street to Jewett and Bridge streets.

Precinct 1 of ward 2, from Tremont, corner of Merrimack to Colburn and Merrimack.

Precinct 3 of ward 3, from the Junction of Westford and Pine streets to Wilder street opposite the Highland school.

Precinct 1, ward 6, from West Clark street, corner of Fletcher, to Clark and Concord streets; two of ward 6 from 438 Bridge street to West Sixth street, opposite the pumping station.

Precinct 3, ward 7, from Riverside street, corner of Mammoth road to Riverside street, between M. Hope and Plymouth streets.

Precinct 3, ward 8, from Lincoln street, near Quebec street, to Lincoln street, north corner of Main street.

Likely to Win the Big Race

BRIGHTON BEACH, N. Y., Aug. 20.—With a lead of 67 miles at the end of the 16th hour and swinging along at a mile a minute the Stearns car driven by Patschke and Poole appeared to have the 24 hour motor race ending at 8.30 tonight virtually won. The only accident of the day was when the Marion car crashed through a fence and injured its driver, Wally Owen, and the mechanic, Williams.

It has been demonstrated, and has been particularly demonstrated at some of the parks of the Boston & Northern system last year, that if the horses are left entirely alone they will make their drive more than once. They enjoy their drive into the water of the pond as much as a boy in summer enjoys his plunge into the swimming hole.

The horses have just completed a highly successful week at the Pines, Haverhill.

COL. ROOSEVELT DENIES THAT HE SENT ULTIMATUM TO TAFT

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Theodore Roosevelt denied today that he had sent an ultimatum to President Taft demanding that the president break with Vice President Sherman. The colonel said that he had not sent Mr. Griceom or anyone to Beverly on any mission.

CRUISER DAMAGED

VALIJO, Cal., Aug. 20.—The armored cruiser South Dakota broke from its moorings at Mare Island today, colliding with the naval tug Unadilla and coming to a stop in the mud flats.

A hole was made in the Unadilla's side and her deck sprung. The South Dakota was slightly damaged.

MILK INVESTIGATION

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Attorney General O'Malley has sent copies of his report to the legislature on the milk investigation to Commissioner Pruett of the inter-state commerce commission, holding a hearing in Boston on railroad milk rates.

REVOLUTION ENDED

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20.—Cablegrams received this morning from Bluefields by local steamship companies state that the revolution in Nicaragua has ended and that the Madrid and Estrada factions have agreed upon terms of peace.

HELP WANTED

POSTOFFICE CLERKS AND CARRIERS WANTED.—Examinations will be held in Lowell and many other cities in November. Uncle Sam is best employer; pay is high and sure; hours short; places permanent; promotions regular; vacations with pay; thousands of vacancies every month; all kinds of pleasant work everywhere; no last offers; no pull needed; common education sufficient. Ask for free booklet R. Q. 125 giving full particulars and explaining all offers of position or money back. Earl Hopkins, Washington, D. C.

THE DIVING HORSES

It was a source of great disappointment last year to the people of this section that it was impossible to make an arrangement with the famous diving horses to give their performances at the Boston & Northern Street Railway company, however, has been able to induce their manager to bring them back this year and they will make their first appearance at Lakewood park this season next Monday afternoon and will there every afternoon and evening during the week, giving absolutely free exhibitions.

The horses are two magnificent white Joseph Halligan left today for South Barnard, N. H., where he will remain until Labor Day.

Mr. John Leary, of Newark, N. J., has returned home after a visit, and will visit at the home of his wife, Mrs. Daniel Lyons, 25 Cross street. Mrs. Nellie Lyons accompanied him to Newark.

Mrs. A. F. Sully and Mrs. C. G. Thibault are spending their vacation at York beach.
